BOY HERO TELLS HOW 5 CHILDREN FROZE IN BUS

Stalled Near Towner, Colo., in Blizzard They Burned Books and Seats in Cream Can, Then Huddled Together to Keep Warm.

DRIVER WHO WENT FOR AID FOUND DEAD

Lad, 13, Left in Charge, Took Off Clothes to Cover Brother—15 Survivors Rescued but Recovery Is Problematical.

By the Associated Press.

TOWNER, Colo., March 28.—Physicians worked tonight to save the lives of 15 children suffering from pneumonia or severe frostbite which has caused the death of five of a bus load of 20 school children marooned for 36 hours in a blizzard, and of the driver.

Carl Miller, the driver, lost his life in a vain effort to obtain help for his charges. His body was found tonight less than three miles from the bus, which he had abandoned after instructing the children regarding precautions to prevent death from freezing.

Two airplanes today carried five of the victims to a Lamar, Colo., hospital.

The recovery of the children now under treatment at Lamar, and of 10 being cared for in their homes or in a Holly, Colo., hospital, is problematical.

Rescuers Reach Party.

The children were found last night by Jesse Rheinhetz, a ranchman, who was seeking lost cattle. Efforts of parents of the boys and girls, ranging from 8 to 15 years old, to find the bus had proved futile.

Two doctors, aided by crews of workmen, later fought their way through snow drifts to the isolated ranch house from Holly and Tribune, Kan. The doctors gave first aid and the children were removed.

The children who were frozen to death are Louise Stonebreaker, 15; Robert Brown, 11; Kenneth Johnson, 8; Orlo Untiedt, 8, and Mary Miller, 7, daughter of the bus driver.

The children undergoing treatment at Lamar are Blanche Stonebreaker, 13; Alice Hussaker, 14; Rosemary Brown, 13; Charles Hussaker, 12, and Bryan Untiedt, 13.

Maude Moser, the teacher of the children, for a time thought to be lost in the storm, was found safe late today in a farmhouse near the school. She had started to walk home in the blizzard but had taken refuge in the farmhouse.

Burned Books and Kept Moving.

Bryan Untiedt, whose brother, Orlo, was one of those who froze to death, told his story of the tragedy today from his bed in the Rheinhetz home. He is suffering from pneumonia and may not live.

"We left the Towner schoolhouse at 9 o'clock Thursday morning, when the school was closed because of the storm," Bryan said. "Carl Miller, the driver, didn't want to start. About seven miles from the school the storm got so bad we couldn't see and Miller tried to start back. There were no fences or roads to follow, as the snow was several feet deep, and the bus finally wouldn't budge. We were about three miles from the school, I think. Miller drained the truck and got an old cream can which he used for a stove. We burned all our books and tablets and finally put the seats of the bus in the can and set them afire.

Lost Lunches in Snow.

"Our lunches were upset and fell into the snow when the bus crashed through a fence and stopped, and so we didn't have much left. Miller said we were up against it and asked us to sing and wrestle to keep warm—anything to keep moving.

"We stayed in the bus all night Thursday and at daybreak we found Louise Stonebraker had died during the night. Miller was wet clear through to his skin, took a sheepskin coat and started out in the snow for help. He left me in chage of the bus and said not to let anybody go to sleep.

"'Good-by kids,' Miller said, 'and pray that I will come back with help.' He waved at us and soon disappeared. A short time later Mary Miller, who was huddled in

HOOVER ON LAST DAY AT SEA SPINS YARNS WITH NEWSMEN

President, in Deck Chair, Recalls Experiences as Director of Belgian Relief.

By the Associated Press.

U. S. S. ARIZONA, March 28.—Returning from the American West Indies, President Hoover spent this, his last day on the high seas, in rest and reminiscence preparatory to his return to the White House Monday.

Although he has kept in touch with Washington, he restricted business throughout the trip to discussion of the problems in Porto Rico and the Virgin Islands. Even that was forgotten today as he spun war-time yarns with newspaper men on the quarter deck in the shade of the big guns.

The party sat in deck chairs while the President recalled his experiences as director of Belgian relief. He spent the afternoon at ease in expectation of disembarking at Hampton Roads, Va., in time to reach Washington several hours before midnight tomorrow.

TWO NEW YORK PATROLMEN FIRED IN VICE 'FRAME' CASES

Commissioner Says He Made Decision Because Men Refused to Answer Questions.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, March 28.—Two vice squad patrolmen, Edgar P. McFarland and William B. Lewis, indicted on charges of criminal attack and felonious assault in connection with their activities in arresting women, were dismissed from the department today by Police Commissioner Mulrooney.

Their departmental trial was concluded yesterday. The Commissioner said his action was taken because of the refusal of the patrolmen to answer questions before the magistrates' courts inquiry. Their indictment resulted from their treatment of Mrs. Genevieve Potocki and Mrs. Mary Barry, alleged to have been "framed" by the patrolmen.

BALCHEN ON WAY HOME AFTER HUNT FOR VIKING VICTIMS

Reaches St. John, N. B., With Two Companions; No Trace of Disaster Found.

By the Associated Press.

ST. JOHN, N. B., March 28.—Returning from an unsuccessful search by airplane of the ice floes off Horse Island for Varick Frissell and other victims of the Viking disaster, Bernt Balchen arrived at the airport tonight from Corner Brook, N. F.

He planned to remain here overnight and take off for Boston, the starting point of his flight, tomorrow morning. With Balchen were Randy Enslow and Merian Cooper, his companions on the reconnaissance flights off New Foundland. The three making their base at Corner Brook, made several flights over the scene of the disaster, and along the coast line for many miles but found no trace of the Viking victims.

Their trip was made at the request of Dr. Louis Frissell, father of the young movie producer who organized the expedition.

Hot Wine Baths in Hungary.

ECSENY, Hungary, March 29.—Hot wine baths for 17 cents a dip have been installed here as a means of getting rid of two years' accumulation of vintages, unsalable because of unemployment and changing drink habits. Besides immersion in the beverage, bathers also may have a hot pack in "grape cakes," made of what is left of the husks and seeds after the wine has been pressed out.

HOLDUP SUSPECT FIRES AUTO, KILLS SELF AFTER CHASE

Carpenter Apparently Shot by Alton Filling Station Owner Who Pursued Him in Machine.

The burned body of an East Alton carpenter, said by Illinois officials, to have set fire to his car and killed himself after being wounded fleeeing from a holdup, was found near Brighton, Ill., eight miles north of Alton, late yesterday afternoon.

The body was identified by relatives as that of Isaac Ford of East Alton. The automobile was Ford's, The holdup victim identified a picture of Ford as that of the man who robbed him, and a farewell note scribbled on Ford's automobile identification card, was found in a glove 10 feet from the burning coupe.

The note read: "Mom: Sorry I caused you all the trouble I have. Good-by."

The robbed filling station proprietor was Charles Yancey, who operates an accessory store and station at 2700 East Brown street, Alton. Yancey told police he recognized the robber as the man who held up the place twice before in the past month.

Took $10 from Register.

Taking all the money in the cash register, about $10, the robber ordered Yancey and a clerk into the lavatory, warning them not to come out, and saying, "There wasn't much money in that register. I'll be back in a week and you'd better have more then."

Yancey came out of the lavatory and seibed a shotgun, which he was keeping in the station for just such an occasion. He saw the robber turning a corner a block away and commandeered an automobile which had just driven into the station. The driver stopped a short distance behind the robber and Yancey, jumping from the running board, fired at him.

The robber fell, police were told, but scrambled to his feet and ran after firing a shot in return. Yancey remounted the running board and was driven close enough to get another shot at the fugitive. He apparently hit the robber again, Yancey told police. The robber again fired back, and dodging through back yards, doubled back toward the filling station.

Owner Pursues Him on Foot.

Yancey followed on foot, firing as he ran, and saw the man enter a Ford coupe parked about a block from the station. A chauffeur for an Alton dentist, who had driven into the station a moment before and had been told of the robbery, set out in pursuit when Yancey shouted to him: "Get that license number."

After a chase of a mile at 50 miles an hour, the chauffeur reported, he overtook the coupe and noted the license. The driver turned suddenly on a side street and escaped and the chauffeur, returning, gave the number to police.

The police had just finished checking the license number through the Secretary of State at Springfield, when the call from Brighton was received. They hurried out, but encountered mud roads and required 45 minutes to traverse the eight miles to where the car was parked.

The farmers, who had called them, met the police some distance down the road, saying they had been afraid to touch anything, or to remain near the car, because of the blood-stains. As the police drove up, they noticed the interior of the car was full of smoke. As they opened the doors, the upholstering, which had been smoldering for some time, burst into flame.

Shot in Temple and Hip.

H. R. Streeper of Upper Alton, an undertaker and deputy Coroner of Madison County, said he found a bullet wound in the left temple of the body and a buckshot wound in the right hip. An Alton filling station proprietor fired several loads of buckshot at a robber whom he identified from pictures as Ford, while the man was fleeing after taking contents of the filling station cash register.

Two revolvers were found in the burned automobile. One, which had been fired several times, lay on the seat, while the other, all the bullets of which had been ex-

JERUSALEM STARTS HOLY WEEK SERVICE; ALL CREEDS UNITE

Pilgrimages to Follow Routes Taken by Christ, Beginning With Entry Into City.

By the Associated Press.

JERUSALEM, March 29.—The Holy Land began its holiest week at sunrise today. Palm Sunday came to this ancient land, scarred by many religious conflicts, seven hours before it did in Eastern America, overshadowing today's differences between the Jew and the Arab.

Little groups from the Anglican community—friends and neighbors—gathered in the field behind the village of Bethany. Perhaps 200 were there, speaking low and making shuffling, padded noises in the gloom as as Westerners do on solemn occasions.

Dawn cloaked their muffled footsteps as they left the field in a procession, following the path which tradition says Christ took 19 centuries ago in his triumphal entry into Jerusalem. Now it is a modern asphalt highway.

Skirting the Mount of Olives the party arrived at the spot where the Holy City suddenly came into view. The hymn, "Jerusalem the Golden," was appropriately sung, while pilgrims stood at this point. Then down into the Valley or Cedron they walked and there dispersed.

One of the most impressive sights of holy week will be seen in the garden of Gethsemane Thursday night. There will gather Catholics, Protestants and Nonconformists to pray where Christ did. During the day the Latin Patriarch goes to the Church of the Holy Sepulchre and there washes the feet of 12 old men in commemoration of the story of Christ washing the feet of the apostles.

On Good Friday hundreds will walk in silent prayer over the Via Dolorosa, the path Christ took from Pilate's court to Calvary. In the afternoon Roman Catholics will hold a ceremonial procession with prayers and short sermons at each of the 14 stations of the cross.

JUROR THREATENED BY FRIENDS OF GANGSTERS KILLS SELF

John G. Turfitt, Pana, Ill., Was on Panel That Convicted Three of Robbery.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

PANA, Ill., March 28.—Christian County authorities are making investigations of the charges that certain men in the Circuit Court room last Thursday made threats against John G. Turfitt, 31 years old, a Pana farmer, because he had voted for conviction of George Smith, Theodore Price and Wilbur Edwards, alleged Springfield, Ill., gangsters, who were charged with the robbery of the Taylorville Wholesale Grocery, Jan. 29, last.

Turfitt killed himself Friday night at his home, near here, out of fear of being assassinated by friends of the men convicted, according to a statement he made to a neighbor, Roy Kincaid, and also supported by a note that he left in his slipper before shooting himself in the head. He told Kincaid three men had threatened him in the Courthouse that they would "get him" for convicting the three men and that several men had trailed him home from Taylorville after the jury had been discharged.

Turfitt had feared to remain at his home Thursday night, believing he would be murdered, and spent the night at Kincaid's home. The Coroner's jury today returned a verdict of suicide.

POLICE DOGS GUARD LIQUOR

Doran Says Use Keeps Prowlers from Government Distilleries.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, March 28.—German police dogs are being used to help guard the Government's medicinal liquor distilleries against prowlers. Commissioner Doran spoke of this today on his return from an inspection trip to the A. Overholt Co. distillery at Broad Ford, Pa., and the Schenley Products Co. distillery near Pittsburg.

"Recently," Dr. Doran said, "the night watchmen at these places were supplemented by packs of police dogs. The distilleries are running fine. There are no prowlers."

TRIPS; FINDS NUGGET OF GOLD

Boy's Discovery Starts Rush in Western Australia.

By the Associated Press.

PERTH, Australia, March 28.—Jimmy Larcombe, 17 years old, son of a gold prospector, walking along a dusty bush track to his camp, tripped and fell. As he sat nursing a bruised shin, he noticed he had stumbled over something glittering.

It was the "Golden Eagle," the largest nugget ever found in Western Australia. It weighs 1123 ounces and is worth more than $28,000. The discovery was made near the new Larkinville alluvial field about 40 miles from the once famous Coolgardie goldfield. A rush followed.

EX-CONVICT, AIDED BY CHARITY, SHOT AFTER BURGLARY

ROBBER INJURED ANOTHER MAN

Jack Bansky Slightly Hurt When He Goes to Neighbor's House at 4339 Manchester.

Sam Garner, 20-year-old former convict, whose parents have been receiving food from the Magnolia street police station for the last month, was shot by a police sergeant last night, while trying to escape after a burglary. The sergeant, a short time earlier, had delivered two baskets of food to Garner's mother and step-father.

A moment before, Garner had wounded Jack Bansky, 3347A Clara avenue, who tried to apprehend him. He fired two shots at the sergeant before falling beneath the policeman's fire. At City Hospital it was said both he and Bansky had suffered slight flesh wounds. The sergeant was not wounded.

Out of Work 40 Days.

"I've been out of work for 40 days," he told the Post-Dispatch "and I had to have something. I broke into a house over on Boyle avenue the other night, but didn't get anything."

Garner's fight last night started at 10 o'clock when George Kalin, 4339 Manchester avenue, ran into Bansky's tire repair shop at 4329 Manchester, and said: "I was just coming home when I saw a light in my house. I think there's somebody in there."

Bansky, who has a private watchman's commission empowering him to carry firearms, took his pistol and flashlight and went to the Kalin home. As he entered the rear gate, thinking the intruder would come out that way, he saw a man in the yard and ordered him to halt.

Fires One Shot at Bansky.

The man fired one shot and Bansky fell, hit in the left shoulder. Bansky fired twice from the ground, but failed to hit the man. Kalin, in the meantime, had called the police and word of the burglary had been flashed over the police radio.

Sergt. Ora Morgan of the Magnolia Street Station only a few blocks away, raced to the Manchester avenue address, arriving as Garner darted across the street. "Halt," he shouted. The young man stopped, fired two shots at Morgan, and turned to run again.

Sergeant Recognizes Him.

Sergt. Morgan fired once, aiming low, and Garner went down, wounded in the left knee. He struck his forehead against the curb.

At the hospital when Garner gave his name, Sergt. Morgan looked at him and said: 'Say, I know you.

"Yes," the young man interrupted, "I live with my mother and my stepfather, John Keating, at 1317A South Boyle. You brought some food down to us a couple of times, from the station."

"I just came from your house a little while ago," the Sergeant replied. "You weren't home, though, were you?"

"No," said Garner, "I was out, trying to get a little easy."

Garner told the Post-Dispatch, "I served 22 months in Jefferson City for robbing a grocery in Caruthersville, when I lived down there. Since then, I've been working as an upholsterer, but I couldn't get any work, and like I told you, I had to have something."

MAIL COURTSHIPS CAUSE ARREST OF MARRIED INVALID

Edward J. Ringkamp Accused of Taking Money From Women on False Pretenses.

Edward J. Ringkamp 43 years old, of 2818 Wisconsin avenue, has supported himself and his wife, both invalids, for several months with money obtained from women anxious to marry him through a matrimonial bureau.

Arrested last night by police and Federal agents and booked suspected of using the mails to defraud, Ringkamp told reporters he was suffering with tuberculosis and enrolled in a matrimonial bureau to find prospects for mail-order insurance policies.

"I got a list from a bureau at Grand Rapids, Mich., and wrote letters to over 100 women," he related. "I sent them pictures and descriptions of myself and when I got them interested I tried to sell them insurance. Most of the money I received was obtained legitimately as premiums on insurance policies."

Questioned further, Ringkamp estimated he had obtained about $250 in all, and admitted he had received $160 as a loan from a widow of Pittsburg, Kan., to whom he had sent a cheap engagement ring. He had promised to be in Pittsburg yesterday for a wedding.

Postoffice inspectors said they became suspicious of Ringkamp when it was observed that he cashed an unusual number of postal money orders from women. They reported finding numerous letters and photographs of women in his home.

ARMORED CAR TO TAKE FRED BURKE BACK TO MICHIGAN

Arrives at St. Joseph, Mo., to Get "Most Wanted Criminal" to Face Trial for Murder.

By E. ROY ALEXANDER,
A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

ST. JOSEPH, Mo., March 28.—Two groups of Michigan police, including State troopers, county and city officers, arrived here this evening to take charge of Fred Burke, most wanted criminal in America. The second group to arrive bore extradition papers signed this afternoon by Gov. Caulfield for Burke's removal to Michigan.

The specific charge upon which the former St. Louis gangster is being taken to Michigan is the murder of Patrolman Charles Skelly in St. Joseph, Mich., whom Burke shot to death when the policeman stopped him for a traffic violation in December, 1929. A life sentence in the penitentiary as the maximum penalty that can be imposed on Burke, as the Michigan law does not permit capital punishment.

At that time Burke was a fugitive under many charges, including several robberies. After his identity was disclosed as the slayer of Patrolman Kelly, a machine gun was found in his Michigan cottage which ballistics experts said after examination, had been used in the murder of seven Moran gangsters in the St. Valentine's day slaughter of 1929 in Chicago. Their statement was based upon a comparison of bullets taken from the bodies of the victims with bullets fired from Burke's machine gun.

Caught After Two Years.

In the meantime, however, Burke had made his escape and remained a fugitive until he was trapped last Thursday in a farmhouse at Green City, Mo., 174 miles northeast of here. s has been told his identity and whereabouts were established by two amateur detectives of Green City.

After his arrest Chicago policemen were sent to St. Joseph to take him in charge. Michigan authorities, however, were first to reach Gov. Caulfield with a requisition.

Representatives of the Chicago state's attorney's office in St. Joseph to assist in the removal of Burke, expressed some disappointment when they learned Michigan was to get the prisoner but declared they would co-operate in Burke's prosecution there. The Chicago policemen already on hand in St. Joseph were instructed to offer their services as an additional guard in taking Burke to Jack-

HIGHER TAX ON VERY RICH ONE WAY TO MEET DEFICIT

Increase of 494 Pct. in 10 Years in Incomes of Millionaires Suggests Such a Levy as Preferable to Bond Issue.

REVENUES PROBABLY $700,000,000 SHORT

Sale of U. S. Securities or Suspension of Payments on National Debt Other Alternatives to Meet Emergency.

By CHARLES G. ROSS,
Chief Washington Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, March 28.—It now appears that the national deficit at the end of the current fiscal year, June 30 next, will materially exceed the half-a-billion-dollar estimate made by the Treasury some weeks ago. From present indications, the likelier total is $700,000,000. Manifestly, something has got to be done to take the Government out of the red.

The necessity for drastic action looking toward a balance budget becomes evident when the actualities are compared with the President's forecast last December. At that time he estimated the deficit for the present fiscal year at the comparatively small sum of $180,000,000, which he believed could be taken care of by reducing the daily balance carried by the Treasury and by short-term borrowing. He prophesied, on the basis of then existing conditions, that the deficit of 1931 would be converted into a small surplus, about $30,000,000, for the fiscal year 1932.

Since that time the financial commitments of the Government have increased sharply and the income tax returns have dropped to an even greater extent than the Treasury in its gloomiest moments had anticipated. The prophecy of Senator David A. Reed on the floor of the Senate in January, that the income tax returns for March would give us "the shock of our lives," has been more than fulfilled.

The size of the present deficit—nearly four times as great as the President indicated it would be—makes it clear that something more than a casual bookkeeping operation has become necessary.

Three Plans Possible.

The figures on which the President based his hope of a surplus in 1932 are no longer valid. When Congress meets again in December, it will be confronted, therefore, not only with the present shortage of funds for the running expenses of a $4,000,000,000 business, but with the prospect of mounting deficits in the future. The problem of devising a sound financial plan to meet the emergency will be among the biggest problems of the session.

Three courses are open to Congress. It can authorize the raising of money through the sale of securities; that is to say, it can increase the national debt. Second, it can order the suspension of payments toward retirement of the national debt. Third, it can raise taxes. There is one other obvious thing it can do—practice rigid economy—but with the fixed obligations of the Government what they are, the relief from this method can be at best only a small fraction of what is required.

If Congress elects to increase the national debt through the sale of new bonds, it will be, of course, merely postponing the day of settlement. It will shift to the future part of the burden of the present. It will, moreover, be doing precisely what the Treasury, in opposing an increase in the loan value of war veterans' certificates, said should not be done: it will be selling securities in a money market which the Treasury said should be left as free as possible to provide funds for the rehabilitation of private industry.

Smaller Payments on Debts.

There will be, as there has been in the past, strong support for the idea that the amortization of the public debt should be slowed up. Suspension of the payments now being made would effect a saving of about $440,000,000 a year. This would be a palliative on the same order as a new security issue. It would be a temporary saving and, through the piling up of interest, would increase the amount to be

CONGRESS PARTY IN INDIA READY TO RATIFY TRUCE

SOME OPPOSITION FROM EXTREMISTS

Although Agreeing to Attend London Parley, Nationalists Still Demand Complete Independence.

By the Associated Press.

KARACHI, India, March 28.—The All-India Congress Committee passed a resolution today approving the Delhi truce between Mahatma Gandhi and Viceroy Irwin, despite considerable opposition from extremist elements.

It is regarded as certain that this as well as all other resolutions drafted by the working committee and passed by the All-India Committee, will be approved automatically by the full meeting of the Congress tomorrow.

This is the most important resolution before the Congress as it makes clear that the Nationalists, although agreeing to participate in the second round-table conference in London, still insist on India's complete independence, control of the army, finances, fiscal policy and foreign affairs, an examination of India's debts by an impartial commission and the right of either India or England to terminate the partnership at will.

Nationalist Program.

This resolution, ranking as the most important before the convention, makes it clear the Nationalists still insist on India's complete independence; control of the army, finances, fiscal policy and foreign affairs; examination of India's debt by an unbiased tribunal and the right of either India or Great Britain to abrogate the alliance at will.

In advocating the resolution, Gandhi said: "People may ask 'how do you reconcile complete independence with partnership at will which is also included in the resolution?' There was a time when I was in love with the phrase 'dominion status,' but today I feel dominion status means relationship with other members of the British Empire with which India has neither common language, race nor color. But partnership at will means we can terminate our connection any time either party wishes to do so."

Subash Bose, Mayor of Calcutta and leader of the extremist element, fell into line behind Gandhi's principles and urged his followers to do the same.

"Now, more than ever, it is necessary to present a united front to British bureaucracy," he said, "and make clear to them and the whole world that the Indian National Congress stands united under the leadership of Gandhi in its demand for complete independence."

The Indian Youths' Revolutionary League renewed in vain their attempts to destroy the unity of the congress and to prevent approval of the truce.

the back of the pile (we all huddled together, it got so cold), stretched out limp on the floor. She was dead.

"The rest of us got hysterical then. One of the kids broke a window of the car by accident. We couldn't keep out the cold air. The kids then were so cold I couldn't get them to move. I started some boxing matches but they didn't last. I noticed my brother, Orlo, was freezing. I gave him all my clothes except my underwear.

"After a while I was so weak and exhausted I couldn't keep awake. I lay down in the pile with the rest of them, and started to doze. I was not discouraged but so weak I couldn't do a thing. I don't remember anything after that until I woke up sometime this morning near a stove in Mr. Rheinhetz's house."

Total of 12 Lives Losts in Blizzard in Several States.

DENVER, Colo., March 28.—The blizzard in Rocky Mountain and plains states has resulted in the death of 12 persons, including five children found frozen to death in a stalled school bus near Towner, Colo. Three persons missing are thought to have perished.

The dead included, besides the children, Levi Doty, 58, sheepherder near Riverton, Wyo.; Fred Snyder, 44, who died in a tourist cabin at Kit Carson, Colo.; Miss Fern Terrell, 72, frozen in a one-room shack near Cheyenne Wells, Colo.; an unidentified man whose body was found in an abandoned home at Roggen, Colo.; a man, 35, thought to be Charles Ciscle of Quincy, Ill., found frozen to death north of Hannibal, Mo.; S. E. S. Huso of Mankato, Minn., who perished after his car was wrecked in the blinding storm; Carl Miller, driver of the bus in which the five Towner, Colo., children died and from which 15 others were taken in a critical condition.

Near Max, Neb., 100 searchers were trying to find Goyd Edwards, 7, caught by the storm on his way from school. Charles Beach, 50, a sheepherder, has been missing since Wednesday in the vicinity of South Casper, Wyo.

Four children, missing since Thursday morning, with John Doll, driver of the bus in which they were riding near Sheridan Lake, Colo., were found at a farm house today. The bus driver's hands and face were frozen. Twenty children and their teacher were rescued from a schoolhouse at Horace, Kan., in which they had spent two days and a night. Charles Fitzgerald, substitute mail carrier, was found alive but suffering keenly in his stalled automobile 16 miles from Lexington, Neb.

Cattle were found by hundreds standing in snowdrifts, frozen to death.

The first Union Pacific train from the West since Thursday's blizzard reached Salina, Kan., last night. Trains on the more southernly transcontinental lines of the Rock Island and Santa Fe were arriving many hours late.

Deep snow lay over Eastern Iowa and parts of Missouri and there were drifts 14 feet deep at Galena, Ill. Wisconsin and Minnesota reported heavy snow stopping traffic. Menominee, Mich., reported the worst storm of the season was sweeping Green Bay.

The predicted freeze to the Gulf Coast in Louisiana and Mississippi did not occur. High winds blew and the temperature dropped to 42 at 7 a. m. in New Orleans, but at noon the wind had moderated and the thermometer had risen to 51. At Shreveport, La., the mercury touched 32 degrees. There were snow flurries in Arkansas and Tennessee and chilly rains in Georgia. The lowest recorded temperature in Arkansas was 23 degrees at Bentonville.

W. A. Mattice, agricultural meteorologist at Washington said the heavy snows in the north central states would do much to relieve subsoil moisture shortage in the Ohio Valley.

MARY NOLAN MARRIED TO NEW YORK BROKER

Motion Picture Actress and Wallace MacRery Engaged Since Last December.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, March 28.—Mary Nolan, motion picture actress, and Wallace T. Mac Rery, 23-year-old broker, were married tonight in Christ Church, Brooklyn. Miss Nolan requested a quiet wedding.

The Rev. James T. Fitzgerald performed the ceremony. The bride wore a gown of white satin, with an ermine wrap. Lily N. MacRery was the only bridesmaid, and the bridegroom's brother, John MacRery, was best man. The seven witnesses were members of the bridegroom's family.

She and Mac Rery have been engaged since last December when they met in Los Angeles. Last night while they sat in a night club with Walter Winchell, Broadway columnist, and Harry Richman, an entertainer, Miss Nolan received a proposal of marriage. Mac Rery demanded they get married immediately. At 3 a. m. they routed Miss Nolan's business agent out of bed and told him about it.

Miss Nolan, once a Follies beauty, seven years ago, as Imogene Wilson, demanded the arrest of Frank Tinney, comedian. She charged he had beaten her. She sued for $100,000 damages, but the case was dropped. Later she was named as co-respondent in the divorce action brought by Mrs. Tinney.

As Imogene Wilson she appeared in silent pictures in Germany, achieved popularity and returned to the United States to begin again under the name of Mary Nolan. Several minor roles brought favorable notice and recently she has been featured. The name Mary Nolan was legally adopted years ago. Her family name was Mary Robertson.

Mac Rery's father operates a private detective agency in Brooklyn. There are no plans for a wedding trip since Miss Nolan intends to sign some contracts next week.

VON HINDENBURG INVOKES POWERS OF DICTATORSHIP

German President Issues Drastic Decree to Regulate Order and Sharpening Police Rights.

By the Associated Press.

BERLIN, March 28.—President von Hindenburg today put a dictatorial foot down so hard on political rowdyism and "godless agitation" in Germany that some German newspapers described the decree as establishing a "state of siege."

The Hindenburg decree affects particularly seven sections of the German Constitution dealing principally with personal liberty, the sanctity of the home, the secrecy of postal, telegraphic and telephonic communication, freedom of speech and press, freedom from censorship, the right of public meetings and the right for forming associations.

A decree issued invokes the extraordinary powers conferred upon him by Article 48 of the Constitution for regulation of public meetings, parades, placard and pamphlets, as well as sharpening police powers against unauthorized bearing of weapons. The decree empowers police to forbid any meeting where there is reason to believe that the State or its officials will be reviled or any religious organization ridiculed.

Even those who attend forbidden meetings or those who provide places for meetings are subject to fines and imprisonment under the decree.

The order will not strengthen the Government's hand against agitators for its violent overthrow, but will make more dangerous vituperation against the church and unbridled derision of religion for its perpetrators.

It was explained in Government circles that the Reichstag parties knew before adjournment that sharp measures were coming. After the murder at Hamburg of Communist Henning the word was passed out that the Government was preparing a drastic decree, Ministers of the Interior in the German States were informed in a meeting at Wirth last week that "something unusual was in preparation."

Could Suppress Dailies.

Millions of German citizens tonight, studying in their evening papers one of the most far-reaching decrees ever promulgated in the German Republic, didn't know but that this might be the last issue of their paper for some time, for amid the drastic provisions of the decree is one empowering the authorities to suppress dailies for as long as eight consecutive weeks, if found necessary.

Those who belonged to such organizations as Adolf Hitler's Brown Shirts or the Communist Red Fronts, did not know whether they could meet with their brethren again, for, under the new decree, their organizations may be dispersed with the stroke of a pen.

Organs of the Middle parties saw in the presidential decree, issued 48 hours after the Reichstag adjourned for the summer, an effective counter-measure against "political rowdyism," radicals, on the other hand, were excited at what they called Chancellor Bruening's "Draconic Easter Message." They regarded it a serious threat to civic liberty. Some called it a "proclamation of a state of emergency."

The official Prussian press service sought to allay any fears of undue interference with liberty by explaining that the freedom of participating in decent, orderly political activity is not curtailed and that the decree is directed only against abuses.

ploded by the fire, was on the floor.

The note was wrapped in a glove and had been thrown well clear of the car into a field. Streeper advanced the theory that Ford set the car afire and shot himself in the temple. Assistant State's Attorney Michael Seyfrit of Macoupin County, in whose jurisdiction the body was found, said "everything points to suicide."

The body had been so severely burned that it was not shown to Ford's mother and brothers, all of whom identified what pieces of the clothing were left. A cousin who examined the body said it was that of Ford.

An inquest is set for today at Brighton.

STIMSON REFUSES TO ACT ON ITALIAN GROUP'S PROTEST

Secretary of State Says Italy's Ambassador Not Involved in Dispute.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, March 28.—Secretary Stimson has informed an Italian group in New York City that this Government would take no action on protests the delegation made against Italian Ambassador de Martino.

The State Department sent a letter to Dr. Charles Fama of New York which said the conclusion had been reached that De Martino "is not involved in the faction of controversies among Americans of Italian origin described therein, and that no action by this Government is indicated in respect thereto."

The resolutions protesting activities of the Italian Ambassador in this country were passed at a meeting of Italian war veterans of Feb. 15. The letter to Dr. Fama said the American Government had no interest in controversies between groups of American citizens of foreign origin with respect to the internal politics of the country from which they came.

TESTIFIES IN BUCKLEY CASE, THEN HIDES IN POLICE STATION

Woman Witness Lived Year in St. Louis With One of Defendants; Requested Protection.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

DETROIT, Mich., March 28.—Mrs. Eva Brown, witness for the State at the Buckley murder trial, who lived in St. Louis for a year with Angelo Livecchi, one of the men on trial, today was a voluntary resident in the Women's Detention Home at police headquarters.

At the conclusion of her testimony Friday, Mrs. Brown asked to remain at police headquarters through fear for her safety, Prosecutor Toy said. Months before her testimony, Mrs. Brown was given a room in the Women's Division under the assumed name of "Eva Moore," for her own protection, Toy explained.

The witness said she knew all three of the defendants, Joe Bommarito, Anglo Livecchi and Ted Pizzino. For four hours she sat in the courtroom and told the story of her tangled life. Always she kept her eyes turned away from the eyes of Angelo Livecchi.

BOOKMAKER SHOT, SAYS HE WAS HELD UP IN HIS AUTO

Howard Heald Discovered Wounded in Leg in Car in 2300 Block on Dickson Street Last Night.

Howard Heald, bookmaker at 18B North Ninth street, was found shot in the left thigh in his automobile parked in the 2300 block of Dickson street shortly after 7 o'clock last night. He said he was shot by a robber who fled after taking about $40 in cash.

Taken to the City Hospital, $142 in cash was found in his pockets. One bullet had pierced his leg, striking the automobile door.

Heald said he was driving to his home at 5036 Parker avenue when he stopped for a chat with Fred Weissman, lawyer and Fifth Ward Republican Committeeman, in Weissman's office at 1719 Franklin avenue.

He was entering his automobile, he said, when a man with a revolver crowded in beside him. The man compelled him to drive to the Dickson street block, where another automobile pulled up behind him and a second man got out.

Heald said he handed over his money, offering no resistance.

"The pistol must have been discharged accidentally when he started to get out," he suggested. To reporters he insisted he was robbed of all he had, denying he had any money when he reached the hospital.

Heald, who has been arrested 27 times suspected of gambling, admitted he was a bookmaker and said he subscribed to the Empire News Service, which supplies leased wire race reports to all local bookmakers.

GROCER NORRIS PERJURY CASE

Judge Considers Constitutionality of Nye Inquiry.

By the Associated Press.

LINCOLN, Neb., March 28.—Federal Judge T. C. Munger today took under advisement demurrers to indictments for perjury against Victor Seymour, Nebraska Republican leader, and George W. Norris of Alva, Ok., former Broken Bow grocer, growing out of the Republican senatorial primary contest.

The question argued before Judge Munger hinged largely upon the constitutionality of the authority of the United States senatorial campaign fund committee in its inquiry into the 1930 Nebraska primary campaign. Both men were indicted on their testimony before Senator Gerald P. Nye and his committee at hearings in Nebraska last year regarding the filing of Grocer Norris in opposition to the veteran Nebraska Senator of the same name.

ARNOLD BENNETT'S FUNERAL TO BE HELD IN LONDON TUESDAY

Only Family and Intimate Friends of Novelist to Attend; Body to Be Cremated.

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, March 28.—The "Five Towns" of the potteries are mourning the death of Arnold Bennett, who made them household words.

All during the day tributes came from all the world to the little Baker Street flat where the novelist died of typhoid fever Friday night. The body will be cremated Tuesday after funeral services which only the family and a few intimate friends will attend.

Bennett was a shy, retiring man, afflicted with a stammer which he was never able to overcome. His "Old Wives' Tale" is rated as a classic and the "Five Towns" series is one of his best known works. "Milestones," a drama written with a collaborator, was one of London's successes.

SAYS RUSSIA INTENDS TO GROW MORE WHEAT

Soviet Delegate Tells World Grain Conference "Dumping" Will Be Continued.

By the Associated Press.

ROME, March 28.—In a defiant speech at the grain conference today, Abraham Kissin, Soviet delegate, declared that, far from reducing her wheat production, his country would increase it this year and that instead of giving up her policy of "dumping," intended to increase her wheat exports in order to pay for her imports, which now exceed $500,000,000 a year.

Kissin sharply criticised the speech of Argentine Ambassador Perez, made to the conference yesterday, declaring it only could have been made by a man devoid of a sense of humor and proportion. Perez, speaking for the larger wheat-growing countries outside of Europe, condemned the European proposal for a system of preferential tariffs and a virtual European boycott against foreign wheat.

"Any proposal to exclude from economic intercourse a nation occupying one-sixth of the world's surface is foredoomed to failure," Kissin said. "Russia's population is increasing 4,000,000 a year. Therefore, we must increase our wheat production."

Russia will return soon to the position as a wheat exporter that she occupied before the war, Kissin predicted. Canada will be unable to reduce her wheat acreage, Sir George Ferguson, Canadian High Commissioner at London, told the conference.

JURY IN CARL SHELTON AUTO THEFT CASE STILL OUT

Judge Lindley Orders It to Remain in Session Until It Reaches a Decision.

By the Associated Press.

DANVILLE, Ill., March 28.—The jury before which Carl Shelton, gangster, was tried on a charge of interstate automobile theft was still deliberating tonight after 50 hours. The case was given to the jury at 2:15 p. m. Thursday by Federal Judge Walter C. Lindley.

Judge Lindley, who is out of town for the week-end, ordered the jury to deliberate until it reached a decision and to return a sealed verdict if it reached one before Monday.

Shelton was tried on the Dyer act violation charge immediately after he had been convicted of violating the Federal liquor laws.

HEIRS AGREE ON DIVIDING ESTATE OF JAMES E. HOW

ADOPTED SON OF TESTATOR CONCURS

Under Settlement He Will Get $55,000 of Trust Property, $15,000 Home and Perhaps $20,000.

A formal decree was signed by Circuit Judge Rosskopf yesterday awarding to Louis How of Rockford, Mass., the $300,000 trust estate created by his mother, Mrs. Elizabeth How of St. Louis, for the benefit of her son, James Eads How, "millionaire hobo," who died July 22, 1930.

It was a consent decree in which Thomas H. Cobbs, attorney for Louis How who claimed the property under the terms of Mrs. How's will, and counsel for Holger Sorenson How, 13 years old, of Los Angeles, James Eads How's adopted son, concurred. The boy was represented by A. L. Abbott and Clem F. Storckman. They had claimed the entire estate for their client, but a settlement had been reached whereby he will receive $55,000 from the trust property. In addition he will be entitled to a $15,000 home in Los Angeles which was owned by his foster father and probably, it was said, would be declared the sole heir to the latter's individual estate, estimated at $20,000.

Question of Heirs Settled.

The decision was given in a suit filed by former Circuit Judge Jesse McDonald and the St. Louis Union Trust Co., as trustees. Holger How is a son of James Eads How's former wife, Mrs. Ingelborg Sorenson How. Testimony showed that six years ago in California he adopted the boy. Frank B. Coleman, attorney for the trustees, said that because of this adoption the trustees were unable to decide which claimant was the legal beneficiary.

Mrs. Elizabeth How, in her will specified, that at the death of James the trust should end, and the property contained in it be paid to "his heirs." For Holger How it was contended that, having been adopted, he was How's sole heir. On the other hand, counsel for How's brother asserted the term "heir," in this particular instance, should be interpreted as either heirs of body or collateral relatives, not adopted heirs. Mrs. Elizabeth How, in creating the trust, did not have the latter class in mind, they said. A decision of the Missouri Supreme Court in support of this theory was cited.

How Left $10 to Legal Heirs.

James Eads How was a scion of a notable St. Louis family. His maternal grandfather, James B. Eads, constructed Eads Bridge; his paternal grandfather, James How, was Mayor in ante-bellum days, and his father, James T. How, was vice president and general manager of the Wabash Railroad. He himself devoted his life to the ideal of social equality and became internationally known as a friend of the down-and-out type. He died of pneumonia and the hardship of self-imposed frugality at the age of 62 years.

His will disposing of his property outside the trust estate left $5 to his brother, Louis a like amount to Holger How and the residue for the "benefit and behoof of the workers of the world." His divorced wife, filed suit in California, in behalf of her son, contesting the will as invalid.

HIGHER TAX ON VERY RICH ONE WAY TO MEET DEFICIT

paid eventually. It would push still more into the future the ultimate payment for the war.

Interference with his debt-reduction program would be a hard blow to Secretary Mellon, who has taken special pride in the orderly and rapid retirement of the debt under his administration of the Treasury. It would run counter, too, to the policy of the President, who spoke in his December message against any encroachment on the statutory previsions for the payment of the debt.

Mellon's Choice.

In their attitude toward the debt, Hoover and Mellon, for once, are in agreement with the Progressives in Congress. They have contended steadily for the payment of the war debt, so far as possible, by the generation that incurred it. Indeed ,they would have gone even further; instead of using the surpluses of the past few years for decreasing taxes, they would have applied them, in large degree, to reduction of the debt.

On the other hand, it has been frequently argued in Congress that debt retirement is proceeding under Mellon at a faster rate than was originally contemplated, and that it ought now to be slowed up in the interest of tax reduction. It is only fair, runs this argument, that the burden of the war should be spread out over a period of time more nearly approaching the 62 years allowed our foreign debtors to pay off their obligations to this country.

One of the leading exponents of this view is Senator Pat Harrison (Dem.) of Mississippi, a member of the Finance Committee. In the last session of Congress, when ways and means of meeting new commitments were being discussed, Harrison contended that the Government, having reduced the debt from more than $25,000,000,000 in 1919 to about $16,000,000,000, was far ahead of schedule and that the time had come to call a halt. He said, in effect, that money needed for other purposes, such as payments to war veterans was being drained off into debt reduction in order to gratify the vanity of the Secretary of the Treasury.

Possible Tax Increases.

If Congress does not adopt either of the expedients mentioned, there will be only one course left—to increase taxes.

That thoroughly conservative Republican, Congressman Bertrand H. Snell of New York, chairman of the Rules Committee and a member of the triumvirate which controlled the last House, recently made this significant statement:

"In my opinion, there must be tax legislation—and that means a taxing upward—in the coming Congress unless something phenomenal happens meantime. The Federal Government has no more money than it takes from the people. We are spending more money than is coming into the Treasury. I hope the economic situation in the Treasury will be such that the burden of an increased tax may be avoided, but I cannot see it in the light of the situation today."

To Tap Ultra-Rich.

Snell's opinion, for which there is even better ground than when he spoke, is widely shared.

If there is to be a tax increase, Congress must decide whether it shall run from top to bottom or shall apply only in the upper brackets. The Progressives, who will hold the balance of power in both branches, insist that the increase must be confined to the largest incomes. Democrats with liberal leanings, such as Black of Alabama, take the same position. If the conservatives of the two parties have other views, they have not yet expressed them.

Meantime, it may be instructive to examine some of the possibilities. There are any number of ways in which the Government, without increasing taxes in the lower brackets and without a capital levy on the rich, might adjust the tax schedules to produce an additional $700,000,000 of income. Congressman Frear, Progressive Republican of Wisconsin, suggested one plan in the House during the debate on the veterans' loan bill.

The present surtax rates run by steps from 1 per cent on income between $10,000 and $14,000 up to 20 per cent on the amount of income over $100,000.

Possible New Rates.

Frear proposed that the rate in each bracket be increased by one point and that four new brackets be created to cover incomes over $100,000. The lowest rate would be 2 per cent, on the amount between $10,000 and $14,000, and thence it would rise to 21 per cent on the amount from $100,000 to $200,000, 22 per cent from $200,000 to $300,000, 23 per cent from $300,000 to $400,000, 24 per cent from $400,000 to $500,000, and 25 per cent on the amount over $500,000.

Frear's proposal would partly cure what many students of taxation believe to be a defect in the present surtax rates, namely, their failure to graduate income above $100,000, but it would not accomplish the purpose he intended. The increase on incomes in the first bracket would be 100 per cent, declining to 6 per cent on incomes of $200,000. On incomes of $500,000 the increase would be 11.9 per cent and on incomes of more than $500,000 it would be less than 10 per cent. This percentage would be shaded down with each additional increment of income. The highest increases would fall on the lowest of the affected incomes.

An Increase of Millions.

Frear's well-intentioned proposal is neat and symmetrical, but, like many another tax scheme of that sort, is delusive.

The Progressives' interest in tax brackets, with a view to revision upward, had been centered very largely on the incomes of $100,000 and above. Generally speaking, persons with net incomes of that size are millionaires. According to the Treasury's preliminary Statistics of Income for 1929, there were 14,701 persons in that class, with an aggregate net income of $4,314,292,000, or 17.59 per cent of all the reported net income. They paid taxes of $644,490,191. If the surtax rates were revised to bring in twice that amount, the deficit would be almost covered.

That is by way of rough illustration of what the Progressives have in mind. A great many factors, too numerous and too complicated to be discussed here, have got to be worked out before any detailed scheme can be offered. The question of how much wealth would escape into tax-exempt securities, in the event of a sharp increase in the surtax rates, needs to be studied. There is also the question of how the great incomes of 1928 and 1929 have been affected by the subsequent depression.

War Time Contrasts.

In any event, the Progressives have been impressed by such facts as the 302 per cent increase from 1920 to 1929 in the number of those reporting net income in excess of $100,000 and the 494 per cent increase in their total net income.

Another fact which is being cited in support of the demand for surtax increases at the top is the remarkable growth in numbers of those having net income of $1,000,000 or better—a growth from 21 in 1921 to at least 504, and probably more, in 1929. The net income of the 504 in 1929 was $1,185,135,330. They paid taxes of $186,144,252. The rate of taxation was 15.7 per cent, which contrasted with 64.87 per cent paid under the high surtax rates put on during the war. If they had been taxed at the old rate they would have paid $770,000,000. Taxed at the present British rate, they would have paid twice what they did pay—about $370,000,000.

For additional example, there was the select group of 36 who in 1929 had incomes averaging nearly $10,000,000 each, or an aggregate of $350,358,765, on which they paid taxes of $52,094,233. They could have paid a tax of $300,000,000 and still have had an increment for the year of nearly $1,500,000 each.

OREGON MILLIONAIRE CLEARED OF MURDER

N. C. Bowles and Woman Ex-Employe Acquitted to Killing His Wife.

By the Associated Press

HILLSBORO, Ore., March 28.—Nelson C. Bowles, Portland millionaire, and Miss Irma Loucks, his former secretary, were acquitted late today by a jury of the murder of Bowles' wife, Mrs. Leone Bowles, who was socially prominent.

The jury was out but one hour and 10 minutes.

Defense counsel pleaded, "Hang them or set them free—there can be no compromise."

The State made no demand for the death penalty.

Bowles and his former secretary went to trial March 2, charged with first degree murder. Mrs. Bowles died in Miss Loucks' apartment with a knife in her heart.

She stabbed herself, the defendants, declared, on a visit to the apartment in search of her husband, and after learning of Bowles' affair with Miss Loucks.

The State contended Bowles and Miss Loucks murdered her "because she stood in the way of their continued association."

Judge Bagley gave the jury ten forms for their verdict. Five were for Bowles and five for Miss Loucks. They provided for conviction on first-degree murder, carrying the death penalty; first-degree murder with recommendation for life imprisonment; second-degree murder, manslaughter and acquittal.

SAYS 'RIGHT PEOPLE' GET BOXING PASSES

Seneca C. Taylor Tells How He "Builds Up Prestige" for Fights.

State Boxing Commissioner Seneca C. Taylor told the Post-Dispatch yesterday how he distributes passes to boxing matches among "the right people" in an effort to build up the prestige of professional boxing. The Commissioner's practice precipitated a conflict between him and Sam Slotsky, who promoted an exhibition at the Coliseum Wednesday and led to the suspension of Slotsky.

"I don't give these passes just to anybody,' Taylor explained. "For Wednesday's fight, for instance, I gave them to the three judges of St. Louis Court of Appeals and to about half of the Circuit Judges. In the latter class he mentioned Judges Ossing, Hall, Hamilton, Bader, Hoffmeister, Hartmann, Killoren, Landwehr and Hogan.

"Then there were former Circuit Judge Wurdeman in the County, State Senator Gardner and other legislators, Prosecuting Attorney Rosecan, Chief of Police Gerk, Sheriff Lill and the clerks of the Circuit Courts, Taylor continued.

62 Tickets to Aldermen.

"In addition we gave 62 tickets to the Board of Aldermen, but we have to do that because they are in a position to tell us we cant have any professional boxing in St. Louis. We gave 29 to Director of Public Safety Steininger—he has authority over the building regulations and could make it unpleasant for us if he wanted to. But all told the politicians had only 253 tickets and more than 260 were given out by the promoter to his friends who don't add any prestige to the front row."

"My idea," he explained." is to give these tickets to the right people and bring them to the bouts so that they can see that boxing isn't as bad as they thought it was."

"If by 'right people'" Slotsky protests, "the Commissioner means politicians, he's all wrong. To me a politician is just another guy with his hand out. The right people are those who lay $3.30 on the line at the box office."

Taylor said that only 253 of the 517 passes had gone to politicians, the others being distributed by the promoter. Slotsky countered with the suggestion that the Missouri statute regulating boxing "seems to have been based on the principle that all men are created equal, but only the politicians are free." His quarrel with the Commissioner developed after he had refused Taylor's request for 15 additional passes. Taylor had already disposed of 64 or 72, according to whether his calculation or Slotsky's is correct.

The Missouri law permits bouts to be held only under the auspices of fraternal, benevolent or similar organizations. The organization which lends its name to the promoter usually receives 5 per cent of the receipts. The State and City boxing commissions each collect 5 per cent. "And then," says Slotsky, "I have to pay the boxers and give away the tickets."

$100,000 Alienation Suit Settled.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, March 28.—A $100,000 alienation of affections suit based on the charge that a young wife's parents had estranged her from her student husband by pretending to be ill, was settled out of court today. It had been filed by Gifford Youngblood, a student at a Kirksville, Mo., medical college, against Mr. and Mrs. Loutfi Jacques of Chicago. He married their daughter, Florence, at Rock Island, Ill., in March, 1929. They went to his home in Iowa and she was induced to return to her parents on a false story of illness, he charged. Four months later she told him she would not be reunited with him, he charged.

Mother of 5, After 7 Years In Prison, Returns Home

Welcomed by Husband She Tried to Kill, They're Going to Try to Forget, Start Anew

"I know now how sweet home is."

Standing in the kitchen of a home she has not seen for seven years, surrounded by her five children, only one of whom could recall their mother, Mrs. Angie Saali yesterday told of the lesson seven years in the penitentiary has taught her upon her return to her husband, Peter Saali, a St. Charles County farmer, whom she attempted to murder in 1924. Largely through her the pleas of her husband, who stoutly defended her at her trial, she was paroled last week by Gov. Coulfield. Ora Thoele, her neighbor and admirer, who slugged Saali and with Mrs. Saali threw him unconscious into a well, was paroled also.

"All I want to do now is to make up to my husband the grief I've caused him," Mrs. Saali declared. Saali appeared dazed at the time she received a 15-year sentence, being unable to comprehend why the law should not forgive her as he did. He was left with five small children, the oldest a girl of 9. He appeared to have suffered deeply during his wife's term.

"It's been mighty lonely on this farm," Saali said as he led the way through the rain Friday to his small white painted frame house, only a few rods from the well where the crime occurred, "and the children need a mother's care. My oldest girl has done what she could for them—since Mrs. Saali went away. Yes, I've seen her—several times—but when she got home about an hour ago, she was almost like a stranger to the children. They knew she was coming home, but they were sort of surprised to find her when they got home from school.

To Start Out Anew.

"I'm hoping now everything will go all right. My wife's been written up so much, she doesn't want to say any thing more.

"And I don't want to cross her. We are going to try to forget the tough times. Start out new."

Wearing a pink gingham house dress, with checked apron, Mrs. Saali, a plump woman of 49, with snapping black eyes behind tortoise shell glasses, looked as though the tenor of her life o their lonely farm never had been interrupted by tragedy. On the stove, water was heating, she was busying herself with preparations for her first meal with her family since the day she went to the penitentiary.

"I just want to start life afresh," she said, "all I want is to be let alone. I'm going to try to forget what's happened. Maybe I can make up for the bad times.

"Yes, they were good to me, really wonderful, while I was away. I was made a cook, so I still have my hand in when it comes to working about the kitchen.

She Calls It "Being Away."

"The hard part of it all was being away from the children. I never had an idea how I'd miss them."

Turning to Marie, her 16-year-old girl, who has been a "little mother" to the brood ever since she squirmed in tears from her father's lap as her mother was sentenced in a St. Charles court room, she exclaimed:

"Why, she was just a baby, almost, when I went away, just like that little fellow there."

She drew her arm around the youngest boy, now a youngster of 8. He was 15 months old at the time of the trial. Neither Saali and Mrs. Saali referred to her sentence in any other way than "being away."

The rain sluiced down on the little barnyard, a duck flopped gleefully through a puddle, Saali, clad in high "waders," an old felt hat and patched overalls, did his evening chores. He came toward the kitchen.

"Supper's nearly ready," Mrs. Saali called. The children, obviously a bit awed by the presence of their mother, moved toward the table. Life was normal on the Saali farm, for the first time since a dark night seven years ago.

NICE, France, March 28.—Mrs. James H. Nash of St. Louis arrived here today to be with her daughter, Mrs. Charlotte Nixon-Nirdlinger, during her trial for the killing of her husband, Philadelphia theater owner.

Mrs. Nash asked Magistrate Vauchier for permission to see her daughter. He at first refused, but finally set the interview for tomorrow afternoon. Fred Nixon-Nirdlinger Jr., 3 years old, accompanied by his nurse, met his grandmother at the train. Unaware of his father's death, he would not let his grandmother out of sight and insisted that he would accompany her to the prison tomorrow and take along his baby sister.

Both of Mrs. Nirdlinger's lawyers have agreed to push the hearing at the earliest opportunity at the May Assize session, but are unwilling to state definitely whether they intend to ask her release on bail.

COMPROMISE ON SCHOOLS REACHED IN CONFERENCE

Amendment to Meet Objections of Large Cities Which Feared Loss of State Aid Agreed on.

By CURTIS A. BETTS,
A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, March 28.—A compromise amendment to the Bales school bill, under which the forward looking program for increased efficiency in the rural schools can be carried out without encroaching on the school funds of St. Louis and other large cities of the State, was agreed upon today at a conference in Senator Bales' office.

The amendment, which will be submitted to the Senate Monday, meets the objections of Senator Morgan of Putnam County, who unsuccessfully attempted to amend the bill yesterday to require the employment of higher grade of teachers in the rural schools and of Superintendent of Schools Gerling of St. Louis and Melcher of Kansas City, who feared that the measure would deprive St. Louis of more than $500,000 a year of State school aid and Kansas City of more than $300,000.

After the conference, which was attended by Senators Bales, Morgan, Hildreth and Rehkop, Supt. Melcher and Representatives Armstrong and Whitaker, Bales said he could see no basis for further objection to the measure and thought it would be engrossed in the Senate Monday.

To Guarantee City School Funds.

"There was really no ground for fear that St. Louis and Kansas City would lose any school funds under the bill as presented by the Senate Committee on Education," Bales said, "but as we now propose to change it by amendment the funds for the city schools will be guaranteed just as are the funds for rural schools. When State revenues decline, city and county will suffer in the same proportion and when the revenues increase they will benefit in the same proportion."

The school bill as drawn originally to meet the recommendations of the Survey Commission provided that each elementary school district in the State should receive from State funds an amount sufficient when added to the proceeds of a 20-cent local school tax to equal $900 for each teacher unit, a teacher unit being approximately 30 students, and that each high school district should receive an amount sufficient when added to the proceeds of a 20-cent local tax to equal $1200 for each teacher unit.

Maximum Figures Reduced.

This bill was framed in the expectation that the Legislature would pass the income tax bill with rates running as high as 5½ per cent on the higher incomes.

When it became apparent that the Senate would reduce the rates in the income tax bill, the Senate Educational Committee, of which Bales is chairman, submitted a substitute measure in which the minimum standards were fixed at $800 for elementary schools instead of $900 and $1066 for high schools instead of $1200. After the tax bill was passed the committee found further reductions necessary and Bales submitted an amendment fixing the minimum standard at $750 and $1000, instead of $800 and $1066.

Senator Morgan objected to the proposal on the ground that the same amount of money would be guaranteed each school district, regardless of whether it employed a high-grade or a low-grade teacher. He proposed an amendment guaranteeing $800 a teacher unit for each teacher having a State teacher's certificate, $733.33 for each teacher having a first-grade county certificate, $666.66 for each having a second-grade county certificate, and $600 for each having a third-grade county certificate. The Survey Commission bloc succeeded in defeating the Morgan amendment, as it defeated a similar one submitted by Senator Rehkop.

A desire, however, to work out a measure which would provide the maximum aid for rural schools without penalizing the schools for the larger cities resulted in the conference today.

What Amendment Provides.

Under the provisions of the amendment decided upon and the agreement of those in the conference, the Legislature will set aside one-third of the revenue of the State in 1931 and 45 per cent of the revenue in 1932 for the State school fund. This will be distributed to the schools on the basis of a minimum guarantee of $750 a teacher unit in elementary schools and $1000 in high schools.

In all districts such as St. Louis and Kansas City which would obtain nothing under this method of distribution, the present method of apportionment of the school fund on the basis of number of teachers and average daily attendance of pupils will be followed.

The teacher quota is fixed by law and remains constant but average daily attendance fluctuates. In the amendment it will be fixed at the rate which prevailed last year, 1.3 cents for each day's attendance per pupil. Under the teacher quota apportionment St. Louis last year received $304,575 and under the attendance quota $248,929, a total of $553,504. The amendment will guarantee the same amount for each of the next two years.

To meet the demand for encouragement in the employment of better teachers, it was agreed that the aim should be to approach the Survey Commission proposal for a minimum guarantee to provide $900 for elementary teacher units and $1200 for high school teacher units, and that as additional revenue should be available above that required for the $750 and $1000 program, it should be distributed on the plan of a guarantee of $800 for each teacher having a third grade county certificate, $825 for each having a second grade county certificate, $850 for each having a first grade county certificate and $900 for each having a State certificate.

Funds will be available for the improvement of the rural schools under the increased revenues only in the same proportion that they will be available for the cities. It is provided that as additional revenues above the requirements of the minimum program are available the amount of the pupil attendance apportionment shall increase up to 2.9 cents.

$3,224,000 Additional Needed.

It is the estimate of State Superintendent of Schools Lee that in addition to present school revenues $3,224,000 will be required annually to meet the provisions of the school bill. The income tax bill, passed by the Senate and now before the House for concurrence in the Senate amendments, is expected to produce $5,500,000 in additional funds.

If these two estimates are correct—and there is every reason to believe they are—there will be in excess of more than $2,000,000 above the requirements of the school bill. This would be sufficient to meet the recommendation of Gov. Caulfield early in the session that the Legislature provide $500,000 annually for increased housing facilities at the penal institutions and $1,500,000 a year for the replacement of the hazardous buildings at the State Eleemosynary institutions.

The manager and three employes of the Ames Shoe Co., 516 Olive street, were held up yesterday by two armed youths, who locked them in a rear room and then took $100 from the cash register. The robbers escaped in the throng of shoppers in Olive street.

Entering the store at 1:40 p. m., the robbers, described by Frank Ames, manager, as "well dressed, nice looking boys," forced Ames and his clerks into the rear room. At the time the cashier of the store was on her way to a bank with the greater part of the day's receipts.

PISTOL SHOT CAUSES ARREST

Man and Estranged Wife Held for Disturbing the Peace.

Police summoned to a beauty parlor at 4137 North Grand boulevard Friday night arrested Harry Crawford, the manager, and his estranged wife, Mrs. Sophie Crawford, 3301A North Eleventh street, charging them with disturbance of the peace.

Crawford said his wife, from whom he separated four years ago, came to his room in the rear of the shop at 7 o'clock and seized a revolver from the mantel. Crawford struggled with her for possession of the weapon, which was discharged, the bullet going wild.

DRUGGIST GETS FOUR-MONTH TERM ON LIQUOR CHARGE

Wilkerson Co. Head Sold to Dry Agent Who Represented Himself as a Baseball Player.

Jerome Wilkerson, president of the Wilkerson Drug Co., 2301 North Kingshighway, was sentenced to four months in the Audrain County Jail, Mexico, Mo., and fined $400 by Federal Judge Davis yesterday on his plea of guilty of selling liquor to a prohibition agent last October.

Counsel for Wilkerson said the druggist carried no whisky in stock, but was induced to go outside to purchase it for the agent, who had been introduced to him as a baseball player during the world series. The Wilkerson store's permit to dispense liquor on prescription was revoked in 1925, when the proprietor was fined $450 for violation of the prohibition law.

Ten other men also pleaded guilty to liquor law violations and were sentenced to jail or fined, or both. The heaviest penalty went to Charles Valoni, former saloon keeper of Pevely, Mo., who had just completed a six-month sentence for sale and second-offense possession. Valoni was released from jail at Mexico Friday. He came immediately to St. Louis and, reporting at the Federal Building, told Assistant District Attorney Hapke. "There is another count against

He came immediately to St. Louis and, reporting at the Federal Building, told Assistant District Attorney Hapke, "There is another count against me, and you had just as well get it over with now." Accordingly, he pleaded guilty of third-offense possession and was ordered back to Mexico for another six months. He was also fined $400.

Edward Herman, 3901 Folsom avenue, pleaded guilty of sale and possession and was sentenced to four months in jail and fined $500. Charles Greco, 814 Market street, drew a sentence of four months and a fine of $400 on similar charges, and William F. Hochderffer, Ogden avenue and Moll place, Wellston, was sentenced to 60 days for second-offense possession. Dominick Cerulo, 6652 Delmar boulevard, was fined $900 for sale and possession.

Fines of $400 for possession were levied against J. A. Wright, 2931 Chouteau avenue; Sam Ingracia, 2217 Carr street; Ned Dibella, 1327 North Fourteenth street; Jim Cimino, 1121 North Eleventh street, and Fred Moll, Lemp and Shenandoah avenues.

ADMITS KILLING OF SIX WITH AX 19 YEARS AGO

Detroit Prisoner Says He Is Former St. Louisan—Got $2000.

By the Associated Press.

DETROIT, Mich., March 28.—A written confession of a 19-year-old axe murder of six persons in Villisca, Ia., signed by Leroy Robinson, alias George Myers, 48 years old, was made public tonight by the police.

The detectives said they obtained the confession after several days of questioning in the county jail where Robinson is awaiting sentence on a burglary conviction.

The questioning was instigated by an anonymous letter, detectives said, and the confession was obtained only after Sheriff John Conkel of Red Oak, Ia., had furnished local authorities with information concerning the murders on June 9, 1912, of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Moore, their four children and two visitors, daughters of Joe Stillinger.

The detectives, Earl Anderson and Max Rickman, offered no explanation of the discrepancy in the number of persons killed.

The written confession detailed the killing of the six members of the Moore family, and said nothing of the Stillinger girls. The prisoner was held incommunicado tonight, but detectives represented him as saying he knew nothing of the killing of the visitors. The confession quoted Robinson as saying "the devil seemed to possess my soul" after he had killed Moore and his wife in their bed.

Promised $5000.

The motive given in the confession was a promise of $5000 of which only $2000 was received. The money was paid, the confession said, by a man to whom Robinson was introduced in Kansas City by an acquaintance known to him as "Bill Clawson."

Robinson described himself as a "wanderer" and said that he had been in jail most of the time since 1916 when his wife left him in St. Louis, after he had told her of the Villisca murders.

The Police Department made no announcement as to plans for future action in the case other than to say his jail and prison records would be checked to determine if it would have been possible for him to have committed the crime.

Met Man in Saloon.

In his written confession, Robinson said he had met Clawson in a saloon in Kansas City. Clawson, he said, told him he knew a man with money who wanted him to "bump off a man or get someone to do it."

Clawson subsequently introduced him to the man, he said, and he killed Moore, his wife and the four children.

Robinson described his flight from Villisca, how he slept in a barn the first day, stole a horse two days later and finally rode a freight train into Omaha.

Then the confession details his wanderings, to Denver, Colorado Springs, Pueblo, El Paso, Tex., and into Mexico. Finally, he returned to his wife in St. Charles, Mo., the confession says, and stayed there a year. After the separation, in St. Louis in 1916, Robinson said he learned his wife had died in 1917.

When Moore failed to arrive at his implement shop the next morning officers and neighbors entered the home. The eight were found with their heads crushed in beds. Every curtain in the home was drawn and wearing apparel was draped around the edges of the windows to shut out the light. In a downstairs bedroom lay the ax with which the eight had been slain. Blood hounds, detectives and a fingerprint expert were summoned, but no clews were found.

The anonymous letter stated:

A minister, the Rev. Lyn George J. Kelly at Macedonia, 60 miles away, commented at breakfast that a murder had been committed. He said he had arrived from Villisca at 5 a. m. He was arrested but released. Five years later he was arrested again, tried and acquitted.

"If you will go to the Wayne County jail and interview a man named Meyers you will learn something about a murder in Villisca, Ia., 19 years ago—a particularly horrible murder."

MAN SLAIN NEAR TOLEDO, APPARENTLY VICTIM OF GANG

TOLEDO, O., March 28.—The body of a well-dressed unidentified man, believed by police to have been murdered by St. Louis or Chicago gangsters who are known to have been in hiding here the last few days, was found this afternoon in a ditch, a quarter of a mile from an abandoned car on the Oak Harbor-Sand Beach road.

Authorities believe a second murder may have been committed, since a blue Chevrolet coupe, parked near the body and driven rapidly away at approach of Deputy Sheriffs, contained, besides the driver, the unconscious form of a woman. The driver of the car attempted to throw a blanket over the woman to conceal her from the deputies.

The deputies pursued the coupe for 15 miles over country roads, but the fugitive car outdistanced the deputies' machine and disappeared in the direction of Toledo.

The best clew to the man's identity found in the clothing was an invoice slip for automobile service made out by a firm in Detroit. The invoice was dated Feb. 17 and was for $2.15. Scribbled at the bottom of the invoice was the name "G. J. Landry" or "Lundry" 12937 Woodward. The car bore a Michigan license issued to Gertrude Dwyer of Detroit.

MEAT ADULTERATION IN 33 STORES CHARGED

Warrants Will Allege Sodium Sulphite Was Used to "Freshen" Hamburger.

Warrants are to be issued tomorrow against proprietors of 33 food stores, charging them with offering adulterated meat for sale.

The charges follow an investigation of 60 St. Louis stores made last week by State Food and Drug Commissioner C. H. Manville and his deputies.

The adulterant used, the inspectors said, was a cleaning compound containing sodium sulphite, which was added to hamburger to give it the appearance of fresh meat. The compound is not intended for consumption and has a harmful effect on the human system, the inspectors said.

Prosecuting Attorney Rosecan said he would issue the warrants, based upon a State statute which provides a penalty of six months in the Workhouse, or a fine of from $10 to $500.

Hospital Commissioner Lohr will recommend that standard specifications for supplies bought by city institutions be adopted if a practical plan can be devised, he said yesterday. The city has a Board of Standardization, composed of the president of the Board of Public Service, the Comptroller and the Supply Commissioner, which could adopt such specifications.

Dr. Lohr pointed out that under the present system the city spends about $1,000,000 a year for supplies, but the head of each institution buys according to his own ideas. The sheets used in one hospital may differ from those in another, and the cleaning preparations used in one institution are not used in others, he said by way of illustration.

His remarks were prompted by the report of Director of Public Welfare Salisbury a few days ago which disclosed that sausage sold to the city contained cereal and water in excessive amount. Dr. Lohr added, however, that on the whole the quality of food supplied to city institutions is good.

CLAIMS RIGHT TO RAISE SOVIET FLAG IN U. S.

Woman Appealing From Conviction Under California's Syndicalist Laws.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, March 28.—The contention that Communists have a constitutional right in this country to raise the red flag of Soviet Russia was advanced today in a brief filed with the Supreme Court by Yetta Stromberg. The 21-year-old Communist, born in Cleveland of Russian immigrant parentage, filed the brief in her appeal from a conviction of violating the California red flag law, the validity of which she is contesting.

A jury of "patrotic and excited" American citizens convicted her for displaying in a remote summer camp, a few miles from Yucaipa, San Bernardino County, Cal., the flag of Soviet Russia, she declared. The flag, she said, was the emblem of the Communist party, of which she is a member, regularly organized in this country, with candidates for President and Vice President voted for at national elections.

The California red flag law "has enabled a jury to find that the flag of Russia, perhaps the most highly organized government in the world, is the emblem of opposition to organized government and of sedition," the brief declared.

In 1929, at the camp, the young woman Communist would have 40 children stand at attention at 7 o'clock in the morning and salute and pledge their allegiance to the workers' red flag.

The camp was raided by officials and a large quantity of Communist literature was seized. Declaring the propaganda she was conducting did not violate the California syndicalism law, sustained by the Supreme Court, she insisted that the red flag law was invalid because it would punish her for acts which were legal. She claimed she never advocated the use of force to overthrow the Government.

SUSTAINS NATURAL GAS RULING

California Court Upholds Injunction Against Oil Companies.

By the Associated Press.

SAN FRANCISCO, March 28.—The State Supreme Court today sustained a Los Angeles Superior Court injunction against the two Twin Bell Oil syndicates and the Star Petroleum Co. yesterday. These companies, enjoined with approximately 43 oil producing organizations, appealed on the ground they were being discriminated against and that the 1929 gas conservation law was unconstitutional.

The Court reiterated its ruling that State legislation intended to prevent natural gas wastage in oil fields was sound and that the Superior Courts were empowered to enforce the laws.

BABY KILLED IN AUTO CRASH

Cars Collide on Highway No. 61 Near St. Charles.

Brownie, 10-months-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Bequette of Ste. Genevieve, Mo., was killed Friday when a small coupe in which he was riding with his parents and Dr. H. P. Hopkins of Flat River, Mo., collided with another auto on highway No. 61 about 20 miles northwest of St. Charles. The child's skull was crushed.

The coupe was driven by Dr. Hopkins, who was taking the child's father to Hannibal for an operation. The other car was driven by William McCoy of Foristell, Mo.

24TH WARD STRATEGY OF REPUBLICANS FAILS

Democratic Committeeman Files New Aldermanic Candidacy When One Withdraws.

A move planned by Republican strategists of the Twenty-fourth Ward, apparently with the aid of the ward's Democratic nominee for Alderman, to leave the Republican aldermanic candidate unopposed at election, was frustrated yesterday afternoon by Democratic Committeeman John P. English.

English, suspecting that Republicans planned a surprise by filing the withdrawal of John H. Whitmore, Democratic aldermanic candidate before 5 p. m. yesterday, the last minute allowed for such action, posted himself at the second floor railing of the City Hall during the afternoon.

He watched the entrance to the Board of Election Commissioners, and when Robert Ecoff, City Water Department employe and Twenty-fourth Ward Republican worker, entered about 4:50, English followed.

Ecoff submitted to the Clerk of the Board of Election Commissioners Democratic Candidate Whitmore's formal withdrawal from the race, leaving for the moment, Harry Barnes, Republican nominee, unopposed. Two minutes later, English, having prepared for the emergency, filed a petition replacing Whitmore's name with that of Lawrence J. Fontana, 4924 Barthold avenue.

"They thought they would catch us asleep," English told a reporter. "But my suspicions were aroused Friday when I phoned Whitmore, who had said he would probably withdraw after his nomination. I told him Saturday was the last day he could withdraw, and he said he wanted 'a couple of days to think it over.'

"I have been informed since that Ecoff had Whitmore's withdrawal in his pocket when I talked to him. At any rate when Whitmore couldn't make up his mind I decided that it was best to be prepared, so we got enough signatures on a petition to nominate Fontana if we should need to replace our candidate.

"When I saw Ecoff go in the door at the Board of Election Commissioners, I followed him right in. When I came up he had submitted the withdrawal."

Ecoff, a Koeln appointee, is chief clerk in the City Water Works Department, and a member of the Twenty-fourth Ward Republican organization. Whitmore is a former Democratic City Committeeman from the ward.

NOTES TO VIVIAN GORDAN, SLAIN VICE WITNESS, HELD BY POLICE

Said to Include Gracious Messages From Prominent Men and Death Threats From Illiterates.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, March 28.—The News says in a copyrighted story that death threats by illiterates against the life of Vivian Gordon, murdered vice witness, and gracious messages to her on stationery of the University Club are in the possession of the police, but are kept secret.

Threats against both Miss Gordon and her attorney and confidant, John A. Radloff, are declared to be in the city's files.

Among the notes, the News says, is one from an international lawyer, another from a prominent physician, and a third from the owner of a string of famous race horses.

The News further states that at least nine wealthy men, including a Judge, a former secretaary of New York State, a former president of the Board of Education, and a manufacturer of New York and Chicago have been questioned privately by operatives of a private detective agency concerning their acquaintance with the slain vice witness.

'DID NOT JUSTIFY PHOTOGRAPH'

By the Associated Press.

GLASGOW, Scotland, March 28.—Katheryn Roth, American evangelist and former actress, was awarded damages of $1000 today in her suit against the Scottish Protestant League for breach of contract. The contract promised her $2500 for a five months' speaking campaign on "Why I Left the Stage," but she claimed that payments had not been completed.

The League, in its reply, said that the contract was made on the basis of a photograph of Miss Roth which proved to have been an old one and that if a recent photograph had been sent the contract would not have been made.

Sureties in Akron Case Lose Jobs.

By the Associated Press.

AKRON, O., March 28.—Three of the 22 bond signers for Paul F. Kassay, accused of an alleged plot to wreck the Zeppelin "Akron," have been discharged by their employers, Andrew Parks, secretary of the Trade Union Unity League, said tonight. The three, Parks said, were called to the office of a big Akron factory today and were asked if they had signed Kassay's bond. "When they admitted they had signed, they were told that this fact indicated that they are 'radicals' and that their services were needed no longer," Parks said.

SPRING WHEAT ACREAGE TO DROP 14 PER CENT

Estimate by Department of Agriculture of Amount to Be Harvested.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, March 28.—In a supplemental report on farmers' intentions to plant, the Agriculture Department said today that, allowing for the abandonment of winter wheat reported to March 1, the total acreage of winter and spring wheat indicated for harvest was 57,441,000 acres, compared with 59,153,000 acres in 1930, a decline of about 3 per cent.

The total spring wheat area, the department said, based on past relations between intentions to plant and acreage actually harvested, would be about 17,682,000 acres as compared with 20,545,000 last year, a reduction of nearly 14 per cent. This would be the smallest acreage of spring wheat since 1924 when 16,879,000 acres were harvested.

The farmers have indicated they intend to plant this spring about 24 per cent less durum wheat and about 12 per cent other spring wheat.

The department estimated that 42,042,000 acres of winter wheat were sown last fall. The farmers reported on March 1 they expect to harvest about 39,759,000 acres. The department said the reduction in spring wheat acreage is partly due to a shift to feed crops in the north-central spring wheat states and partly to a substitution of winter wheat for spring wheat in the State of Washington.

If yields of spring wheat should be average, the department said, a production of hard red spring wheat of about 148,000,000 bushels, durum wheat of about 47,000,000 bushels and white wheat of about 26,000,000 bushels would be in prospect.

At the indicated spring wheat acreage and assuming no more than average yields, it is expected there will not be an export surplus of hard red spring wheat grown east of the Rocky Mountains.

The department said that little change had occurred in the world outlook for wheat for the 1931-1932 crop year since February, when the annual outlook report of the department was issued. The supplemental report today was issued to be considered in connection with that report. An abnormally large world carryover still is in prospect, the department said. Adding there also was the likelihood of an increase in Russian acreage.

ARRESTED HERE IN KILLING OF BELGRADE (MO.) MERCHANT

A man described as Larry Douglas, 22 years old, Caledonia, Mo., was arrested here Friday and turned over to Sheriff W. J. Simmons of Washington County for questioning in the killing of James Wiley, 68-year-old storekeeper of Belgrade, Mo., by robbers on March 6.

Douglas, who was found at 812 Ann avenue, was mentioned to the authorities by Jesse Gillam, 35, Belgrade, who is held at Potosi. Gillam admitted, according to Sheriff Simmons, that he and a companion were robbing Wiley's store at 4 o'clock in the morning when they were surprised by the storekeeper, who had a revolver. Wiley was struck on the head with a hammer by the robbers. He died a week later of a fractured skull. The robbers fled with $52.

TO RENEW FIGHT ON SALARIED PENSIONERS

Senator Reed Attacks Disability Allowance for Men on Government Payroll.

Post-Dispatch Bureau,
201-205 Kellogg Bldg.

WASHINGTON, March 28.—Senator David A. Reed (Rep.), Pennsylvania, chairman of the Senate Military Affairs Committee, announced today on his return from Bermuda that he would continue his fight against payment of disability retirement compensation to former World War officers who are also drawing salaries from the Federal Government.

In the closing days of the last session, Reed sponsored a proposal that no veteran drawing salary of $2000 or more from the Federal Government should receive compensation under the emergency officers' retirement act.

The proposal, an amendment to the independent officers' appropriation bill, was rejected by the House conferees and Reed, not wishing to delay passage of the appropriation bill, withgdrew his amendment.

Reed said that he would propose to increase the salary limit to $2500 in a resolution he intends to introduce next session.

"The thing I am driving at," Reed said, "is this practice of paying emergency officers disability compensation when they are able to work and draw regular salaries from the Government. I am also interested in the discrimination against enlisted men."

Under the retirement act, emergency officers must show that they are at least 30 per cent disabled. The original bill stipulated that the disabilities should be of service origin, but an advisory opinion by the Attorney-General broadened the scope of the act to include disabilities presumably of service origin.

In the debates on his original propsal, Reed cited numerous examples of former officers drawing disability pensions who were also receiving salaries ranging from $5000 to $9000 a year in the Veterans' Bureau, the organization which disburses the retirement pay. He described the situation as "shocking and scandalous."

The most glaring case cited was that of William Wolff Smith, general counsel of the bureau, at $9000 a year salary, who also receives $187.50 a month disability compensation. Smith enlisted two months before the armistice in the Quartermaster Corps. He receives disability compensation for chronic bronchitis and hernia.

Representative Simmons (Rep.) Nebraska has declared that the question of compensation to disabled officers on the Federal salary roll should be investigated by Congress. Reed said that the discrimination was so plain that no inquiry was necessary.

The Government is now paying $11,000,000 a year to 6500 disabled emergency officers. Although the time for filing applications has expired, another 6500 applications, disallowed in preliminary investigations, are being carried by the Veterans' Bureau as "open cases," subject to reconsideration on the presentfation of additional evidence.

VISITORS FROM HOLLYWOOD HAVE LUNCH WITH WALKER

Says He Is Not Going Into Movies; Expects to Be Mayor of New York.

By the Associated Press.

PALM SPRINGS, Cal., March 28.—Hollywood came down to see Mayor James J. Walker today, but the visitors did not interrupt his program of sun bathing. Among the visitors were Adolph Zukor, Joe Schenck, B. P. Schulberg, Edwin Carewe, Polly Moran, Joe Johnston, Lew Cody, Edmund Lowe and Lilian Tashman.

The Mayor met them while having luncheon near a swimming pool, a spot in the sun. Suggestions that the Mayor might become a film actor drew the usual answer, "I expect to be Mayor of New York for three more years."

The luncheon was preceded by a wedding in which the Mayor appeared as best man. The principals were Patrick Foley, a newspaper correspondent from Los Angeles, and Sylvia Golosky.

MARTYR CITY REOPENS CHURCH

Ypres, Belgium, Clears Away Traces of War Ruins.

By the Associated Press.

YPRES, Belgium.—With the recent reopening of Saint Martin's Church, Ypres, the martyr city has lost almost its last trace of the war.

The only ruins that survive in "Wipers," as the British soldiers called the city, are the remains of the famous Cloth Hall. These are to stand as a relic of the world tragedy.

MRS. E. S. STRAUSS GETS DIVORCE DECREE

Six Months of Preliminaries End in Surprise Suit— Property Settlement Made.

Ending six months of hontly contested preliminaries, Mrs. Morton K. Strauss of the Park Plaza Hotel obtained an uncontested divorce yesterday from Emil S. Strauss, wealthy retired merchant, on grounds of general indignities. A cross-bill setting forth her charges was filed in Circuit Judge Calhoun's court a few minutes before she took the stand to testify.

Twelve or 15 persons, including those involved in the case, were present at the 20-minute hearing at which Mrs. Strauss, dressed entirely in black and with no visible evidence of the $76,700 worth of jewelry she recently admitted having, declared her husband had an irritable nature, a sulking temperament and a jealous disposition.

Property Settlement.

Mrs. Strauss told the Court that a property settlement agreeable to both her and her husband had been made and that she did not desire alimony. At her request, the Court restored her former name, Rolwing.

The trial of the case came as a surprise, since it had been reset for hearing in May, with ample space allowed on the docket for extended testimony. Late Thursday afternoon, however, lawyers in the case indicated they had come to an adjustment, and Friday afternoon made the request for the special setting.

Two Petitions Dismissed.

Strauss' petition, filed last September, was dismissed when only his counsel appeared for him, and the hundreds of pages of depositions taken in California, Canada, Atlantic City, N. J., aid St. Louis, by which Strauss sought to show that his wife was extravagant, were not introduced into evidence.

Similarly Mrs. Strauss' suit for separate maintenance, in which she estimated her husband's wealth at $3,000,000, and asked for an allowance of $1500 a month, was dismissed by her counsel, at Strauss' cost. Action on the suit had gone as far as the Missouri Supreme Court, where it was forestalled by a writ of prohibition. Mrs. Strauss' previous answer to the divorce petition was withdrawn, to substitute the cross-bill.

In support of her charges, Mrs. Strauss said that she had treated her husband with "consideration, affection and unlimited patience," but that as early as two weeks after their marriage, at Vienna, Austria, in August, 1927, he had threatened to divorce her.

"A Positive Tragedy."

He persisted, she said, in leaving a light burning in their bedroom, although it made her extremely nervous, and would often shut himself up in his room for periods as long as 10 days, sulking. He objected, she told Judge Calhoun, to her taking her children by a previous marriage on her lap, to her fixing her son's tie or putting a flower in his buttonhole.

Often, she recounted, Strauss would get up from a table without a word and leave the room. When such a thing occurred in the presence of bridge guests, she said, it was "a positive tragedy in the house."

Her son, Edward G. Rolwing Jr., 22 years old, corroborated her testimony. He and two character witnesses, Mrs. John C. Muckerman and Mrs. Mary Alice Crehore, were the only other witnesses put on the stand by Mrs. Strauss' counsel.

Strauss' Depositions.

Difficulties over financial matters, Strauss testified last December in depositions, were the chief cause of friction in the three years of their married life.

Primarily he cited instances of buying that began when he, a bachelor of 60, and the former Mrs. Rolwing, a divorcee of 42, were married at Vienna and began a wedding trip, over Europe. Instead of a sight-seeing tour, he said, it turned into a shopping expedition.

At Carlsbad, he recounted, Mrs. Strauss bought linen, glassware, crystalware, china and a mink fur coat; at Berlin, a silver antique history book and a tea set; at Brussels, lace tablecloths, and at Paris, a diamond ring. In Florida later, he said, he bought her a $15,000 Minerva automobile because she said she was "tired of riding in American cars." He estimated his gifts to her of jewelry alone at $68,000.

In addition, he said, he maintained an apartment in the Senate, 265 Union boulevard, took his wife on trips to Colorado, California, Cuba, New York and Canada, and paid for her trip to Europe, where her 17-year-old daughter was placed in school.

When he balked at buying a $68,000 necklace in Florida and a pair of earrings and an antique chalice at Budapest, he said, he precipitated what he described as "terrible moments" in their married life. He told of his wife's buying a $2700 vanity case in Florida without his knowledge, an act she is said to have described to her friends as an "April fool joke."

On her admission that she possessed seven articles of jewelry valued at $76,700, the vanity case, the automobile, a mink coat valued at $4050 and $15,000 worth of furniture, Judge Rosskopf last December denied Mrs. Strauss alimony pending trial of the suit.

Mrs. Strauss was first married to Edward G. Rolwing, principal stockholder in the Universal Life Insurance Co., whom she divorced in 1925. They had two daughters and a son..

Strauss is the retired president of Strauss Brothers Mercantile Co., a millinery firm.

E. ST. LOUIS POLICE 'HELPLESS,' SAYS HARRIS SUPPORTER

U. S. Attorney Baker Tells How Men Still on Force Gave Testimony to Free Sheltons in Robbery.

Speaking at a mass meeting in behalf of the M. L. Harris ticket in the East St. Louis municipal campaign, United States District Attorney, Harold G. Baker, charged yesterday that the police department of East St. Louis was "helpless" to enforce the laws against vice and crime after members of the police force had testified for the Shelton brothers at a trial in which they were charged with robbing a bank.

Baker said: "There was a holdup of a bank at Kinkaid, Ill. At the trial the Shelton brothers were identified as the robbers. To prove an alibi, three police officers, who are still on the force of East St. Louis, testified that two of the Shelton brothers were in jail at the time.

"To support their testimony they took the police blotter with them. It was evident, as the state's attorney charged before the jury at the trial, that someone other than the desk sergeant had written the names of the Shelton brothers on the police record.

"From that time on, the East St. Louis police department was helpless to enforce the laws against vice and crime."

Charges a Whitewash.

Baker then related how an investigation had been demanded of the Board of Police and Fire Commissioners who "whitewashed" the police. The exception on the commission, the speaker said, was Commissioner Tom Hayes, who made a minority report against the three police officers and was subsequently discharged.

Baker related that in his experience as District Attorney he had been unable to find adequate records of criminals ordinarily kept by the police.

"The first thing that happened to Mayor Frank Doyle when he took office," Baker declared, "was the gift of an expensive automobile to him by the gamblers. Later we see Mayor Doyle, who as Mayor is charged with being chief of law enforcement, giving permits to carry weapons to employes of the Mounds Club.

"That in itself may not be so bad, until you consider that the Mounds Club is operated by Bowwow McQuillan, connected with the nefarious narcotic traffic, and Harry Murdock, gambler and operator of a beer racket."

Holds Up Chicago as Warning.

Baker told of cases that had come before the Federal Court in connection with the "Valley" vice district and declared that the Doyle administration had tolerated the district with its associated crime. He cautioned the voters "not to fall into the mistakes of Chicago by re-electing the Doyle ticket."

H. Grady Vien, attorney, asserted that Doyle was Mayor, Finance Commissioner and Vice Mayor, when the intent of the law was that these offices should be separately assigned to elected Commissioners.

He quoted statistics which he said were taken from the city records to show that under Mayor Doyle, the tax income had increased from $506,000 to $690,000, but the license fees and income from fines had dwindled $80,000. He attributed the increase in taxes to the delinquency in collecting license fees and court fines, the two main sources of income for general revenue excepting taxes.

DISTURBANCES IN ILLINOIS PRISON LAID TO IRON RULE

Twelve Convicts Taken Before Legislature's Investigating Committee to Tell of Conditions.

By the Associated Press.

JOLIET, Ill., March 28.—Handcuffed to one another, 12 convicts were brought from the new prison at Stateville to the old prison here today for questioning by the legislative investigating committee.

Deputy Warden Frank Kness suggested the names of 20 convicts. He was requested to bring 10 at a time and, at request of W. E. Bray, Democratic committee member of Litchfield, two were added to the first load.

Bray asked that Clarence Langford, Southern Illinois gangster, transferred here from the Chester penitentiary, be called, and also that Anthony Hillberg, sent here as a result of the wife war and Looney shooting at Rock Island, be included. Harry McCaskrin, committee member from Rock Island, asked that George Buckley, also involved in the Looney shooting, be called. Esser, the Aurora banker, was the convict credited by prison officials with stopping the rioters, March 13, from destroying the dynamos and electric motors at the new prison.

Marty Durkin's Testimony.

Marty Durkin, Chicago killer; Francis Langford, Quincy slayer, and less notorious convicts denounced the treatment of prisoners in solitary confinement, accused the Parole Board of negligence and told in convict argot their view of prison conditions.

It was Langford who held the greatest share of attention as the investigation and the causes of riots went through its sixth day.

Langford is serving a life term for murder. But down in Missouri, he said, he is wanted for killing a Sheriff, a Chief of Detectives and a motion picture operator. He said he killed them in rescuing his brother—boarding the train en route from Kansas City to Quincy at Macon, Mo., and leaving it at Clarence, Mo., "after the battle."

"Cold-blooded murder of the three inmates on the wall here Feb. 22," he said, "was the detonator that set off the riots. Old heads tried to stop them, but if there are any other such occurrences the old heads are of such a temper they'll join in with the young punks and there'll be a much greater riot."

Durkin, sentenced for killing a Federal agent, spent most of his time telling of the "horrors of the hole," and complaining that he had been mistreated. He said "the hole" was a cause of unrest.

John Esser, former Aurora bank president, charged with embezzling $482,000, suggested the indeterminate sentence be abolished. "Contented prisoners are those who know how long they must serve," he said. "I speak from experience when I tell of the mental anguish of uncertainty there is in the indeterminate sentence."

The committee heard George Erickson, deputy warden in direct charge of the old prison, explain the records of solitary confinement and punishment.

Ray Tepper, Chicago, and Paul Sane, Peoria, convicts, who have served terms in solitary confinement, were called. Tepper told that he had served 23 days for walking away from the honor farm, when he learned that he was not to be released after serving his minimum sentence. He said that "if it hadn't been for Clabaugh (former head of Parole Board) and his desire for newspaper publicity" the Supreme Court ruling on "Ten to life" would not have been sought, and the 600 old convicts here under that sentence would have gotten the same.

Dissatisfied With Board.

"Men here are all sore at the Parole Board," he said. "They expect to get out for good behavior after serving their minimum, but find when they face the board they have more years added. If men could know their terms and expect good conduct would work for them, there would be no more trouble here, and, furthermore, you wouldn't have so many paroled men coming back for violation of parole."

Arthur Miller, former barber of Rock Island, serving a life term for murder, told the Legislative Committee that convicts sent a "round robin" to Rodney Brandon, State Director of Public Welfare, soon after he was appointed, asking him to come to the prison and address them, and then hear their spokesman in an expression of their complaints against the Parole Board.

Unrest here, Miller said, goes back beyond the time of "Iron-rule Murphy" under whose strict, disciplinary administration there were three uprisings in the dining room in 1913, three principal fires and a quarry riot for which convicts were locked up in their cells for 65 days. Unrest then he said, as unrest now, is due entirely to the "injustice of the Parole Board."

All uprisings, he said, had one purpose and that was "to get public attention for the convicts grief at lack of justice with the Parole Board." Chiefly he said, convicts object to being "kidded" by the board.

"The board," he said, "will hear a man here, give him hope that he will get a parole, and then go back to Springfield and send him a ticket from there giving him 10 years more and in some cases 15 years more."

ROBBER'S VICTIM

WILLIAM E. FELDMANN.

FUNERAL OF WILLIAM FELDMANN TO BE TOMORROW AT 2 P. M.

The funeral of William E. Feldmann, who died Friday of wounds suffered early last Sunday when he was shot by one of three men who accosted him and his wife as he was placing his automobile in a garage near his home, will be held tomorrow at 2 p. m. at Donnelly's undertaking establishment, 3840 Lindell boulevard. Burial is to be in Frieden's Cemetery.

Feldmann, a mechanic, 23 years old, resided at 5831A Theodosia avenue. Returning home shortly after midnight, he and his wife noticed that a machine containing three men followed them into an alley near their home. Two of the men followed them into their garage and ordered them out of their car. One of the pair commanded Feldman to put up his hands and then shot him in the abdomen as he was getting out of his car.

A Coroner's verdict of homicide at the hands of persons unknown was returned yesterday. Feldmann is survived by his mother, Mrs. Jessie Grassmuck Feldmann, and his widow, Mrs. Evelyn Hill Feldmann.

GERK ACTS TO RETARD GROWING AUTO DEATHS

Instructs Officers to Enforce Traffic Laws More Strictly —1931 Killings Now 45.

With motor vehicle fatalities now numbering 46, as compared with 32 on the corresponding date last year, Chief of Police Gerk and the St. Louis Safety Council have been moved to discuss measures for reducing accidents.

Chief Gerk, in a communication to policemen yesterday, states: "Traffic fatalities now exceed those on the corresponding date last year by 20 per cent. Speeding has increased three-fold, based on the number of arrests during the last 12 months, which is 792, compared with 234 during the preceding 12 months. What can the matter be? This increase in deaths and general speeding is certainly out of line. In the interest of fewer accidents officers are instructed to be more strict in enforcing all traffic laws."

Miss Stephanie Rajlewski, 20-year-old telephone operator, died Friday of a fractured skull suffered Thursday when a machine in which she was a passenger collided with an Illinois Terminal System freight train in North St. Louis. Charles Kuhn, 67, a watchmaker, 3427 Shenandoah avenue, died yesterday of injuries suffered Feb. 28 when struck by a machine near his home.

Members of the Safety Council conferred Friday with Police Court Judges and city officials on the situation and agreed that the public requires additional education on highway safety and that offending motorists should be uniformly punished.

Ex-Gov. Cox's Condition Favorable.

By the Associated Press.

MIAMI BEACH, Fla., March 28. —The condition of former Gov. James M. Cox of Ohio, who underwent an emergency operation here today for acute appendicitis, was pronounced by hospital authorities to be as well as could be expected tonight. The Governor, owner of the News League, embracing newspapers in Miami and Dayton, and Springfield, O., was stricken early today and was operated on shortly afterward.

SUES TO SET ASIDE DIVORCE GRANTED AFTER RECONCILIATION

Mrs. Louis Montgomery Alleges She Did Not Know Decree Had Been Issued.

Mrs. Louis Montgomery, 4731 Arsenal street, who became reconciled with her husband after he had sued for divorce two years ago, filed suit at Clayton yesterday, alleging she had just learned that the divorce had been granted, and asking that it be set aside so that they may continue to live together with their 5-year-old son.

Montgomery filed his suit July 10, 1923, alleging general indignities, and later, according to Mrs. Montgomery's petition, sought her out after she had filed an entry of appearance and told her he wanted to dismiss the suit. It was agreed, she says, that that would be done, and that they patched up their differences.

Montgomery operates a garage at 3100 Sutton avenue, Maplewood, and is president of Greater St. Louis Speedway Association which conducts automobile races during the summer at Creve Coeur, Mo. Montgomery's suit is regarded as a friendly action because of a memorandum attached to the petition, which states that Montgomery will appear at the Sheriff's office in Clayton to accept service.

"I'M GOING ANYWAY"

THE modern Miss needs no "time out" for the time of month. She knows the absolute antidote for the pains women used to suffer periodically.

If you've ever taken Bayer Aspirin for a headache, you know how soon the pain subsides. It is just as effective for those pains peculiar to women!

Don't dedicate certain days of every month to suffering. It's old-fashioned. It's unnecessary. Aspirin will always enable you to carry on in comfort. Take enough to assure your complete comfort. If it's genuine aspirin it can't possibly hurt you. Bayer Aspirin does not depress the heart. It does not upset the stomach. It does nothing but relieve the pain.

Headaches come at most inconvenient times. So do colds. But Bayer Aspirin will always save the day. A throat so sore you can hardly swallow is made comfortable with one good gargle made from these tablets. Neuralgia. Neuritis. Rheumatism. Pains that once kept people home are forgotten half an hour after taking a few of these remarkable tablets. So are the little nagging aches that bring fatigue and "nerves" by day, or a sleepless night.

Take Bayer Aspirin for any ache or pain, and take enough to relieve it. There is no harm in its free use. That is medical opinion. But buy only the genuine tablets bearing the Bayer cross. Buy enough so that you are never out of them. Keep your pocket tin filled from the bottle that holds one hundred tablets.

Genuine Bayer Aspirin tablets cost so very little after all, that it doesn't pay to experiment with imitations!

Bray asked that Clarence Langford, Southern Illinois gangster, transferred here from the Chester penitentiary, be called, and also that Anthony Billberg, sent here as a result of the vice war and Looney shooting at Rock Island, be included. Harry McCaskrin, committee member from Rock Island, asked that George Buckley, also involved in the Looney shooting, be called. Esser, the Aurora banker, was the convict credited by prison officials with stopping the rioters, March 18, from destroying the dynamos and electric motors at the new prison.

Marty Durkin's Testimony.

Marty Durkin, Chicago killer; Francis Langford, Quincy slayer, and less notorious convicts denounced the treatment of priosners in solitary confinement, accused the Parole Board of negligence and told in convict argot their view of prison conditions.

It was Langford who held the greatest share of attention as the investigation and the causes of riots went through its sixth day.

Langford is serving a life term for murder. But down in Missouri, he said, he is wanted for killing a Sheriff, a Chief of Detectives and a motion picture operator. He said he killed them in rescuing his brother—boarding the train en route from Kansas City to Quincy at Macon, Mo., and leaving it at Clarence, Mo., "after the battle."

"Cold-blooded murder of the three inmates on the wall here Feb. 22,55 he said, "was the detonator that set off the riots. Old heads tried to stop them, but if there are any other such occurrences the old heads are of such a temper they'll join in with the young punks and there'll be a much greater riot."

Durkin, sentenced for killing a Federal agent, spent most of his time telling of the "horrors of the hole," and complaining that he had been mistreated. He said "the hole" was a cause of unrest.

John Esser, former Aurora bank president, charged with embezzling $482,000, suggested the indeterminate sentence be abolished. "Contented prisoners are those who know how long they must serve," he said. "I speak from experience when I tell of the mental anguish of uncertainty there is in the indeterminate sentence."

The committee heard George Erickson, deputy warden in direct charge of the old prison, explain the records of solitary confinement and punishment.

Ray Tepper, Chicago, and Paul Slane, Peoria, convicts, who have served terms in solitary confinement, were called. Tepper told that he had served 28 days for walking away from the honor farm, when he learned that he was not to be released after serving his minimum sentence. He said that "if it hadn't been for Clabaugh (former head of Parole Board) and his desire for newspaper publicity," the Supreme Court ruling on "Ten to life" would not have been sought, and the 600 old convicts here under that sentence would have gotten the same.

Dissatisfied With Board.

"Men here are all sore at the Parole Board," he said. "They expect to get out for good behavior after serving their minimum, but find when the face the board they have more years added. If men could know their terms and expect good conduct would work for them, there would be no more trouble here, and, furthermore, you wouldn't have so many paroled men coming back for violation of parole."

Arthur Miller, former barber of Rock Island, serving a life term for murder, told the Legislative Committee that convicts sent a "round robin" to Rodney Brandon, State Director of Public Welfare, soon after he was appointed, asking him to come to the prison and address them, and then hear their spokesman in an expression of their complaints against the Parole Board.

Unrest here, Miller said, goes back beyond the time of "iron-rule Murphy" under whose strict disciplinary administration there were three uprisings in the dining room in 1919, three principal fires and a quarry riot for which convicts were locked up in their cells for 65 days. Unrest then he said, as unrest now, is due entirely to the "injustice of the Parole Board."

All uprisings, he said, had one purpose and that was "to get public attention for the convicts grief at lack of justice with the Parole Board." Chiefly he said, convicts object to being "kidded by the board."

"The board," he said, "will hear a man here, give him hope than he will get a parole, and then go back to Springfield and send him a ticket from there giving him 10 years more and in some cases 15 years more."

ROBBER'S VICTIM

WILLIAM E. FELDMANN.

FUNERAL OF WILLIAM FELDMANN TO BE TOMORROW AT 2 P. M.

The funeral of William E. Feldmann, who died Friday of wounds suffered early last Sunday when he was shot by one of three men who accosted him and his wife as he was placing his automobile in a garage near his home, will be held tomorrow at 2 p. m. at Donnelly's undertaking establishment, 3846 Lindell boulevard. Burial is to be in Frieden's Cemetery.

Feldmann, a mechanic, 23 years old, resided at 5833A Theodosia avenue. Returning home shortly after midnight, he and his wife noticed that a machine containing three men followed them into an alley near their home. Two of the men followed them into their garage and ordered them out of their car. One of the pair commanded Feldman to put up his hands and then shot him in the abdomen as he was getting out of his car.

A Coroner's verdict of homicide at the hands of persons unknown was returned yesterday. Feldmann is survived by his mother, Mrs. Jessie Grassmuck Feldmann, and his widow, Mrs. Evelyn Hill Feldmann.

GERK ACTS TO RETARD GROWING AUTO DEATHS

Instructs Officers to Enforce Traffic Laws More Strictly —1931 Killings Now 45.

With motor vehicle fatalities now numbering 45, as compared with 32 on the corresponding date last year, Chief of Police Gerk and the St. Louis Safety Council have been moved to discuss measures for reducing accidents.

Chief Gerk, in a communication to policemen yesterday, states: "Traffic fatalities now exceed those on the corresponding date last year by 30 per cent. Speeding has increased three-fold, based on the number of arrests during the last 12 months, which is 792, compared with 234 during the preceding 12 months. What can the matter be? This increase in deaths and general speeding is certainly out of line. In the interest of fewer accidents officers are instructed to be more strict in enforcing all traffic laws."

Miss Stephanie Rajlewski, 20-year-old telephone operator, died Friday of a fractured skull suffered Thursday when a machine in which she was a passenger collided with an Illinois Terminal System freight train in North St. Louis. Charles Kuhn, 67, a watchmaker, 3427 Shenandoah avenue, died yesterday of injuries suffered Feb. 28 when struck by a machine near his home.

Members of the Safety Council conferred Friday with Police Court Judges and city officials on the situation and agreed that the public requires additional education on highway safety and that offending motorists should be uniformly punished.

Ex-Gov. Cox's Condition Favorable.

By the Associated Press.

MIAMI BEACH, Fla., March 28.—The condition of former Gov. James M. Cox of Ohio, who underwent an emergency operation here today for acute appendicitis, was pronounced by hospital authorities to be as well as could be expected tonight. The Governor, owner of the News League, embracing newspapers in Miami and Dayton, and Springfield, O., was stricken early today and was operated on shortly afterward.

SUES TO SET ASIDE DIVORCE GRANTED AFTER RECONCILIATION

Mrs. Louis Montgomery Alleges She Did Not Know Decree Had Been Issued.

Mrs. Louis Montgomery, 6731 Arsenal street, who became reconciled with her husband after he had sued for divorce two years ago, filed suit at Clayton yesterday, alleging she had just learned that the divorce had been granted, and asking that it be set aside so that they may continue to live together with their 5-year-old son.

Montgomery filed his suit July 10, 1929, alleging general indignities, and later, according to Mrs. Montgomery's petition, sought her out after she had filed an entry or appearance and told her he wanted to dismiss the suit. It was agreed, she says, that that would be done, and that they patched up their differences.

Montgomery operates a garage at 3110 Sutton avenue, Maplewood, and is president of Greater St. Louis Speedway Association which conducts automobile races during the summer at Creve Coeur. Mrs. Montgomery's suit is regarded as a friendly action because of a memorandum attached to the petition, which states that Montgomery will appear at the Sheriff's office in Clayton to accept service.

"I'M GOING ANYWAY"

THE modern Miss needs no "time out" for the time of month. She knows the absolute antidote for the pains women used to suffer periodically.

If you've ever taken Bayer Aspirin for a headache, you know how soon the pain subsides. It is just as effective for those pains peculiar to women!

Don't dedicate certain days of every month to suffering. It's old-fashioned. It's unnecessary. Aspirin will always enable you to carry on in comfort. Take enough to assure your complete comfort. If it's genuine aspirin it can't possibly hurt you. Bayer Aspirin does not depress the heart. It does not upset the stomach. It does nothing but relieve the pain.

Headaches come at most inconvenient times. So do colds. But Bayer Aspirin will always save the day. A throat so sore you can hardly swallow is made comfortable with one good gargle made from these tablets. Neuralgia. Neuritis. Rheumatism. Pains that once kept people home are forgotten half an hour after taking a few of these remarkable tablets. So are the little nagging aches that bring fatigue and "nerves" by day, or a sleepless night.

Take Bayer Aspirin for any ache or pain, and take enough to relieve it. There is no harm in its free use. That is medical opinion. But buy only the genuine tablets bearing the Bayer cross. Buy enough so that you are never out of them. Keep your pocket tin filled from the bottle that holds one hundred tablets.

Genuine Bayer Aspirin tablets cost so very little after all, that it doesn't pay to experiment with imitations!

CHARGES HOOVER IS PLAYING INTO HANDS OF BOOTLEGGERS

Senator Bulkley of Ohio, Censures President For Attitude on Wickersham Report.

By the Associated Press.

CLEVELAND, O., March 28.—Senator Robert J. Bulkley of Ohio, Democrat, tonight declared that President Hoover has been "playing into the hands of bootleggers and racketeers" by failing to take a decisive stand on prohibition. The statement was made in an address before the City Club Forum.

"I do not say that it is the President's intention to play into the hands of bootleggers, but in effect that is just what he is doing," Bulkley said. He described the President's message transmitting the Wickersham report to Congress as "half hearted" and "without recommendations for action."

"When I say 'playing into the hands of booleggers,' I mean that the administration is doing just what they want most. They wouldn't want repeal because that would put bootleggers out of business and they would oppose too rigid enforcement of the law because that might put them in jail.

"What they want is just enough enforcement so that the 'pikers' will be driven out, the big fellows survive."

ASKS THAT UNINSPECTED CAB DRIVERS BE ARRESTED

Brooks Says 452 Out of 650 Have Submitted to Various Tests.

In a letter to Chief of Police Gerk yesterday, Robert B. Brooks, Director of Streets and Sewers, asked for the arrest of approximately 200 drivers of taxicabs not equipped with blue cards showing the machines have been approved by the Department of Streets and Sewers.

Brooks stated the department has inspected 452 of the approximately 650 cabs in the city, testing brakes and meters and examining the cars for cleanliness. An inspection fee of $2 is charged.

Testing has been conducted over a measured mile on Forest Park boulevard from a point five feet west of Grand boulevard to a point just west of Boyle avenue. Penalty for operating an unapproved cab is a fine of from $25 to $100.

Death of Mrs. Frank Thacher.

An open air service will be held on the grounds of The Arena, at the same time, by the Christian Endeavor Union, with the privilege of meeting in The Arena if weather is unfavorable. The Rev. Dr. J. Oliver Buswell, president of Wheaton College, Wheaton, Ill., will be the speaker. Homer G. Allan will lead the singing.

St. Alphonsus' (Rock) Church, Grand boulevard and Finney avenue, has announced tenebrae services at 8 p. m. Wednesday, Thursday and Friday, and a three-hour service on Good Friday. The three-hour (tre ore) service will be held also at St. Joseph's Church, Eleventh and Biddle streets, the Rev. J. J. Meyer, S. J., preaching.

Evangelistic services will be held each night this week, except Saturday, at the Lutheran City Mission, 916 South Fourth street.

C. H. Schanbusch Funeral.

The funeral of Charles H. Schanbusch, a member of the St. Louis Fire Department for more than 35 years, will be held tomorrow at 2 p. m. at Kron's undertaking establishment, 2707 North Grand boulevard. Mr. Schanbusch, who was 64 years old, died of heart disease Thursday at his home, 4862 Sacramento avenue. His last position was that of night watchman at Engine Company No. 22, 819 South Sixth street. He is survived by his widow, a son and a daughter.

SUIT FILED TO SET ASIDE WILL OF GEORGE GOEBEL

Sisters Aver They Are Only Lawful Heirs But Received No Bequests.

Suit to set aside the will of George H. Goebel, 5365 Maple avenue, who died last Dec. 25, was filed in Circuit Court yesterday by his sisters, Mrs. Sabina M. Niehaus and Mrs. Kathryn R. Stecker. They aver that they and their brother, Phillip J. Goebel, are the only lawful heirs but they received no bequest. It is alleged Goebel was unduly influenced when he prepared the will.

The suit names as defendants, Miss Clara B. Riedell, who was bequeathed $2000; Torrence Lodge, No. 447; Masonic Children's Home of Covina, Cal., and the Masonic Home of Missouri, residuary legatees. No inventory has been filed but the petition sets forth that Goebel owned one parcel of realty in St. Louis County and considerable personal property, all of which, the will provided, shall be converted into cash.

John F. Zesch was appointed administrator, as the executor named in the will declined to qualify. None of the defendants could be reached.

German Doctor's DOUBLE Treatment For Constipation

Dr. Carl Weschcke, in his private practice, first perfected the intestinal cleanser known as Adlerika. It is a compound of a saline intestinal evacuant with cascara, buckthorn, glycerin and other ingredients. Cascara and buckthorn, a leading scientific authority says, not only produce a laxative effect without intestinal discomfort but also act as a tonic to the intestine and so tends to prevent the recurrence of constipation which usually follows the use of many other drugs.

DOUBLE Action

Most laxatives act on part of system only, but Adlerika produces complete elimination.

And in addition to intestinal cleansing, the bacteriological tests of Dr. H. L. Shoub of New York show that Adlerika eliminates much poison from the intestines.

Even the first spoonful of Adlerika produces complete elimination, relieving the system of gas and other causes of discomfort and autointoxication.

Adlerika acts gently because it contains no aloes, senna or harmful narcotics. Get a bottle today; in a few hours you'll feel the amazing cleansing effect of this German doctor's remedy. Sold by leading druggists.

15c FREE Take this to any druggist and get a 15c discount on your first bottle of Adlerika.

Wray's COLUMN

Schwake Laughs Last.

WHEN John Schwake entered the ring at the Coliseum Wednesday night and stripped for action, 7000 fans gaped in pop-eyed surprise. Then they burst into a roar of laughter. Few gathered there had even seen an active athlete in such an advanced state of fatty degeneration. Fat hung in rolls over John's belt at the hips. An enormous watermelon protruded beyond his belt. His chest was about as athletic looking as the breast of a watertown goose. A double wrinkle in the back of his neck completed the picture of athletic hopelessness.

It was for all the world as if a Poland-China pig was being unveiled for the killing. And so the crowd laughed.

But, in the end, it was Schwake who had the last laugh. Just as he had so often done before, he turned the jeers into cheers before the bout had finished.

And, if one had to draw on his home town loyalty somewhat to give him the verdict on points, it was none the less a fact that this shapeless bit of lard not only carried the fight vigorously to his foe all the way, but also outpunched his foe and outlasted him. Of the two the bunch of blubber was in better shape than his lean and well-conditioned rival at the finish.

Fat and the Athlete.

SCHWAKE'S case seems to dispose of the popular belief that a fat man is necessarily an untrained one. There is other evidence which seems to corroborate this.

Wrestlers long have contended that they actually did better when they were not finely drawn and that a little fat was necessary to "work on." Japanese wrestlers are usually grossly overweight.

Then there is the case of the famous Willie Meehan, the ring's roly-poly boy of a few years ago, who gained notoriety because he outpointed Jack Dempsey two or three times. Willie, however, wasn't a marker to John in obesity.

Many fat boys have made good on the football field. For example, the late "Tiny" Maxwell was an all-America football star, although one look at his physique would have made any athletic expert bet the family cemetery lot that Tiny couldn't stir out of his tracks.

John L. Sullivan and Jake Kilrain were far from athletic looking, according to modern standards, when they fought their memorable championship battle.

Jack Johnson was 30 pounds over his normal fighting weight and nearly 40 years old when he fought Jess Willard 26 hard rounds under a hot sun.

Matt McGrath and Pat McDonald heaved the hammer unbelievable distances while weighing more than 250 pounds.

Cases of fat men who performed doughty athletic deeds are not numerous; but there are enough of them to indicate that great endurance and power are not confined alone to the finely drawn among the athletes.

After all, strength of legs, the "wind" and natural muscular power are the basis of all athletic achievement. However, when athletes achieve wonders carrying 25 or 30 pounds overweight, it only makes one wonder just how much better they would be if they were trained down fine.

Nature Intervenes.

SCHWAKE, in this respect, is out of luck. Nature has handicapped John by endowing him with an extraordinary fat-accumulating plant. He puts on flesh

BROWN CARRIED TO 3 1-2 HOURS, BEATS KURZROK IN TENNIS FINAL

By Davison Obear.

It required Wray Brown and Dr. Lawrence Kurzrok three hours and 35 minutes of the most strenuous sort of tennis to decide the championship of the St. Louis Indoor tournament at Washington University Field House last night. The first set alone consumed one hour and 55 minutes, Brown winning. The set scores were 25—23, 5—7, 11—9, 6—3.

Dr. Kurzrok, a graduate of Butler University, is an experienced indoor courts player. He won the Metropolitan Indoor championships at New York in 1928 and 1929. His back court game was almost foultless although Brown seemed always to have a slight advantage in all-around skill.

First Set Nearly Two Hours.

The first set lasted just five minutes less than two hours. Brown had set point (within one point of victory) 11 times but Kurzrok every time frustrated his attempt to pass him. In its early stages the record set was a case of the server winning point until they had passed the 12-game mark when Brown forced the issue. However, the service continued to dominate. Brown settled the issue in the forty-eighth game to win at 25—23.

Kurzrok's previous record sets in the tournament were 22—20 and 21—19, both of which were doubles matches in which he was on the winning side.

Both put more power and speed into their play in the second set, evidently determined that the issue should be decided more quickly. Nevertheless neither could break service and the set again went to deuce. Brown led at 5—4 in games and had the advantage when Kurzrok was serving but once more he could not pass the doctor and the latter came back to break through Brown's service at 6—5 and then take his own to win the set at 7—5. At this stage the match was particularly thrilling, both players mixing their pace and resorting to every strategy to score.

Brown Overcomes Lead.

Brown took the third set after a tense struggle in which he had to come from behind. Kurzrok jumped off to a 4—2 lead in games but Brown took his own service and then broke through to even the score. They were tied at 9-all and Brown took the lead by winning his own service. Then, largely through Kurzrok's errors, Brown won the deciding game to take the set at 11—9.

Brown won the match and championship by taking the fourth set, 6 to 3, making a total of 89 games played. Kurzrok appeared to weaken as the struggle was prolonged.

Brown and Eggman retained their doubles title by defeating Kurzrok and Weinstock, 6—4, 6—4. The match was agreed to be the best two out of three sets by both teams.

Virginia Dueker and Werner won the mixed doubles title, subduing Lottie Hagemeyer and Steideman, 4—6, 6—3, 13—11.

UNIVERSITY CITY IS SECOND IN STATE WRESTLING TOURNEY

By the Associated Press.

COLUMBIA, Mo., March 28.—Hickman High School of Columbia late today won the first annual State interscholastic wrestling tournament, scoring 43 points to 34 for University City, second place winners.

The meet was decided on second and third places, as both Columbia and University City athletes won championships in four classes each. The ninth title went to a Warrensburg training school grappler.

The results of this afternoon's finals:

115 Pounds—Glenn (Hickman), won decision from Frantz (Missouri Military Academy) of Mexico. Time advantage 4:17.

125 Pounds—Heitzman (University City), threw Shires (Missouri M. A.) Time, 1:55.

135 Pounds—Daugherty (Hickman), threw Loe (Warrensburg). Time, 1:37.

145 Pounds—Allen (Warrensburg), threw Gruner (University City). Time, 1:30.

155 Pounds—Ochs (University City), threw Barkley (Missouri M. A.) Time, 2:20.

165 Pounds—Woods (Hickman), threw Moreau (University High of Columbia). Time, 3:09.

In the finals this morning Watts and Clarkson, of University City won championships in the 95 and 105 pound classes, respectively, and Clark of Hickman took the heavyweight title.

University High of Columbia was third with 15 points, Warrensburg fourth with 7, Missouri Military Academy fifth with 6 and Hallsville and Normandy tied for sixth with 5 points.

Barrow, Evans and Secretary Harridge Among Possibilities for American League Presidency

Connie Mack and Navin Mentioned but Could Not Hold Post Along With Ownership.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Ill., March 28.—Two of baseball's greatest leaders, Byron Bancroft Johnson and Ernest Sargent Barnard, have marched on to eternity within less than 16 hours of each other.

The end of the trail came at last for these powerful forces of the American League by a dramatic coincidence between the hours of darkness last night and shortly after dawn today.

Barnard, president of the league, succumbed unexpectedly at 4:50 o'clock yesterday afternoon in a hospital at Rochester, Minn.; Johnson, founder of the organization, passed on at 8:10 a. m. in a St. Louis hospital today just as newsboys shouted news of the death of the man who had succeeded him as president of the American League.

Baseball was stunned and saddened by Barnard's death, which was so sudden that few of his intimate friends even knew he was ill; baseball was saddened, but not shocked by Johnson's passing, as Johnson, the storm center of baseball since its elevation to the realm of big business, had been at death's door for almost a year.

The deaths left the American League club owners not only shocked and dazed, but also robbed them, with two quick strokes, of the only two leaders they have ever known—Johnson, founder of the league, and Barnard, the president.

Possible Successors.

Tonight not one of the club owners would even hazard a guess as to who the new chief of the younger major league circuit would be, although speculation ranged the nominations from Frank J. Navin, president of the Detroit club and present vice president of the league; Connie Mack, 68-year-old manager of the Philadelphia Athletics; Billy Evans, general manager of Barnard's old club, the Cleveland Indians; Joseph Carr, president of the National Professional Football League, and John

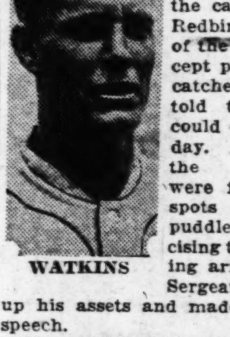
WATKINS SURE TO STAR IN 1931, STREET SAYS

By J. Roy Stockton.
Of the Post-Dispatch Sport Staff.

BRADENTON, Fla., March 28.—Charles E. Street, manager of the Cardinals, stepped forth and paid a glowing tribute to one of his athletes this afternoon. Rain curtailed activities at the camp of the Redbirds and all of the players except pitchers and catchers were told that they could call it holiday. And while the batterymen were finding dry spots between puddles and exercising their throwing arms, the Old Sergeant summed up his assets and made a little speech.



WATKINS

"Baseball fans are going to be cheering a new star before this season ends," was Gabby's opening statement. "I've seen a good many players come and go and I've seen a good many stars. I've seen young players come in and have heard them described as 'another Cobb' or 'another Walter Johnson,' and there never has been another Cobb.

Predicts Stardom for Watkins.

"Perhaps there never will be another Ty, but we have a boy in the Cardinal uniform who comes as close to being another Cobb as anybody I ever saw. He is George Watkins, and I believe before the coming race has been run, the baseball world will be acclaiming George as one of the outstanding stars of the national game, good enough to be ranked with the Cobbs and the Speakers.

"Watkins can do everything that Cobb could do. Of course, Ty played when it was a different game, when base running was a big

Johnson Funeral Wednesday In Indiana; Baseball Men Pay Tribute to Him and Barnard

Funeral services for Byron Bancroft Johnson, former president of the American League, who died at St. John's Hospital here yesterday after a long illness, will be held Wednesday in Spencer, Ind., the baseball man's home, under auspices of Harmony Lodge, A. F. and A. M., of Cincinnati.

Mr. Johnson's body will lie in state until midnight tonight at the Marshall undertaking establishment, 4469 Washington boulevard. The body will be placed in a $25,000 mausoleum Mr. Johnson built in Spencer several years ago. Mrs. Johnson will accompany the body to Indiana.

Baseball's notables the country over are joining in tributes to Mr. Johnson and to Ernest S. Barnard, successor to Mr. Johnson in the presidency of the American League, who died suddenly Friday afternoon in Rochester, Minn. Some of them follow:

Phil Ball, owner of the Browns: "Mr. Johnson was one man in a million, and the greatest force for good that has ever appeared in organized baseball. He made the American League what it is, almost alone and against great odds. Baseball will never see his equal.

"Mr. Barnard was an able business man."

K. M. Landis, high commissioner of baseball: "Mr. Johnson possessed conspicuous qualities that made him an outstanding figure in baseball over a third of a century. Against the ravages of disease he made an almost unbelievably gallant fight. It is strange indeed that within the record of 24 hours should occur the death of both Mr. Johnson and his successor in the American League presidency.

"Mr. Barnard was a fine combination of integrity, intelligence and industry, and his death entails not only a very great loss to the American League, but to baseball and to athletic activities everywhere. . . . It was a common saying that 'you don't have to have it on paper with Barney.' His word was always good."

Frank Navin, president Detroit team, and now acting president of the American League: "The death of Ban Johnson is a great blow to me personally and to the baseball world. Mr. Johnson will not be forgotten as long as the American League, his life's work, survives."

John A. Heydler, president National League: "Barnard was one of baseball's most constructive workers. I have lost a friend."

Charles A. Comiskey, owner Chicago White Sox: "I am deeply sorry to learn of the passing away of Ban Johnson and extend the deepest sympathy to Mrs. Johnson."

Robert Lee Hedges, former owner of the Browns: "Notwithstanding Ban Johnson was no longer officially connected with baseball, his death is a direct blow to the game and a loss to the community at large.

"Without his fearless and strict integrity, his continued effort to cleanse the game of gambling, rowdyism, dishonesty among owners, player or umpire alike, the game could never have advanced to its present status. . . . Czar, yes, but without these tactics in the early years his league would never have become the dominant factor in ridding the game of many undesirable features. . . . His unselfishness for the benefit of his league and the game will be a monument to his memory. Many years will come and go before another Johnson is born to baseball."

J. G. Taylor Spink, publisher of the Sporting News: "The death of Ban Johnson removes a man whose career was closely linked with the modern progress of the game. He was baseball's strong man—a great fighting spirit—who found baseball languishing under unfavorable influences and fought all his life, with a bulldog courage, for its betterment."

Joe McCarthy, manager of the New York Yanks: "I had known him for years and we all shall miss him very much. He was a wonderful figure in baseball."

HOLMES BOWLS 248 AVERAGE, LEADS BY 617

Ray Holmes, sensational young St. Louis bowler, built up a big lead over Joe Norris of Detroit in the 10-game block of their special match at Peterson's last night. Holmes shot a remarkable 2486 total while Norris gathered only 1891, giving the St. Louisan an advantage of 595 pins for the night and a total lead of 617 pins. At Detroit last week-end, Holmes beat Norris to obtain a lead of 22 pins.

Holmes was never in better form. He opened up with a 245 game and followed with 225. He had three remarkable games of 277, 279 and 277. He was never under 200 in spite of the fact that he ran into six splits. He had 88 strikes and not a single "miss." Norris had five misses, 41 strikes and 10 splits.

The fourth and concluding series of 10 games will be rolled this afternoon, starting at 3 o'clock.

Last night's scores:

Holmes 245 225 208 277 279 258 238 227 279 246—2486.
Norris 164 145 177 202 190 212 202 226 180 193—1891.

By a Special Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla., March 28.—Wallace Hebert, Walter Stewart and Sam Gray let the Buffalo Bisons of the International League down this afternoon with nine widely scattered hits, only one good for more than a single base, and the Browns emerged victorious, 8 to 1, by pounding two pitchers for 12 hits.

Manager Bill Killefer used 19 men in subduing Buffalo, which before today had trimmed the Browns two straight games. Shortstop Jim Levey was the only Brownie to hold his position throughout.

Three of the Browns' cripples broke into the lineup for at least a part of the game, Red Kress playing four innings at third and showing no arm lameness. Eddie Grimes, who relieved Kress and played five innings without showing a sign of the sore arm that has had him on the shelf for the last three weeks.

Larry Bettencourt, laid up with a bad back for two weeks, cavorted in right field for five innings and seemed to be all right.

Brownie Pitchers Hurl Well.

Wallace Hebert, who was pounded out in his last start against Buffalo, started today and gave credence to Killefer's opinion that he is a pretty fair sort of left-hander. He worked the first four innings and had little trouble, although Buffalo got its only run off him in the fourth inning. He allowed but three hits, fanned one and did not issue a base on balls.

Stewart pitched the next three innings and was hit quite freely, but was too good with men on bases to allow any scoring. He struck out one, gave no walks and was found for four singles. Sam Gray finished the game, hurling the last two innings and granting two hits, one a double in the ninth by Shinners, the first man up. Then Sam struck out the next two batters and forced the third to pop to Levey to end the game.

The Browns' hitting was very much divided, Guille, with two singles, being the only one to get more than one, and of the eight runs driven in, Gray with a single in the eighth inning, was the only one to account for two markers.

Levey Makes Brilliant Play.

Levey pulled the neatest play of the game in the first inning when he took two bases on an infield out. He had walked and Burns laid down a bunt along the third-base line, and while Swanson was throwing him out, Levey reached second and continued on to third to beat First Baseman Hawks' throw to the far corner standing

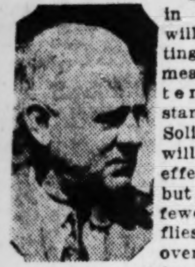
NEW BALL BETTER THAN OLD, SAYS M'GRAW---MACK LIKES CARDS

GIANTS' LEADER FORECASTS MORE CLOSE CONTESTS DURING SEASON

By John J. McGraw.
Manager, New York Giants.

HOUSTON, Tex., March 28.—Two or three weeks' work with the new official league ball has convinced us that it is superior to the old jackrabbit. Undoubtedly it is deader and will therefore bring the game back to its former state of scientific snap. Personally, I feel sure that fans will see an improvement in high class baseball all over the country.



McGRAW

The new ball, in my opinion, will not stop hitting by any means, but will tend more to standardize it. Solidly hit balls will count just as effectively as ever but there will be fewer of the fluke flies that carry over the shorter fences for home runs. This ball, in other words, puts a premium on real, scientific hitting.

So far we haven't had enough comparison of the official balls of the American and National leagues to note any maked difference. It is very likely that before the season is well under way both will be using the same type. The only difference now is that the American League ball has a slightly thinner cover. Both have the new-type of big seams.

The biggest immediate benefit has been to give pitchers more confidence. They can now get a better grip on the sphere and no longer have that fear of it slipping out of their hands.

More Close Contests.

With this less lively ball the fans this summer are sure to see more spectacular infield work and more closely fought games. In addition to being able to cover more ground the infielders get hold of the ball more firmly and throw it with more assurance. For the past three or four seasons the ball hopped through the infields so rapidly and often crazily, that even the best men were unable to cover the ground. The average spectator may not note the effect of this change for sometime but if the ball is slowed up just one half bound it makes a tremendous difference in the work of the infielders.

In the past few years baseball has lost much of its infield strategy through an inability to handle the wild shoots of the jackrabbit ball. For example, there have been times when the infield couldn't be drawn in close for a play at the plate for fear that any sort of tap might send the ball hopping through and break up the game. As a result, we frequently played the infield half way in and often played them all the way back on the better chance of a double play. The employment of those plays, even with the new ball, however, depend on the stage of the game. I can't go into that here but there are many plays that may be used in the first part of a game that wouldn't do in the last few innings.

There is no question in my mind but what baseball will be improved all along the line. The deader ball will tend to make closer contests, and in those hard-fought games more strategy will be employed. As fans will know, there have been times in the days of the jackrabbit when the chances of a cleanup wallop were so great that managers depended on that rather than strategy. That robbed the game of many of its finer points. I look to see the old art restored.

Fans Like Close Games.

We have had pretty conclusive proof that close-fought games keep the spectators and players in greater suspense than those with wild batting sprees and big scores. In Boston last summer the hitting became so free and the score so big that fans lost interest and thousands left the park before the seventh inning.

In one game at Pittsburg fully two-thirds af the crowd walked out on one of those big-score games with the Pirates on the small end. Even so, Pittsburg got three men on bases in the ninth and could have won with a two-base hit.

Some of the players believe that the American League ball with its thinner cover can be hit further than the thicker hided National League ball. Theoretically that should be true but so far in exhibition games we have had no definite proof. Even if the cover is thinner the raised seams offer considerable air resistance and also makes the pitching more effective. It may develop that the big seams do more toward slowing up the ball than the thickness and tightness of the cover. I feel sure that the fans will be pleased with the new ball. Undoubtedly they will see some great pitching battles. Base running and fielding will also be snappier. In fact, I expect to see a return to much of the base running strategy that made teams famous in the old days. Teams will play for one run rather than for a bunch of them. Daring work on the bases, you know, went into a decline with the introduction of the jackrabbit ball. Proof of that is in the stolen base records during the regular season and in the world's series.

Yes, this new ball is a decided step forward. It is a well worked out compromise.

Ban Johnson's Stormy Career as President Of American League Centered in St. Louis

Through Intervention of Former Czar, R. L. Hedges and Later Phil Ball Were Brought Into His Major Circuit.

By John E. Wray,
Sports Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

St. Louis was never considered one of the major factors in the late Ban Johnson's baseball plans, and yet it in many ways played a vital part in his baseball career. It was in St. Louis in 1901-2 that Johnson arranged his campaign to invade the Mound City by moving the Milwaukee franchise into St. Louis, thus rivaling the National League by competition in four cities and almost wrecking the St. Louis National League team by taking its star players.

It was in St. Louis, too, that Johnson first met and won to his cause the strongest supporter he was to have during the later years of his reign as Czar—Philip De Catesby Ball.

It was to St. Louis that Ban in 1910 hastened for details of the Lajoie-Cobb batting championship incident, in which Manager Jack O'Connor and Umpire Harry Howell were quietly eased out of baseball, and "Red" Corriden, then third baseman of the Browns, was barred from the American League, for an alleged attempt to throw base hits to Larry Lajoie, in the final doubleheader of the season, so that Larry might pass Ty Cobb.

Crooked Series Tip Here.

And it was to St. Louis that Johnson turned for first hand evidence in 1919-20 following the baseball scandal of the Chicago-Cincinnati series, seeking to get the inside story from the Pesch brothers, Carl Zork, Harry Redmon, Joe Gedeon, the Brown second baseman, and Tom Kearney, who had given an officer of the Browns a tip that the series was "crooked."

It was to St. Louis that Johnson came at almost every crisis of his late career for aid from Phil Ball, and later on, for treatment from Mound City optical and medical experts. To cap the climax it was in this city that his career came to its merciful finish.

It may be observed in passing that St. Louis' greatest contribution to Johnson's career was Phil Ball. But when they first encountered one another there was no hint of the intimacy that was to come. That was in 1915 when the Federal League was on the rocks, sinking, and was carrying on with signals of distress.

Ban Johnson of the American League wanted to remove the competition of the Federal League, weak as it had grown. He knew that Ball and Harry Sinclair were the key men of the outlaws. He sought an interview with Ball and Dick Collins, former sports editor of the old Republic, arranged the interview with the greatest of difficulty. Ball didn't want to talk to Johnson. He had nothing to say.

"Why should I talk to Johnson?" he asked Collins.

"Johnson wants peace and it's a good chance for you to get away from a losing bet," Collins told him.

"Johnson's only a clerk—working for eight club owners. If they want to talk turkey with me, why don't they see me?" Ball retorted.

How Ball Changed His Opinion.

Only a clerk! Contrast that with Ball's tribute to Johnson, published today, which reads in part: "Johnson was a man in a million. He was the greatest force for good in the game. Baseball will never see his equal."

On that day in 1915, however. Johnson was anybody else to Ball and it was only with great reluctance that Collins finally got them together to patch up their differences and arrange the final disposition of the Federal League—and the entry of Ball into the American League by purchasing the Browns from R. L. Hedges. Hedges sold the club for over $600,000, of which he received $425,000. His original investment was $35,000.

The entry of Ball into the American League was the beginning of a friendship with Johnson that lasted down to the finish.

It was Ball who backed up Johnson in his decision to close the gates during the war year of 1918—an attempt which was balked by Comiskey and his associates until the Government ordered the gates closed.

It was Ball, who when Johnson was assailed in the Mays case, sent that sizzling message to the New York club owners impugning their business acumen and condemning their sportsmanship as "smelling to heaven."

Ball Johnson's Lone Champion.

It was Ball who stood shoulder to shoulder with Johnson in his fight to resist the signing of Kenesaw M. Landis as commissioner; and it was Ball who alone of the 16 club owners declined to sign the agreement.

When the league reprimanded Johnson for baiting Landis, Ball bitterly disagreed. And when Johnson was asked to retire Ball besought him to fight it out until it became evident that diabetes as well as Johnson's foes, had him whipped.

It was Ball who advised, helped and looked after him during the long illness that followed, ending in Johnson's death.

Robert Lee Hedges, predecessor of Ball, was almost as potent a factor in league affairs in its early days as Ball was in its later years. It was Johnson who induced Hedges, former Cincinnati carriage manufacturer, to purchase the Milwaukee franchise and transfer it to this city. He it was whose advice bolstered the first weak baseball machine in the new city, helped it grow financially, if not artistically, and saw it show a profit for many seasons, even though its standing in the league was low.

The Milwaukee club, at the time of its transfer for the season of 1902, was headed by a lawyer, Henry Killilea, and Johnson recommended that Killilea be the first head of the St. Louis club. The financial end of the business proposition was not large, as baseball money goes nowadays—not more than $50,000. The original investors were Robert L. Hedges, who put up $30,000, and Ralph and Max Orthwein of St. Louis, who each invested $10,000. Other later investors were Anton Steuver, $5000; John E. Bruce and C. McDiarmid of Cincinnati, $5000; Ben Adkins of St. Louis, $5000, and William Roninger and J. C. Ghio of St. Louis, each $1000. Of this total, $30,000 went for the franchise and $20,000 to build a park on the present site of Sportsman's Park. Hedges owned 66½ per cent of the club stock.

McAleer Raids Cardinals.

From Milwaukee, several later-famous players were brought as a nucleus for the St. Louis team. Among them were Bill Friel, now business manager of the Browns; Joe Sugden, the veteran catcher, now an employe of the Cardinals; Mike Kahoe, Dick Padden, Reidy, Shields, Anderson, Barry McCormick, former major league umpire; Hill, Bowcock and Swander. While this was fair enough as a nucleus, more and better known players were needed.

This need resulted in dramatic and daring raids on National League clubs. James McAleer, old-time player, was Johnson's choice to superintend the raid on the St. Louis Cardinals. McAleer apparently had had enough of baseball and was about to retire and start a haberdashery business when Johnson's "raiding offer" arrived.

McAleer lost no time and when he had finished his job had enrolled such stars as Bobby Wallace, one of the greatest shortstops of all time, Emmett Heidrick, Jess Burkett, Jack Powell, "Wee Willie" Sudhoff and Jack Harper. Harper was the only one of these who had signed a Cardinal contract. The others, the amazed Cardinals contended, were held by the reserve clause in their contracts of the year before. This contention was brought into court but Judge Talty, before whom the case was tried, decided against the Cardinals and the infant American League club began the season of 1902 with these stars in its lineup.

The first game to be played by the new club in St. Louis was contested on April 23, 1902 when, with Frank Donohue pitching, the Browns defeated Cleveland, 5-2.

Hedges Sells Out.

Killilea remained as president—McAleer was the manager—throughout 1902 but Ralph Orthwein was chosen in his stead in 1903. The next year Hedges took over the presidency and remained at the helm until he sold his interests to P. DeC. Ball late in 1915.

The Browns have never won a pennant since their entry into the American League.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, March 28.—Jack Sharkey, Boston's heavyweight contender, today was offered $50,000, for a 10-round bout with Tuffy Griffiths of Sioux City, Ia., in the Chicago Stadium sometime in May. While he did not refuse the bid, Sharkey said he considered the fight worth $75,000.

During a conference with Matchmaker Nate Lewis this afternoon, Sharkey said he was willing to engage in three fights for the Stadium, two outdoors, including one with Tommy Loughran. Sharkey also agreed to meet anyone else Lewis might select, including Mickey Walker, Vittorio Campolo and Primo Carnera. The hitch was in the financial arrangements, the ex-gob demanding $75,000 for each appearance.

The sophomore sprinter was aided by a stiff wind, making it doubtful whether his performances would be accepted officially for the world's record books.

up. Then Goslin chased him home with a roller to Hawks at first.

Buffalo got its only run in the fourth when Stover opened with a double and scored on a single by Heinie Mueller.

The Browns accumulated their counters after the first in the fourth, sixth and eighth, getting clusters of three in the fourth and eighth. Singles by Kress, Schulte, Melillo and Pinchhitter O'Rourke, coupled with an outfielder error, accounted for the three runs in the fourth, while singles by Jenkins, Gullic, a sacrifice by Storti, a walk to Crouch and aces by Gray and Levey gave them three more in the eighth. Gray's hit scored both Jenkins and Gullic.

The Browns turned in their first errorless game of the exhibition schedule, sparkling play by Shortstop Levey marking the infield defense. Levey handled seven chances.

WIFFY COX WINS NORTH AND SOUTH GOLF TOURNEY

By the Associated Press.

PINEHURST, N. C., March 28.—Wilfred (Wiffy) Cox of Brooklyn today won the twenty-ninth annual North and South 72-hole open golf championship by downing Joe Turnesa, Elmsford, N. Y., in a playoff after the pair had finished the regular stretch tied at 288.

It was the first big victory Cox had ever scored. Just a month ago Cox and Turnesa tied for first place in the Jacksonville, Fla., open but did not play off for the title. Cox also paired with Willie MacFarlane to win the international four-ball event at Miami a week ago.

Wiffy, two strokes out of the lead after 54 holes of play, shot fine and steady golf today for a 71 which allowed him to overtake Turnesa, leader at 36 and 54 holes, as Joe required a 73 today.

The victors today decided to play nine holes for the title, and split the first and second prize money totaling $2500.

The closing round was as spectacular and exciting as any in the history of the famous old North and South tournament with four players—Turnesa, Cox, Bobby Cruickshank and Billy Burke—fighting for the lead all the way after the turn was reached.

EVANS AND BARROWS AMONG POSSIBILITIES AS NEW A. L. HEAD

Edward Wray, sports editor of the St. Louis Post-Dispatch. Nothing however, will be done over the task of choosing a successor until after Barnard's funeral at Cleveland Tuesday at 2 p. m., when the club owners may hold an impromptu conference to arrange a date for a formal meeting to select the new leader.

Their Methods Differed.

Barnard, who was 56 years old, and Johnson, who was 67, were as different in their characteristics as they were in their opinions. Barnard was a quiet, unassuming diplomat, but firm in his convictions, while Johnson was a fiery, explosive leader, who for 27 years was the "czar" of the American League, ruling it with an iron hand.

Johnson was the builder of baseball, taking it from its cradle days. He not only brought it to its greatest popularity, but to its biggest financial aspect as well. He left behind him many contributions to the sport, among them the world series, which he originated. He was the one to conceive the idea of massive stadia, and to raise finances to construct them.

Under Johnson's leadership, the value of a franchise in the American League arose from something like $50,000 to more than $1,000,000, and in this surprising growth Johnson, as one of the three members of the National Baseball Commission, was the dominating power.

Barnard Burial Tuesday.

By the Associated Press.

CLEVELAND, O., March 28.—Arrangemnts for the funeral of Ernest S. Barnard, American League president, were announced here tonight by E. L. Davis, one of Barnard's intimate friends and for 26 years a business associate.

Barnard's body will arrive here from Chicago some time tomorrow night to lie in state until Tuesday morning. At 2 p. m. Tuesday services, with the Knights Templar in charge, will be at Masonic Hall.

Davis said the honorary pallbearers will be Baseball Commissioner Kenesaw Mountain Landis, John A. Heydler, head of the National League, and eight American League presidents—Alva Bradley, Cleveland; J. A. Robert Quinn, Boston; C. A. Comiskey, Chicago; Frank J. Navin, Detroit; Jacob Ruppert, New York; Thomas S. Shibe, Philadelphia; Phil De C. Ball, St. Louis, and Clark Griffith, Washington. Knights Templar of the Allenby Commandery, of which Barnard was a frater, will be active pallbearers.

CLUB OWNER MUST SELL TO HOLD PRESIDENCY

By JAMES M. GOULD.

Death having come to Ernest S. Barnard, president of the American League, on the eve of a new baseball season, there is natural speculation as to his successor. Frank J. Navin, owner of the Detroit club, is acting president by virtue of his office as vice-president of the league. Navin served as head of the circuit once before—in the interval between Ban Johnson's resignation and the election of Mr. Barnard.

So soon after the stunning news of Mr. Barnard's death, there have been no nominations though a report was sent out of Philadelphia that the presidency might be offered to Connie Mack, manager and part owner of the World Champion Athletics. The report stated that Mack once before had been considered for the place. Navin's name, because of the fact that he has headed the league temporarily twice, also has come in for mention. But, as no man could head the league and still retain his ownership in a club of that league, the choice would seem to lie elsewhere.

Ed. Barrow a Possibility.

One name sure to be brought forward is that of Edward G. Barrow, business manager of the Yankees. Barrow has had executive experience, having been president of the International League some years ago. The possible desire for younger man might also bring the choice of Billy Evans, former umpire and now business manager of the Clevland Indians as was President Barnard at one time.

Former U. S. Senator George Wharton Pepper of Pennsylvania may be considered a possibility. It was Senator Pepper who directed the case of Organized Baseball when the claim was made that the anti-trust laws were being violated by the baseball combination. Senator Pepper knows baseball law thoroughly, as was proven by his victory in the case.

It is possible that promotion to the presidency may came from within the ranks of the league. Will Harridge, present secretary of the league, probably knows more of the affairs of the circuit than anyone else. He has been in its councils for nearly 20 years, serving both under Ban Johnson and E. S. Barnard.

Newspaper Men Mentioned.

Ban Johnson was a newspaper man, as was President Barnard, and the possibility that the "Fourth Estate" might furnish the third of the triumvirate was a subject of discussion. Some of those regarded as possibilities are Henry P. Edwards, long baseball writer on the Cleveland Plain Dealer, and now manager of the American League's Service Bureau, handling oll the publicity emanating from headquarters; Joe Vila, sports editor of the New York Sun, and for years a friend of the league, and John B. Foster, sports editor of a news service and former secretary of the New York Giants.

It is not believed that the league magnates will be in any especial hurry to name Barnard's successor, as the preliminaries of the approaching season already have been completed.

So far as P. de C. Ball, president of the Browns, is concerned, he may have a candidate, but he is not disclosing who it is. Asked his choice, Ball wired as follows: "There are seven other clubs in the league and they're all against me."

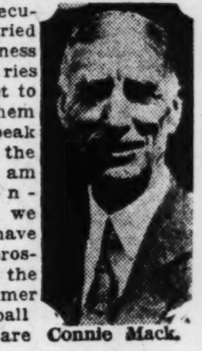
"GABBY" STREET OWNS FINE LOT OF HURLERS FOR 1931 CAMPAIGN

By Connie Mack.
Manager, World Champions, Athletics.

FORT MYERS, Fla., March 28.—In the face of unfavorable weather, baseball interest in Florida this month has been greater than I have ever encountered before, which makes me believe that conditions are on the mend and that the coming season is going to be among the best for attendance.

The interest shown in our games down here makes me optimistic over the outlook. I came to Florida more than a month prior to the training season and met many of the biggest executives in varied lines of business and industries and I have yet to find any of them who did not speak favorably of the outlook. I am therefore convinced that we are going to have abundant prosperity during the coming summer and that baseball is going to share in it.



Connie Mack.

I am also looking forward to a closer race in the American League which should create more interest throughout our circuit. Never before have I seen players show so much interest in their work. The youngsters are tying to chisel into the lineups while the regulars are fighting their utmost to hold their places.

Cardinals Look Good.

We played four games with the Cardinals this spring and I want to say that our opponents of the 1930 world series looked as good to be as the two days in St. Louis when they defeated the Athletics.

Manager Street's forces have all the appearance of a team that is out to win the championship again. In talks with both Street and some of his players they made it plain that they expected to be in the world series again next fall.

National League races are proverbially close and any club that tops the Missourians this year will know it has been in a fight. The Cardinals are strong in every department with an abundance of high-class reserves.

They have one of the most brilliant players in baseball in Charley Gelbert, who stood out for the losers in the big games last fall and Gelbert is a young player who is constantly improving. He has developed into a hard hitter as well. Look out for Gelbert the coming season.

Owns Gifted Pitchers.

All through, the Cardinal team is well balanced and forms a machine that rivals must dread. Moreover, Manager Street is equipped with a corps of gifted pitchers, many of whom have been through the mill and have experience and poise in back of them.

Street will start the season with a veteran pitcher available to pitch every important game. It will be recalled that last season the Missourians had a poor start and won the pennant by a whirlwind finish.

I don't look for them to lose as many games in the first half of the season as they did last year fo the team is now set and the players have more confidence as a result of their 1930 pennant triumph.

While not predicting that the Cardinals are going to repeat, I feel that this mighty team of smart ballplayers will be in the race down to the wire.

part of the contest. But Watkins is going to be an outstanding base runner, too. I've moved him to second place in our batting order and I believe he has a fine chance to establish a new record for two-base hits. You know he's a dead right field hitter, that is he has his punch when he hits to right. Last year Douthit, leading off, made 201 hits. Suppose Watkins had been following him. That would have mean that on those 201 trips to the plate the first baseman would have been forced to play on the bag when Watkins batted. I dare say 50 hits were cut down by first base men while George was batting. Suppose only 25 of those had gone through, as they probably would have done if he had been following Douthit, with the first baseman on the bag. That change should make a big difference to Watkins and even down where he was below Hafey, he batted .373.

Watkins Smart Baserunner.

"Watkins never overlooks a chance to take an extra base. He has the baserunning instinct. He sees an outfielder loafing on a single and he turns it into a double. He sees the outfielder throw to the wrong base and immediately, he's off to the bag ahead.

"Add to his fine baseball instinct the fact that he has the ideal baseball spirit and you have an idea of what a star this boy is going to be. He's always in there to win. He tolerates no monkey business on the bench and is a fighter always. I surely like this Watkins and really expect him to stand out this year. He was green when we first got him. But he quickly improved his outfielding and was a powerful asset in our 1930 drive to a pennant."

Watkins was born in Palestine, Tex., in 1902, and played his first professional baseball for Houston in 1925. He later served in the Lone Star State at Marshall, Austin and Beaumont and then, after returning to Houston, was sold to Rochester.

Last season Watkins played in 119 games and made 146 hits in compiling his batting average of .373. He was one of the players who refused to admit that the team was out of the pennant race, even when it was more than 12 games behind the leaders. One day in Boston one of the older players was throwing clods of dirt from the bench and in other ways performing like a schoolboy. Though he was only a comparative rookie, Watkins jumped on the old-timers and bawled them out for not taking their baseball seriously.

According to present plans, Watkins will be the regular rightfielder. At the start of last season he appeared to be weak against left-handed pitching. But instead of admitting that weakness, Watkins sought batting practice against southpaws and in a short time was pounding the lefties as well as the right-handers. He is a sturdy athlete and Street expects him to be in 154 games as well as the World Series.

Tomorrow the Cardinals will journey to Sarasota for an exhibition game with the Indianapolis club of the American Association. Paul Derringer will start, and if he is strong he may be allowed to go nine innings. If the day is not good, or if Paul weakens, Tony Kaufmann will finish the contest.

100 Events at Penn U. Relays April 24 and 25

By the Associated Press.

PHILADELPHIA, March 28.—One hundred events have been listed for competition in the thirty-seventh annual University of Pennsylvania relay carnival on Franklin Field, April 24 and 25.

The 3000-meter steeplechase race, a feature in 1928, will be retained in view of the coming Olympic games. The race was started to create interest among college athletes in the event, so this country would have trained representatives for the event in the Olympics.

The program is divided into 44 events for Friday and 56 for Saturday. The carnival will open with the first event of the decathlon.

The feature races of the first day will be the sprint medley, distance medley and 440-yard sprint relays. The 400-meter hurdles, the 120-yard high hurdles and the hop, step and jump will all be held on Friday.

On Saturday the important relay races include the 880-yard sprint, one mile, two mile, four mile, shuttle hurdle and the one mile freshman championship.

The number of entries exceeds that of last year by 13. They include 82 colleges, 51 prep schools, 197 high schools, 43 junior high schools, 58 grammar schools and 9 parochial schools.

Insco, Alton's Derby Candidate, Won Four Victories Out of Seven Starts

KENTUCKY DERBY CANDIDATES—NO. 1

Of the two representatives of the St. Louis district that will compete in the Kentucky Derby at Churchill Downs, on May 16, Insco appears the stronger contender. The other is Boiling, owned by the Reichert brothers.

Insco, carrying the colors of Griffin Watkins of Alton and named from the International Shoe Co., of which Watkins is an officer, had a brief and inconsistent career as a 2-year-old in which he started seven times and won four races. His outstanding accomplishment was the winning of the $20,000 Post and Paddock Stakes, the 2-year-old classic of the Arlington Park meeting on Aug. 3, when he beat nine derby candidates including Siskin and Don Leon. Because of sore feet or some other minor ailment, the colt was retired by Trainer B. J. Durnell after that race. He has wintered at Louisville and advices from that place within the past several days indicate the horse is in tip top shape.

Insco's inconsistency has the turf experts guessing. He at times ran like a champion and at others trailed his field.

In a maiden race at Churchill Downs last spring Insco convinced the critics he was of Derby caliber. The colt stepped the five furlongs in :59 4-5, and won decisively.

Later, he ran in the Bashford Stakes and finished fourth, but horsemen said he was poorly ridden. In his next start in the Thomas Curran Memorial Stakes at Washington Park he finished far back. Insco won his next two starts. He set a new track record for Arlington Park by stepping the five and a half furlongs in 1:05. He finished fourth in his next start, but he finished the season by winning the Post and Paddock Stakes at Arlington Park, at six furlongs, in 1:11 4-5. Insco's backers said he was the victim of crowding in the races in which he didn't fare so well.

If breeding means anything, and some turf followers claim it means everything, Insco should make a good showing in any company. He is a son of Sir Galahad III—Starflight, by Sunstar. He was bred on the farm of Cary T. Grayson. He is quoted at 20 to 1 in the Kentucky Derby future book.

Detroit Team Maintains Lead In A. B. C. Meet

BUFFALO, N. Y., March 28.—Despite the attack of 32 fast out-of-town lineups the Michigan Recreations, Detroit, continue to top the standings of the team division in the American Bowling Congress tourney.

Schlitz Brews, Milwaukee, created the only upset among the "big ten" leaders tonight. Scoring games of 919, 991 and 963, the Cream City lineup rode into seventh place with a 2873 total. Hank Marino, nationally-known pinster, led the Milwaukee group with a 635 total.

George Heup and James Devine, Beloit, Wis., will defend their doubles title late Sunday. The Badger bowlers won the two-man event title last year at Cleveland with a total of 1339.

Joe Bodis of Cleveland created the only changes among the minor event leaders on the day's card. He tied Van Ruken, also of Cleveland, for ninth berth in the singles, scoring 683 and slipped into ninth place in the all-events, chalking up an aggregate of 1876.

THREE TITLE WINNERS AT M. V. A. A. TOURNEY ON AMATEUR CARD

Clifford Doetzel and Johnny Miles, the only champions of last year who retained their crowns in the annual Mississippi Valley A. A. title competition at the Coliseum a week ago, and Charley Schober, newly-crowned middleweight champion, are among the amateur boxing stars Matchmaker Willie Miller has enrolled for special events of a tournament to be held at the South Broadway A. C. on April 9. All three scrappers are members of the South Broadway team.

Miller announced last night that he is trying to line up Earl "Tiny" Kehr for a return match with Doetzel, who was forced to battle at his best clip to outpoint the E-K Athletic Club bantam in the titular finals of the valley meet. Pat Cooney of the East St. Louis Knights of Columbus, a former Western A. A. U. champion, is sought as the opponent for Miles in the light-heavyweight event. Schober is ready to take on any local challenger.

Bill Seidinski, Belleville heavyweight, of the National A. A., is seeking special engagement on the South Broadway card.

Michigan Wins Swimming Title; Kojac Sets Mark

CHICAGO, March 28.—Michigan won the national collegiate swimming championship tonight, scoring 28 points. Rutgers was second with 22, while Princeton finished third with 19.

Only one record was broken, George Kojac, Rutgers star, skimming over the 100-yard free style route in :52 3-5 seconds.

Michigan, Big Ten champions, scored in seven of the nine events, capturing first in the 200-yard breast stroke, second to Rutgers in the 400-yard relay and the 300-yard medley relay, and thirds in the fancy high diving, 220 and 440 yard free style and the 150-yard back stroke. Jack Schmieler, Michigan's sophomore star, missed a certain place in the 100-yard free style when he missed his turn.

Other teams finished as follows: Minnesota 13, Southern California 13, Stanford 8, Northwestern, defending champion, 7, Georgia Tech 5, Iowa 1, Purdue 1.

BIG SIX SCHOOLS TO HAVE "B" ELEVENS FOR NEXT CAMPAIGN

NORMAN, Ok., March 28.—The big six conference, bereft of freshman football competition, may have "B" teams next fall. Faculty representatives of member schools, at a meeting here last night acted favorably upon the "B" team proposal, under the following conditions:

Competition would be optional with each school.

Eligibility requirements would be the same as for "A" teams.

Participation would affect eligibility just as in class "A."

No student might participate in more games than in the regular "A" schedule.

No class "B" game might require more than half a day's absence from school work.

The conference adjourned last night, as the conferees hastily completed their work.

Earlier the conference had gone on record as opposed to subsidization and recruiting of athletes, adopting an amended code presented by Dean S. W. Beyer, and T. N. Metcalf, of Iowa State.

They urged that games in all athletic competition should be scheduled so as not to interfere with examinations.

FLAVIN AND HART LEADING SCORERS IN SOCCER RACE

By Dent McSkimming.

If their record for the season is a true indication of their comparative merit, the Coca-Colas should beat the Tablers this afternoon and win the St. Louis Soccer League championship. The two clubs have met five times this season and the Tablers have won only once, on Dec. 7 when the Cocas were eliminated from the competition for the Joseph Triner cup. The Coca-Colas are leading the race now by one point.

Of their five games with the Tablers, the Cocas have won three, lost one and one was tied. In goals scored, the Tablers have the edge, 12 to 11. Phil Kavanaugh's club is the only one in the league that has scored more than two goals per game against Marre's Reds. The Millers have scored only eight times and the Hellrungs only six times.

It is true, however, that the Tablers have not played up to their true form in their games with the Kavanaughs. For instance, in 16 league games, they have permitted only 25 goals scored against them whereas the Coca-Colas have allowed 42 in the same number of games. In scoring power, too, the Tablers have a decided edge with 39 goals against the Cocas' 32.

Eddie Flavin and Joe Hennessy, rival center forwards, will be out for the goal scoring championship. Flavin has a slight lead with 10 goals as against Hennessy's nine. Eddie Hart of the Hellrungs might pass them both if he gets into action. Hart has been out of the game for several weeks with a bad ankle.

The Millers meet the Hellrungs in the opening game today and the Tablers face the Coca-Colas in the second game.

Schenbergs Play At Kansas City

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

KANSAS CITY, March 28.—The Schenberg soccer club, champions of the Municipal League of St. Louis, are expected to score an easy victory over the Victoria club, Kansas City amateur champions, here tomorrow afternoon. The local boys believe the heavy field may help them to keep the score down, but there is little hope here of a Kansas City victory. The Schenbergs last Sunday beat the Victorias, 8 to 1, at St. Louis on a dry field.

Victory in the series is tantamount to winning the amateur soccer championship of Missouri.

No Muny Games Today.

There is no Municipal Soccer League game scheduled here today, the professionals getting a clear field. Next Sunday, however, the Muny teams will offer a triple feature. Starting at 1:15 p. m., they will offer three games at Fairground Park, the gate receipts to be used to start a fund for injured players.

100,000 PERSONS SEE SCOTTISH ELEVEN WIN OVER ENGLAND, 2 TO 0

By the Associated Press.

GLASGOW, Scotland, March 28.—Scotland today defeated England in their fifty-fifth annual soccer match, two goals to none. The score stands: Scotland, won 25; England, 16; drawn, 14.

The game was played in dull and gusty weather, with the Scottish players cheered on by the skirl of bagpipes.

very quickly; and, although his occupation calls for hard physical labor, Old Man Avoirdupois keeps piling weight on Schwake's powerful frame.

John took up boxing as a fat-reducer. He has taken off about 50 pounds; but even training fails to keep pace with his arch enemy. John put in a week of intensive conditioning, just before his Risko fight and, when he stepped on the scales, he found he weighed six pounds more than when he began.

During his hard-fought 10-round battle, Schwake was able to take off less than four pounds of excess weight. And the chances are that after he had his midnight lunch, he put it all on again.

Schwake's handicap is likely to operate against any great advance in the ring profession. Furthermore he began boxing too late and he is 27 years of age.

Had he launched his amateur career at the age of 18, Schwake might have arrived somewhere, for he has stamina, punch and a fighting heart, three requisites without which no man can be a real champion.

Schwake is dangerous for any slow, big opponent; but the fast-moving, smaller targets are too much for his slow attack. As it is, he overcomes his handicaps to a considerable degree and he is an extremely hard opponent to hit solidly. As Risko says, the only targets are the top of John's head, his elbows and that plump equator. As for the last, many a fighter has tried to sink John by landing amidships, only to have Schwake laugh in his face.

Our Local Prides.

THE Wednesday night show once more reminds us that our three big "local prides" are not going to excite much fear in the bosoms of the leaders of their classes.

Knost is a splendid figure of a man. The writer seldom has seen his physical equal. But something seems wrong with Dave. He lacks fire, fight and viciousness. The line-of-communication which should hook up his eye with his brain and hands, appears to have been wrecked. Good openings appear, but by the time Davey gets ready to shove into them, they have gone.

Put Schwake's motor into Knost's body and a real fighter of title caliber might be the result.

About Al Stillman.

STILLMAN? A nicely-built young fellow with dynamite in his glove. But it's of about as much use to him as a hand-grenade to an armless soldier. He can't deliver the goods anywhere. Opponents tie his arms and prevent disaster. He doesn't know how to open up an opponent's defense. He knows only one thing—to try to land his right hand in one way. Any good opponent can solve Stillman's right in half a round. He has no deception to mask it.

All of these boys have the physical goods. But right now they all lack something to keep them from advancing very far. Perhaps wider experience will develop them. But it will have to come soon. All of them have had considerable opportunity to develop without having arrived anywhere.

WESTERNERS WIN 7 OF 8 COLLEGE WRESTLING TITLES

By the Associated Press.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., March 28.—For the first time since the organization of the National Collegiate Wrestling Association, four years ago, one of its championships was bestowed on an Eastern College grappler here tonight at the Brown Gymnasium.

The cowboys from Oklahoma A. and M., as they have been doing since 1928, took the major share of the titles, winning half of the eight division competitions, the 126, 155, 165 and 175 pound classes. Three other championships were distributed among Iowa State, Kansas State Aggies and Northwestern.

John A. Engel, captain of the Lehigh mat team and runner up in the Eastern intercollegiates, dented the West's domination of this sport by scoring a sensational fall on Jesse Arends of Iowa State Teachers, in the 118 pounds finale. This Eastern standard bearer outpointed his rival from their face off and after softening him up with scores of grapevine holds, flopped him over and pinned his shoulders to the mat in nine minutes with a body scissors and arm bar.

Two Champions Repeat.

Two of the four Oklahoma victories were registered by the only defending champions, Jack Van Bebber, probably the most skillful performer in action during the two days, gained his third N. C. A. A., crown by flopping M. W. Shanker of Lehigh, with a grape-vine and headlock in four minutes, 25 seconds. Conrad Caldwell, 175 pounder, also annexed his third title in a row by outpointing Carl Dougovitte of Michigan. The latter was seconded by Ed George, a claimant for the professional heavyweight title, but his expert advice could not prevail against the mat skill of the cowboy champion, who gained the decision by piling up a time allowance of three minutes 52 seconds on the Wolverine mat star, who holds the "Big Ten" title.

The other cowboy victories were scored by Leroy McGuirk, who worked up a time allowance of 3 minutes 35 seconds, while outpointing John Richardson of Kansas State Aggies, and Robert Pearce, 126-pounder, who was forced to go two three minutes overtime periods before he could build up a two-minute 34-second time allowance on Lyle Morford of Cornell College, Iowa, runner-up in this class last year.

Richard Cole, Iowa State, and John Devine, Oklahoma A and M., put on a spirited show in the 135-pounds final and the former was awarded the championship by the slim margin of a minute 53 seconds time allowance. The 145-pound title grappling was even closer for Bill Doyle of Kansas State Aggies, this year's "Big Six" champion, had only a minute 48 seconds edge over Walter Young of Oklahoma A. and M.

Grid Star Wins Title.

The heavyweight honors went to the most impressive performer in the tournament, Jack Riley, Northwestern football star and "Big Ten" mat champion. He scored falls in all of his matches and tonight he pitted his 225 pounds against 280-pound Harry Fields of Haverford, third and last of the three Eastern finalists.

The summaries:

118 POUNDS—John A. Engle, Lehigh, threw Jesse Arends, Iowa State Teachers, in 9.00, with a body scissors and arm bar.

123 POUNDS—Robert Pearce, Oklahoma A. & M., outpointed Lyle Morford, Cornell College, by a 2.34 time allowance in overtime match.

135 POUND—Richard Cole, Iowa State, outpointed John Devine, Oklahoma A. & M., with a 1.53 time allowance.

155 POUND—Leroy McGuirk, Oklahoma A. & M., outpointed John Richardson, Kansas State Aggies, with a 3.33 time allowance.

165 POUND—Jack Van Bebber Oklahoma A. & M., threw M. W. Shanker, Lehigh, in 4.25, with a grape-vine and headlock.

FOUR BASEBALL STARS OF 1930 STILL HOLD OUT

NEW YORK, March 28.—With the sound of wood on horsehide growing in volume each day as the big league baseball clubs roll northward to open their season next month, four star gladiators of last year's campaign remain sulking in their tents.

And take it from Arthur (Dazzy) Vance, Chuck Klein, Phil Collins and Chick Hafey, they're going to stay there unless the front office comes through with a contract that carries the price they place on their services.

Vance, leading pitcher in effectiveness last year, is asking the Brooklyn Dodgers to pay him $24,000 for his year's services. President Frank York says $23,000 is the limit and the Dazzler can either take that or continue his fishing at Homosass, Fla.

Hafey, bespectacled left fielder of the champion St. Louis Cardinals, is asking $15,000. President Sam Breadon hasn't said what he offered, but it is reported to be $3000 less. Breadon is now ready to trade the outfielder.

Klein, leading slugger of the Philadelphia Nationals, and Collins, the Phillies' leading pitcher, want to be paid $14,500 and $12,000, respectively. President Louis Ruch has spent several long hours consulting with his star players in vain and Collins in back at his butcher's block at Chicago, while Klein is at his home in Indianapolis.

The Cardinals and Phillies have tried to get together and see if a change of scenery for Hafey and Klein would not do them some good. The Phillies' demands are said to be at least four players, including Hafey, and the St. Louis Board of Strategy smiled at that.

DAVEY ABAD AND JOHNNY JADICK HEADLINE BOXING SHOW APRIL 10

By W. J. McGoogan.

Johnny Jadick, Philadelphia lightweight, who owns a knockout and a decision over King Tut, Minneapolis, has been signed to meet Davey Abad of St. Louis in the 10-round main event of the boxing show to be held at the Coliseum, April 10, under the auspices of the Jackson Johnson Post of the American Legion. Abad has made his home in St. Louis since his bout with Bushy Graham at The Arena Jan. 2.

Edward A. Byrne of the Jackson Johnson Post, who was recently named as matchmaker to act as liaison between the ghost promoters, Jack Hurley and Sam Slotsky, and Boxing Commissioner Seneca Taylor, said yesterday there would be no advance in prices over last Wednesday's show, the admission prices ranging from 55 cents for the second balcony to $3.30 for the main floor.

Thirty-six Rounds of Boxing.

There will be 36 rounds of boxing on the card and when the program is completed it will include another 10-round contest between a nationally known lightweight and a worthy opponent.

Jadick is 22 years old and has been boxing since 1917. He has met most of the good fighters in his division. He knocked out Tut in seven rounds in 1929 and won a 10-round decision over Tut at Milwaukee last year. Jadick has defeated among others, Bruce Flowers, Lope Tenorio and Luis Vincentini.

The Philadelphian was knocked out by Ray Miller, Chicago southpaw, last month in a round, but came back to score a knockout over Ray Collins in his next fight.

Abad, of course, is familiar to St. Louis fans as his bobbing and weaving tactics have been on exhibition here several times during the past two years. He fought three battles with Benny Bass, winning one, losing one and finally being knocked out by Bass in four rounds at the Coliseum. Abad lost a newspaper decision to Graham here in January but since that time has won two bouts, defeating Chico Cisneros and Toney Seto.

Hurley to Leave for Hearing.

Jack Hurley, whose check book supports the matches of the Jackson Johnson Post, departs for Minneapolis today to attend a hearing before the Minnesota Boxing Commission tomorrow at which the charges of fake in the last Billy Petrolle-King Tut fight in Madison Square Garden will be investigated. Hurley, Petrolle's manager, and Petrolle stand suspended in Minnesota and in the 32 States under the jurisdiction of the National Boxing Association. Petrolle will be unable to box in those States, of which Missouri is one, until cleared in Minnesota. He recently was exonerated by the New York Commission and his purse for the bout, which had been held up, was paid.

Hurley yesterday received a contract for Petrolle to box Jimmy McLarnin a return bout in Madison Square Garden, May 8 for which he will receive 25 per cent of the net receipts. Petrolle surprised the boxing world last year when he defeated McLarnin in the Garden. He later was knocked out in a round by Tut at St. Paul, then knocked out Tut in New York in four rounds.

Petrolle likely will appear on one of the coming programs here, if he is cleared by the N. B. A.

Harvey Sails for Home.

NEW YORK, March 28.—Len Harvey, British middleweight champion, who failed in his effort to conquer Vince Dundee and Ben Jeby in his American invasion, sailed back to England today. He intends to rest for a few months and return this summer to start over again.

EASTERN RACING SEASON OPENS TOMORROW AT BOWIE TRACK

CHARITY WILL GET PROCEEDS FOR FIRST DAY OF MEETING

By the Associated Press.

BALTIMORE, Md., March 28.—Some 1700 thoroughbreds were ready today for the opening Monday of the Eastern racing season at the Bowie track, in Southern Maryland.

The season opens a day earlier than originally scheduled because of the addition of one day each by the four major Maryland tracks, the managements of which agreed to turn over one day's proceeds to a Baltimore unemployment relief fund.

The State is to waive collection of its usual $6000 fee for the charity days and at Bowie the mutuel employes plan to contribute half or more of their wages. A total of $15,000 or more is expected to be added to the fund from Monday's proceeds.

A number of horsemen also have indicated they will contribute a portion of the purses won.

A seven-event program, arranged almost at the last minute, will inaugurate the Maryland and Eastern season. The card consists of a four and one-half furlong number for maiden 2-year-olds; a seven-furlong event for 4-year-olds and upwards; a six-furlong sprint for 3-year-olds; a handicap at a mile and one-sixteenth for 3-year olds and upwards; a purse race at seven furlongs for 3-year-olds; a mile and a sixteeth heat for 3-year-olds and upwards ,and a mile and sixteenth contest for 4-year-olds and upwards.

Lunt and Fontanne Here

Theater Guild Stars to Present "Elizabeth, the Queen," Starting Tomorrow Night at the American—Mary Hart Announces "Lysistrata" and "Strange Interlude" for The Orpheum—Grace George Next Week at Shubert.

THE New York Theater Guild, which arrived here early in the present season comes back to town, at the tail end of the theatrical year, with "Elizabeth the Queen" tomorrow night at the American Theater. Alfred Lunt and Lynn Fontanne are the stars of the organization. Opposing this combination the Orpheum Theater will continue its run of Frank Craven's most amusing comedy, "That's Gratitude" while the Shubert continues dark until a week from tonight when Grace George arrives with "The First Mrs. Fraser."

According to all reports Maxwell Anderson, author of "Elizabeth the Queen," has seen to it that both Elizabeth and Essex emerge as believable and sympathetic figures, understandable and motivated by compelling forces that we know. Their story, the tale of the struggle of two strong wills is said to become engrossing and vital under simple, straightforward handling and Elizabeth once more takes her place on the stage, not in the manner in which she took it before, but in the spirit of modern drama.

Surrounding Miss Fontanne and Mr. Lunt, the Guild has assembled the full strength of the Theater Guild Acting Company including Morris Carnovsky, Percy Waram, Arthur Hughes, Edward Fielding, Whitford Kane, Dorothy Patten, Fred Monti, Charles Brokaw, Maurice Wells, William Sauter, Philip Foster, Daphne Sherwin, Ruth Nelson, Phoebe Brand and John Ellsworth.

The production was staged by Philip Moeller, who usually directs the Lunts—Miss Fontanne is Mrs. Lunt. He has staged the piece warily and yet with a broad and sweeping hand. The settings are by Lee Simonson, the Guild's principal scene designer. The Guild has done the drama on a revolving stage.

A play of Western life, "Green Grow the Lilacs," comes to the American Theater the week of April 6, as the fourth play of the second subscription season of the Theater Guild in St. Louis. "Green Grow the Lilacs" presents the lusty life of Oklahoma Territory when the cowboy was making his last stand against the encroachment of the farmer.

Movie Factories Are Raising Cry For More 'Scripts

HOLLYWOOD, March 28.

THE old cry of the movie factories for original stories is rising now to a wail.

After three years of steady talkie production, the supply of stage plays is practically exhausted. Broadway is not supplying new ones rapidly enough to meet the needs of a screen which has to produce about 50 times as many shows yearly as the legitimate stage.

Adaptations of popular novels have filled the need for a time, and all producers employ reading staffs to scan new volumes and current magazines for possible picture material. But the "original story," written directly for the screen, at last is returning into its own.

One writer, John Howard Lawson, is under contract to write four stories this year for Radio, and will receive $1800 a week for the 52 weeks. Established writers are being sewed to long term contracts, and are in positions as enviable as those big stars who are playing "Pay-Me-or-I'll-Sign-with-Warners" with their bosses.

The writing field, indeed, is so attractive that Carmen Barnes, young Southern girl who had a novel published when she was 15 years old, was at first indifferent to an acting contract offered her.

When her "School Girl" and "Beau Lover" were bought for the screen and she was brought to Hollywood under contract, Paramount made screen tests of her and offered her a chance to act as well as write. She thought she preferred to stick to writing.

But she has changed her mind now, and has signed a contract calling for her services as a star in "A Debutante Confesses," and as a writer as well.

"Faust" in Original German Form Tonight

Goethe's life work, "Faust," in its original form will be given tonight by the German Theater Stock Company in the Auditorium of the German House, 2345 Lafayette avenue, in honor of the 200th anniversary of the birthday of Mrs. Aja von Goethe, wife of the poet. Goethe started to work on this play when barely 20 years old and finished it when 83 years old, just a few months before his death.

The Week's New Films - - By Nie

IN "Man of the World," at the Ambassador, William Powell just wanted to go straight and marry a nice girl, but some how his not very distant past kept dogging at his heels and making things difficult. You see Bill was an American newspaper man who went to Paris and decided to live by his wits and by turning a trick, every now and then, in a blackmailing way. Rich tourists from back home do things in France, according to reports, that they don't want the folks in Iowa to hear about. Bill's specialty was printing items of that sort in a little scandal sheet and then selling the entire edition to the interested party. There was a girl helping him in his schemes and they might have gotten rich if Carole Lombard hadn't happened along with her uncle. Bill forgot blackmail and everything else, including his female partner, when he met Carole and fell, hook, line and sinker. He told her the story of his life and she agreed to forget everything he had done and marry him, off hand. But the other woman wasn't to be put aside so easily and Bill finally sees that he can never be considered an honest man, by the world at large, so he gives up Carole and sails for South America with his first love as the picture ends. Perhaps the boat was wrecked and the girl drowned, leaving Bill to return to America and claim Carole. But the picture doesn't say so and the customers who want a happy finish must use their own imagination—if any.

Love and War.

HOW the Mystery Ships of the U. S. Navy went after the German submarines, and got 'em, too, during the war is all pictured in "The Seas Beneath" down at Loew's. George O'Brien heads a jolly crew of sailors who manned an innocent looking schooner—innocent looking but carrying an awful punch in a hidden six-inch gun. Of course, there were no women aboard and as women and romance are essential to the cinema George and his crew go ashore at the Canary Islands. They meet a lot of girls there. One of them turns out to be a German spy whose brother commands a U-boat cruising in the neighborhood. Torn between love and duty she sticks with the Fatherland and the Americans are led into a sea trap which pretty nearly proves fatal. America, as you might imagine, triumphs, however, and the lady spy and Commander O'Brien decide that after the war is finished they may meet again and at least talk things over. Maybe things like that didn't happen to our navy but "The Seas Beneath" is an exciting picture for boat lovers.

The Chinese Copper Again.

REMEMBER Charlie Chan, the Chinese dick of the screens? Well, he's in again in a murder mystery meller called "Charlie Chan Carries On" at the Fox. This time there is a bunch of murders which take place during a round-the-world cruise of a party of tourists. The shootings begin in London—which lets Scotland Yard in—and continue most everywhere else, for the sightseers just won't let a little thing like a murder between friends stop them from using up the rest of their transportation. In Honolulu Charlie Chan takes a hand and on a ship bound for San Francisco he gets his man after the audience has been led to suspect every one in the film. Warner Oland is excellent as Charlie and gets out a lot of Chinese wise cracks.

Loose Moments.

"LONELY WIVES," at the St. Louis is one of those French bedroom farces such as Al Woods delighted in when he was uplifting the American stage. As a matter of fact the picture is made from one of Mr. Wood's old managerial uplifts. It's all about a staid lawyer who becomes perfectly ridiculous after 8 o'clock every night. One evening when his wife is out of town—his mother-in-law is always with him—he hires an actor to impersonate him around the house and goes out for a whirl. His wife returns unexpectedly, thinks the actor is her husband and the usual complications follow although we are assured, at the finish, that nothing very serious happened. Edward Everett Horton plays the role of the husband and the actor as well and succeeds in getting all of the laughs the risque situations call for.

Another Horse Opera.

PISTOLS and Remingtons, covered wagons and longhorns, bad men and good women are all mixed together in "The Conquering Horde" at the Missouri. You know the type—the open spaces drama with hard riding cowboys and the ever-present threat of the bloodthirsty Comanches. Richard Arlen is the Texas ranger who leads the U. S. Cavalry to the rescue at the exact moment when they were most needed and Fay Wray is the gal who is saved—for Arlen. "The Conquering Horde," is full of excitement and thrills and is rather better than the usual run of westerns.

Liveright for Films.

Horace Liveright, publisher and stage producer, has signed a long-term contract with RKO-Pathe. He is to assist Charles R. Rogers, production chief at the West Coast studios in the search for new screen stories. Eventually, according to Rogers' plan, Liveright will serve in a supervising capacity and probably as a director. Under the terms of his contract Liveright continues as inactive chairman of Horace Liveright, Inc., the publishing company which he has directed for 15 years.

These Movie Fellows They Spend the Jack

DOUG FAIRBANKS got $300,000 for his work in "Reaching for the Moon," according to Photoplay Magazine. Irving Berlin got $50,000 and 50 per cent of the profits for writing the story. Edmund Goulding got $82,000 for directing it, and Elsie Janis received a mere pittance of $25,000 for tinkering the dialogue. After these incidentals there was the actual cost of the picture.

"Kiki" cost a million dollars, Mary Pickford working for wages for the first time in many years. And they do say that De Sylva, Brown and Henderson, the song writers, got $300,000 for writing Gloria Swanson's new picture.

Set 'em up again, George, and see what the boys in the back room are going to have.

Sacks' Recital April 7.

The second of a series of three piano recitals by Nathan Sacks at Sheldon Memorial Auditorium, 3646 Washington avenue, has been postponed until April 7. The programs, in order, are devoted to classical, romantic and modern music, the second embracing compositions of Schubert, Schumann, Mendelssohn and Chopin.

Municipal Opera Composers

MUNICIPAL opera's 1931 season will be a tune-fest. While new goals of artistic endeavor in production have been established, and while J. J. Shubert, general productions manager for the coming al fresco season, is expected to achieve even finer productions than the Municipal Theater in Forest Park has yet provided, the Repertory Committee of the Municipal Theater Association has not forgotten that in opera "the tune's the thing." The very names of the composers are an evidence.

Two outstanding American composers of operetta top the list. They are Sigmund Romberg, whose "Nina Rosa" which opened the splendid 1930 season, is again in the Forest Park repertory, and Rudolph Friml, who collaborated with Herbert Stothart in "Rose Marie," which will be presented again this season, and whose "Three Musketeers," produced by special arrangement with Florenz Ziegfeld, will be seen for the first time in St. Louis in the course of the coming summer.

Besides these two greatest of contemporary American composers of operetta the repertory will offer three works which are marked by the authentic Viennese stamp of tuneful melody. These are "A Wonderful Night," the music of which is by Johann Strauss, the composer of "The Blue Danube" and innumerable other waltzes, and whose "Perpetual Motion" was recently presented by Conductor Szell at a St. Louis Symphony Orchestra concert. Besides his waltzes Strauss wrote several operettas, giving the characteristic style and fashion to Viennese operetta which remained until the modern American school developed in postwar years. "A Wonderful Night" is a modernized version of the story which retains the lilting music of his "Die Fledermaus," the greatest of his works. The other Viennese composer, Emmerich Kalmann, is of the present and not only has been frequently presented in Forest Park, but has been, because of the tuneful quality and the sparkling beauty of his music one of the most popular of composers among the summer opera audiences. Municipal Opera this season will present his "The Circus Princess" which was one of the successes of last season, and "Countes Maritza," one of the outstanding operettas of recent years.

Lesser known are most of the other composers represented. Not so prolific in their output of music, but men who by force of their gift for melody have won national and even international renown with at least one operetta.

Perhaps the foremost of these is Harry Tierney, whose tunes were first on everybody's lips when the whole of America began to whistle "My Alice Blue Gown." Tierney's "Irene," in which that song was the most popular number, is to be presented for the first time in Forest Park this summer, and his gift of melody is also represented in the intriguing tunes of "Rio Rita," another great Ziegfeld success which will be seen this summer in course of the al fresco opera cycle.

The four other composers represented in the repertory are far less well known, yet have won their spurs, and even achieved national reputations with some of the most popular melodies in recent and current operetta offerings. They are Maurie Reubens, composer of "Music in May," Niclas Kempner and S. Timberg, who provided the music for "The Street Singer," and Walter Kollo, composer of "Three Little Girls."

The last three works are not only new to the Municipal Theater and new to St. Louis, but are among the outstanding musical hits of the last three years. "Three Little Girls" is continuing at present its long Chicago run and will be brought to St. Louis with the cast virtually intact. As nearly as possible the original casts will be presented in Municipal Opera's productions throughout the entire season.

Cigarette Company Gives $250,000 to Actor's Charity for Mention of Their Smokes in Picture to Be Shown Here Next Week—Patsy Ruth Miller and Laura La Plante, St. Louis Girls, Beating it Back in the Talkies, Appear Together in the Same Screen Drama at the St. Louis Theater.

NEXT week—Easter week—is to be a special one in the cinema cathedrals stretching from Holyoke to Hollywood. It is to have some sort of a fancy name, something like Players' and Patrons' Jubilee week, but the main import of the affair is the fact that it will be in the nature of a benefit for that very worthy stage charity, the National Vaudeville Actors' Association. The N. V. A. starts off with a gift of $250,000 from the makers of a popular brand of cigarettes who pay that sum because their brand of smokes is mentioned in a one-reel comedy picture which will be shown in 2500 theaters during the week. This film, a comedy called "Stolen Jools," will be on display in each of the first-run St. Louis theaters and it boasts a cast which puts all other all-star attempts completely in the shade. Among the players, who donated their services in order to put over the 250 grand for charity, are Richard Barthelmess, Warner Baxter, Wallace Beery, El Brendel, Joe E. Brown, Charles Butterworth, Maurice Chevalier, Gary Cooper, Joan Crawford, Bebe Daniels, Richard Dix, Claudia Dell, Fifi Dorsay, Irene Dunne, Stuart Erwin, Douglas Fairbanks Jr., Frank Fay, Richard (Skeets) Gallagher, Wynne Gibson, Hedda Hopper, William Haines, Buster Keaton, Laurel and Hardy, Winnie Lightner, Edmund Lowe, Ben Lyon, Bert Lytell, Victor McLaglen, Polly Moran, Charles Murry, Jack Oakie, Our Gang Kids, E. G. Robinson, Buddy Rogers, Norma Shearer, Barbara Stanwyck, Bert Wheeler, Robert Woolsey, Fay Wray and Loretta Young.

The St. Louis theaters will whoop things up for the benefit week in several ways. Eddie Lowry, from the Ambassador, and Al Lyons, from the Fox, will pay stage calls upon one another and there will be other special stunts. The audiences will be urged to contribute, in some form or another, to the N. V. A. fund.

TWO St. Louis girls, who have been rather out of the running since the talkies came in, are playing together in the same picture this week. They are Laura La Plante and Patsy Ruth Miller and both of them have roles in "Lonely Wives" at the St. Louis Theater. Both have made a talkie or two but this will be Miss La Plante's first contract appearance. The story of her career is of more than ordinary interest. To seek gold and glory in California, with the accent on the gold, was the dire necessity of Laura La Plante. She didn't go to California as a gold digger, mind you, but as a photoplayer, and she didn't go in the California gold rush era, for Laura was born in St. Louis on Nov. 1, 1904. At the age of 14, she with her family went to California and the moving picture studios.

Her first cast into the moving picture pool was successful. She caught a job as extra girl at the Christie Studios. Within two years she was playing leads with Tom Mix. Then she went to Universal City. She has been there ever since. A serial, "Perils of the Yukon" first brought her to the attention of the wiseacres. The next year she played opposite Hoot Gibson, the next year opposite Reginald Denny, and since 1926 she has been starring in her own right.

The title, "Dangerous Innocence" must have been a fateful one. This picture was directed by William A. Seiter and soon after the location trip to Hawaii where most of this picture was shot, the director and his star became engaged. They were married in the Wilshire Presbyterian Church, the most gorgeous wedding of film people that Hollywood ever witnessed.

THE death in Chicago, during the past week of Hilding Johnson, the newspaper man whose career furnished the idea for the stage play, "The Front Page," came just at the time when the film version was being shown on the screens. This film version, incidentally, is causing an unusual amount of talk in Hollywood for two reasons: Because of its character, and because Howard Hughes paid for it.

After nearly two years of preparation the picture has just been completed and shown in New York. It was filmed in the short time of six weeks, which is noteworthy for a Hughes production when one recalls his "Hell's Angels," years on end in the making.

When Hughes bought the play it was argued that censorship regulations (and the Hays code) would cause the celluloid edition to be lifeless and uninteresting. The Hecht-MacArthur drama of Chicago newspaperdom was as ribald as anything the stage ever offered. It was so full of so-called "punch lines" that many felt their elimination wouldn't leave Director Lewis Milestone much to work with.

But there was, and according to all reports, it is a great picture. Despite the substitution of such mild words as "babboon" and "heel" for baser epithets, the dialog is as effective and convincing as ever.

Adolph Menjou's characterization of Walter Burns, the managing editor, is said to be his outstanding screen achievement. (The role was to have been played by the late Louis Wolheim.) Menjou will make many pictures before he has a role that fits him as well.

Pat O'Brien, a newcomer, is the Hildy. Milestone saw him in a play in New York and Hughes paid $12,000 to get him.

THERE are as many of the Kruth family in the movies as there are of the Marx clan.

Reading from left to right, they are Marian Marsh, Jean Fenwick, and Eddie and George Morgan. They are Kruths at heart, but not in the studios.

Jean, who is 22 and the oldest, talked her sister and brothers into pictures. Her method consisted of lugging them along every time she received a call from a studio for extra work.

The net result is that Marian has played the role of Trilby with John Barrymore in "Svengali," Eddie has a contract at the same studio, George is playing parts and Jean herself has been boosted from extra-ing to small roles.

The Kruth children were born in Trinidad, West Indies, where their father was a chocolate trader. Later, he came to this country and discovered soon after arriving that daughter Jean, then 15, had stage ambitions.

Three years ago Jean obtained her father's permission to go to Hollywood and take Eddie, Marian and George with her. She sent the youngsters to school while she set out to become a star.

STEAMBOAT AND BEER GARDEN ON HOTEL ROOF

Chase to Bring Back Old Days for Summer Diners—Packet Relics Obtained.

The St. Louis scene this summer is to regain two settings of past gayety and fame—a biergarten and an old-time Mississippi steamboat.

They are planned for the roof of Hotel Chase, as near the real things as James A. Hickey, managing director, and a staff of designers can make them. Not to mention expert historical aid, for the business of recreating an authentic packet-boat on the roof of a modern hotel is no easier than it sounds.

Hickey and his assistants have been delving into Mississippi lore for two months. The Mississippi packet is history, for, it may be recalled, the last of the old-timers in a regular service drew its fires last summer at Memphis. And the biergarten, likewise, is only a memory.

That St. Louis institution is to be represented in the enclosed east wing of the roof. An attempt will be made to recapture the old atmosphere with gravel underfoot, trees overhead, tranquility and such good talk as the guests can provide.

The "SS. Lady Chase" will be the open west wing. Colors will be red and green and white. Guests will step from the elevators to a wharf and will walk among stacks of barrels and coils of rope to board the steamer by a typical river gangplank.

Lights are to be softened, except for the searchlight, to be turned on the gangplank as for a river boat at a landing. Above the rail—just low enough to afford those at the tables a view of Forest Park—will be steamboat lanterns, conforming, except in number, to the rules of the river.

Heaviest Cargo Ice Bowls.

A pilot house near the center will provide a table for four. At precisely nine feet from it will be the stacks, with a huge "C" suspended between them. Over at the side may be seen the paddle wheel and its wash may be heard when the orchestra pauses. Innovations to fit the scene are planned in music. Orchestra, waiters and busboys will wear appropriate dress, from the captain down to the "stevedores" whose heaviest cargo will be ice bowls.

For authentic decorations Hickey has combed the Mississippi. Old packets provided anchor, pilot's wheel, lanterns and so on. Everything will be real—with, of course, one major exception in the "beer" garden.

FUNERAL OF A. G. REPETTO AND HIS MOTHER TOMORROW

Funeral services for Mrs. Josephine Repetto, 6317 Clemens avenue, and her son, Anthony G. Repetto, 4321 Laclede avenue, will be held tomorrow at 9 a. m. at St. Charles Borromeo's Church, Ewing avenue and Locust street. Burial will take place in Calvary Cemetery.

Mrs. Repetto's death Friday apparently was hastened by grief over the death of her son on Wednesday. At the time her son died, of heart disease, she was suffering only from a slight bronchial ailment. She was 83 years old and her son 58.

She is survived by four daughters, Mrs. Christine Cafferata, Mrs. Joseph Garavelli, Mrs. John Canepa and Miss Lillie Repetto, and a son, John Repetto. Anthony Repetto is survived also by his widow.

Mrs. Pennington, who was 58 years old and resided at Robertson, St. Louis County, died Friday of pneumonia, several days after she entered St. John's Hospital for treatment of injuries suffered in an automobile accident in San Diego, Cal., March 12. She is survived only by her daughter. Her son-in-law, manager of the Chicago National League baseball team, is at a training camp in California.

"CUT-RATE" GAS UP, THEN DOWN IN PRICE IN WEEK

Majority of Stations Agree to Raise But This Lasts Only Two Days.

The retail price of gasoline at "cut-rate" independent filling stations went up, then down, last week.

Early in the week representatives of about 150 "cut-rate" stations met and proposed to raise the price of "regular gas" from 9 cents to 11.9 cents, and "high test" fuel from 11 to 13.9 cents. The majority agreed, including the Ryan self-service station on South Kingshighway, which originated 9-cent gasoline here. Within two days approximately the same majority were back to the 9 and 11 cent price.

P. S. CO. TAXES REDUCED $115,838 BY AGREEMENT

Decrees, Based on Reduction in Assessed Valuation, Entered in Courts.

Under an agreement between the St Louis Public Service Co. and the taxing authorities, Circuit Courts in St. Louis and St. Louis County have entered decrees fixing the 1930 State, school and municipal tax bills of the company as follows: St. Louis, $873,943 instead of $971,833, a reduction of $97,890; county, $160,244 instead of $178,192, a reduction of $17,948; total reduction, $115,838.

This action was based on a reduction of the assessed valuation from $44,482,395, as determined by the State Tax Commission and the State Board of Equalization, to $40,001,394 by the elimination of street paving, $3,283,877; excess grading, $1,170,319; work on bridges and viaducts not owned by the company, $26,302. The items eliminated are capital expenditures for improvements in which the company has no right of ownership.

Objecting to its tax bills, the company filed suit for review of the assessments, alleging they were discriminatory. Meanwhile it paid $577,230 on the city bill and $125,000 on the county bill. The balances of $296,713 and $35,244, respectively, were paid yesterday.

In a statement yesterday Stanley Clarke, president, said the company hoped to still further reduce its taxes in the future.

KMOX Seeks Permit to Bu Clarence Darrow to Make "Trial" of Benedict Arno rid Onegin in Concert on morrow—Stokowski to Le tra Broadcast Easter Day

CLARENCE DARROW, the noted criminal lawyer, who is playing the role of defense attorney in the radio trial of Benedict Arnold, says he will "make a plea for clemency" when the "trial" is resumed at 9:15 tonight over the NBC's Red chain, including WDAF, WOW, WEAF, WGY, WHAS, WSM, WMC or WSB. The trial of Arnold, which began last Sunday night, will be followed by similar trials of Napoleon Bonaparte, Joan of Arc, Aaron Burr, Mary Queen of Scotts and others famous in history.

Songs from Nat Shilkret's musical score for a talking picture produced in England that was based on Sir Walter Scott's poem, "The Lady of the Lake," will be sung by Dennis King in a broadcast over KSD at 7:30 next Wednesday night.

KMOX, St. Louis, has applied to the Federal Radio Commission for a permit to build a television station to operate with 500 watts power in the wave band between 2000 and 2100 kilocycles. What system of television broadcasting will be used has not been decided, according to Nelson Darragh, president of the Voice of St. Louis, Inc., which operates KMOX and its 50,000 regular transmitter. The Columbia System, which owns a substantial interest in KMOX, is experimenting with the R. C. A.-Victor system of television in connection with WABC, its key station in New York City. Darragh also has been investigating the Jenkins television system, which is to be operated in New York with stations

Small Radiola Superheterodyne Uses Multi-Mu Tubes—Atwater Kent Adds 30-Pound Superheterodyne With Pentode Audio Tube—Majestic Factory Producing 3500 to 3800 Sets a Day.

Small Radiola Superheterodyne.

The "Superette," a new low-priced Radiola superheterodyne with an eight-tube chassis, has just been introduced. It uses the new multi-mu screen grid tube, which does much toward preventing "cross talk" interference. A full dynamic speaker, small cabinet, an improved tone control and marked selectivity and distance range are features. The receiver is 18¾ inches high, 14 inches wide and 10 inches deep. The Aeolian Co. of Missouri, distributer, reports that it is a real distance getter."

Pentode Tube in A-K "Super."

An added Atwater Kent receiver of the superheterodyne type uses the newly perfected pentode audio tube in a small cabinet, the total weight being only 30 pounds. The receiver is in a walnut cabinet measuring only 19 inches high, 16 inches wide and 10 inches deep, yet provides large set superheterodyne performance. The pentode audio tube amplifies four to six times as powerfully as the ordinary power tube, according to Norman S. Brown of the Brown & Hall Supply Co., who has just returned from the Atwater Kent factory in Philadelphia where he saw the new set for the first time.

Menges Agent for Insuline.

Harry W. Menges, 1530 Olive street, has been appointed factory agent for the radio and television products of the Insuline Corporation of America, including short-wave receivers and television sets.

Majestic Plant Busy.

In a letter to Harry Bibb, general manager for the Koerber-Brenner Co., Majestic distributer, S. D. Compton, vice president and treasurer of the Grigsby-Grunow Co., says: "At the present time we are making between 3500 and 3800 radio sets per day and approximately 40,000 tubes. They are all being shipped out on firms' orders and our order department today has demands for 44 cars for immediate shipment. Our net sales in February were $2,600,000 and our sales for March alone will be approximately $3,250,000. Our cash on hand this morning was in excess of $1,300,000. Some parts of our refrigerator plant are already operating and the first boxes will come off the line the first week in April. We have at work this morning about 5600 people and the number involved in the union controversy, to the best of my knowledge, does not exceed 100 men. Since Oct. 1, last, the overhead of the Grigsby-Grunow Co. has been reduced over $2,000,000 without impairing our efficiency, quality or productive capacity."

Darragh also has been investigating the Jenkins television system, which is to be operated in New York with stations that will transmit both pictures and accompanying sound broadcasts, much as does WMAQ, Chicago.

Leopold Stokowski will conduct his fourth special radio concert this season from 4 to 5 o'clock Easter day afternoon. He has programmed "Lindbergh's Flight," by Kurt Weil; the Good Friday music from "Parsifal," and Rimsky-Korsakoff's "The Russian Easter" music.

Georgia Stark, a coloratura soprano who was born in Joplin, Mo., has become a staff artist for KFI, Los Angeles. She has sung opera in Italy, Latin-America and with the Philadelphia Opera Company.

Sigrid Onegin, contralto of the Metropolitan Opera, is to sing over KMOX at 7:30 tomorrow night. Her program includes the "Habanera" and "Gypsy Song" from "Carmen," Brahms' lovely "Sapphic Ode," Schubert's "Der Erlkoenig" and the great aria for mezzo-soprano from "Samson et Dalila."

"The Powerful Meek," by Charles Rann Kennedy, is to be played in a Radio Guild broadcast from 3 to 4 o'clock Good Friday afternoon, probably over KWK. The playwright and Edith Wynne Matthison will take the leading roles.

The Mound City Blue Blowers, who play "a suit case, a comb and two guitars," are playing over the NBC WJZ chain at 10:45 Tuesday nights. Organized in St. Louis, the "orchestra's" members are William McKenzie, Eddie Conlon, William Bland and Frank Billings.

KSD is again on the honor roll, having been one of the stations which in January deviated less than 200 cycles from their assigned wave lengths. The permissable deviation is 500 cycles. WOS, at Jefferson City, Mo., also made the honor list, as did WOQ, Kansas City, Mo., and WTAD, Quincy, Ill.

Gene Austin, tenor, will sing over the NBC's WEAF chain at 6 o'clock Saturday evenings and over the WJZ network at 9:45 Tuesday nights, beginning April 4.

Dubois' oratorio, "The Seven Last Words of Christ," will be sung over KWK at 7:30 Good Friday night. Barre Hill, baritone of the Chicago Opera, will sing the role of the "Christus."

KFUO has completed installation of crystal control and an increased modulation panel in its 1000-watt transmitter. The new equipment should increase KFUO's range, improve quality of transmission and keep the station on its channel.

Following the apparently successful synchronized operation of WEAF, New York, and WTIC, Hartford, on WEAF's channel, and WJZ, New York, and WBAL, Baltimore, on WJZ's wave length, the Columbia System has been authorized by the Radio Commission to experiment with synchronization on the 1430 kc. wave. The stations used will be WHP, Harrisburg, Pa.; WCAH, Columbus, O.; WHEC, Rochester, N. Y., and WOKO, Albany, N. Y. The tests should begin in about six weeks and will be tried without use of land wires.

It is reported that plans of the National Broadcasting Co., as revealed in applications before the Radio Commission, call for eventually establishing of entire chains of stations on each of several clear channels. A main station and several "boosters" would broadcast on each wave length, the "booster stations" merely helping to increase the strength of the broadcasts from the key station.

Denial of an application for a radio station at Kirksville, Mo., to be operated by the Northeast Missouri Teachers' College is recommended by Examiner Yost of the Federal Radio Commission. Yost said the station would interfere with other stations and that Missouri had more stations than it was entitled to. Yost also would deny the application of John R. Anderson, Cardwell, Mo., for a 25-watt daytime station.

Lily Pons, the youthful French soprano who won a great success at the Metropolitan Opera, is to sing over KSD in the concert at 6:30 next Sunday evening.

An elaborate schedule of broadcasts is announced for Easter Sunday, among them the Easter service at Arlington National Cemetery, Washington, D. C., over the Columbia chain.

Dan Beddoe, tenor of oratorio fame, is to sing over WLW at 5 o'clock this afternoon.

Three Navajo Indians, who never have left their reservation, will be featured in a "Highroads of Adventure" broadcast over the WEAF chain at 5 o'clock next Saturday afternoon, probably over KSD. They have been selected from 7000 Indians to tour the country.

Cyrena Van Gordon, mezzo soprano of the Chicago Opera, will sing in a Celebrities concert over KWK at 8 o'clock Tuesday night * * * Mildred Hunt, the "crooner," is singing at 10:45 Friday nights over the WJZ chain * * * Sam Lanin, who led the Troubadours orchestra for several years over KSD and KWK, will direct his men in the broadcasts with "Scrappy" Lambert and Dick Robertson, singers, and Dave Elman, humorist, in a new series on Wednesdays, starting April 1 * * * Gus Van will be featured in a "Miniature Movies" series at 6:15 Tuesdays on the WJZ chain, starting this week * * In the Amos and Andy broadcasts, Amos also plays Brother Crawford, Lightnin', Jasper, the Kingfish, Lawyer Smith and Pat Pending. Andy plays Lawyer Collins, Lawyer Snoop, the Traveling Man and Van Porter. * * * It has been decided to extend the Columbia concerts programs on KMOX through April * * * Theo Alban, tenor, with B. A. Rolfe's orchestra, is reported to get $500 a week for the 78 seconds he sings in this three times a week broadcasts. In each broadcast Alban sings 16 measures of "Happy Days Are Here Again," requiring about 26 seconds. So he is paid at the rate of $6.41 a second.

The Radio Commission has abandoned its plan to shift stations on 13 cleared channels, including KMOX, WHAS, KYW, WHAM and KTHS. It rescinded its order instead of granting the stations involved a hearing as would have been necessary to make the change, under a court decision.

"Bad Bill Car" Banned.

The "bad bill car"—a brilliant yellow automobile so inscribed—has been ruled off the streets of Hartford, Conn. The collection agency operating the machines would warn a delinquent, then, if payment was not forthcoming, would call at the house in the "bad bill car."

Motorists Joining League Organized For Safer Driving

Asked to Sign Pledge That They Will Observe Nine Rules of the Road.

Many automobile owners in the St. Louis district have joined the Silvertown Safety League, a country-wide movement to reduce the number of auto acidents, acording to E. R. Kenner, general manager of Goodrich Silvertown, Inc., 2843 Washington boulevard.

Each member of the league is asked to sign a pledge, as follows:

"1. To drive at speeds in keeping with the safety of others as well as myself.

"2. To keep on the right side of the road, except when passing.

"3. To pass only when I know there is ample time and space—never on blind curves or when nearing the crest of a hill.

"4. To go through intersections only when I have the right of way.

"5. To observe all traffic signals.

"6. To give signals myself that can be clearly seen and understood, before turning or stopping in traffic.

"7. To drive only when in full possession of my faculties.

"8. To keep my brakes, lights and horn in good condition.

"9. To operate my car on tires which assure a positive grip on the road—safe traction—and freedom from hazardous tire failures."

Col. Joseph A. Gerk, president of the International Association of Chiefs of Police and Chief of Police in St. Louis, made this comment on the pledge:

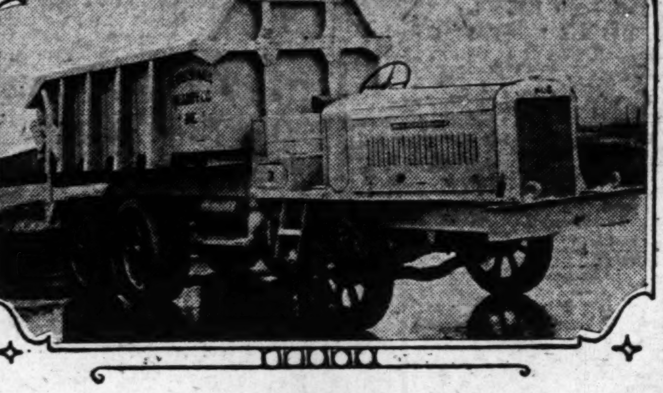
"I go on record as being thoroughly in accord with each and every one of the nine items that go to make up the pledge of the Silvertown Safety League. These items might well be termed the nine commandments of safety. With all motorists keeping them, the complete safety of the traveling public, in cars and afoot, would be guaranteed."

Buick Production Schedule Increased

Production of the Buick Motor Co. for March has been stepped up 18 per cent over the production schedule for the same month last year. In March, 1930, the factory turned out 8696 cars. The schedule for this month calls for 10.271 units, E. T. Strong, president announces.

Factory activities this month also represent an increase of 30.2 per cent over the production schedule of last month. Dealer stocks are reported normal with a constantly increasing demand for new cars, a demand which is expected to result in additional production schedule increases for the month of April.

Built to Stand Heavy Shocks



One of three special trucks built by the Hug Company for the Louisiana Quarry Co., Winnfield, La. It has a 10-yard body of steel and a false bottom to absorb dumping shocks. It has a pay load capacity of 30,000 pounds, a 126 H. P. engine, 12 speeds forward and three in reverse, and a set-back front wheel design. The truck body must withstand the impact of rock dropped from three-yard steam shovels.

De Luxe Models Growing in Favor, Chevrolet Reports

One of the significant trends in the automotive field, evident during the past year or two and certain to be more pronounced than ever this motoring season, is the evolution in popular favor toward the sport or deluxe type car, the Chevrolet Motor Co. reports. Popularized on the college campus, the "dolled up" automobile represents a constantly growing proportion of each year's output, with the increase in favor of meaning gradually lowering prices due to volume, says H. J. Klingler, vice president and general sales manager of the Chevrolet Motor Co.

"Few realize the hold deluxe models have today on the auto-buying public. The truth is, as represented by Chevrolet, that when our 1931 line is rounded out, exactly half the models in it will have sport equipment," Kingler said.

"Another interesting development in connection with deluxe models is their constantly decreasing purchase price. Originally they were usually the most expensive model of any manufacturer. He made too few of them to permit of the saving effected by quantity production, just as once closed models cost more than the open types because more of the latter were produced. Today the deluxe closed model costs a very little more than the same standard body type. In some instances it costs less than other standard closed models in a manufacturer's line. The present-day volume demand for deluxe models is responsible. We are now turning out sport models in such numbers that their added cost is spread out so thinly as to add relatively little to the cost of the individual unit."

Post-Dispatch Highway Maps

THE Resort and Travel Bureau of the Post-Dispatch has for distribution an excellent 50-page auto trails atlas of the United States and Eastern Canada, showing the condition and numbers of highways and mileage between towns. The price is 50 cents, or 60 cents if mailed.

St. Louis and vicinity maps show all towns, roads, rivers, streams, lakes and other details within a radius of 50 miles of St. Louis. They sell for 20 cents, 24 cents if mailed. Individual state maps are 10 cents and 12 cents mailed.

St. Louis guides, giving the location of streets and street car and bus lines, churches, hospitals, theaters, office buildings and containing a map of the city, sell for 25 and 30 cents.

Map of St. Louis and the suburbs, showing the streets of St. Louis, East St. Louis, Madison, Venice, Clayton, Ferguson, University City, sell for 40 cents, or 45 cents mailed.

Defective Cars Menace.

According to the New York Automobile Club, there are approximately 55,000 motor cars now operating in traffic in New York that are in a dangerous condition and should be removed from the highways. This report is the result of a series of tests recently conducted on cars in use in a town in Nassau County. After inspection for defects in brakes, headlights, wheel alignment and steering wheel play, 86 per cent of the 1103 automobiles examined were found to need mechanical adjustment, and 6 per cent were classed as "a distinct menace to public safety."

Capt. Hawks Would Use Airway Rules To Speed Auto Traffic

"Three hundred miles an hour is safer in the air than 80 on the ground," Capt. Frank M. Hawks, air speedster, said in an interview recently. "Aviation engineers have designed modern airplanes to heavier loads faster and safer. Airway authorities have prescribed strict rules of traffic in keeping with the new demands for speed. What is being done to speed up traffic on the ground?

"In my present car, a Franklin speedster, I feel perfectly safe at 85 miles per hour. This speed cannot be used, however, to its full advantage because of traffic and highway conditions now existing. We need straight express highways that will perfit of the safe speed which engineers now build into automobiles. The American public wants speed but are constantly being thwarted by highways and traffic methods designed for slower rates of travel.

"I left New York one morning and arrived in Los Angeles in the afternoon in time to play a game of golf before dark. This is considered a remarkable feat. I do not consider it so and believe that before long it will be a common occurrence for the layman as well as pilot."

Says Unequally Worn Tire Treads Mean Car Danger

Motorists who use tires with unequally worn treads minimize all the efforts that automotive engineers have gone to in recent years to design a wider margin of safety into cars, according to E. E. Dearth, general plant manager of the Fisk Tire Co.

"If the average driver would only remember," said Dearth, "that the best he can expect of his brakes in an emergency stop is that they will lock his wheels. The rest depends upon the action of his tire surfaces upon the surface of the road. It is only natural that if the treads on one side are in better condition than the treads on the other side, uneven braking will result, regardless of the actual condition of the brakes on a car.

"Positive knowledge of just how a car is going to act is never more important than when a quick stop is necessary. One 'bald-headed' tire at such a time may completely nullify the action of three good tires and perfect brakes by causing the car to pull one way or the other."

Engineers Told Of Auto Oil Tests At Varying Speeds

C. M. Larsen, chief engineer of the Sinclair Refining Co., was the principal speaker at the monthly meeting of the St. Louis section of the Society of Automotive Engineers, held in the Engineers' Building, Wednesday evening. His subject was "Engine Lubrication," and his talk was based on results of laboratory and road tests his company has made.

By 100-mile tests at speeds of 30, 40 and 50 miles per hour, it was found that at 30 miles per hour the test car engine used motor oil at the rate of 3200 miles per quart; at 40 miles per hour, 860 miles per quart, and at 50 miles per hour, 260 miles per quart.

A. J. Mummert, chief engineer and vice president of the McQuay-Norris Piston Ring Co., supplemented Larsen's talk with illustrations of the results of the Sinclair company's tests.

Other speakers included John A. C. Warner, business manager of the St. Louis section of the S. A. E. and David Anderson, Detroit secretary of the same organization.

Oakland Executive Discusses Outlook In Chain Radio Talk

W. A. Blees, vice president in charge of sales of the Oakland Motor Car Co., Pontiac, Mich., spoke over the radio stations in the Columbia chain last Saturday night. Speaking in Los Angeles, Blees said he had found that business conditions were improving and promised to continue on the upgrade this year, while indications were that 1932 would be unusually prosperous for business generally.

BEFORE deciding upon any car, do this:—Get its f.o.b. (that is, the factory) price. Note the difference between that price and the price you are asked to pay for the car, completely equipped and delivered. Then compare that difference between the two prices, with the almost certainly smaller difference which exists between the Nash f.o.b. price and the Nash delivered price. Whether the allowance offered elsewhere on your present car be great or small, compare the actual cash investment you need to make to own a Nash—with that which you must make to own any other car in its field. Service Managers Meet to Hear Talks Of Special Interest

Service managers for automobile dealers to the number of 100, attended a meeting of the Service Managers' Bureau of the St. Louis Automobile Dealers' Association at the Gatesworth Hotel Thursday night.

W. T. Miller of the Duco Corporation of St. Louis talked about "Duco and Its Care," advising as to polishing, cleaning and retouching Duco jobs on automobiles.

Henry M. Paine of the service department of the St. Louis Spring Co. told "Why Springs Spring," going into detail as to why some springs are good and some bad and what to do to insure good spring service.

S. S. Newman described the "Start-Away Motor," an auxiliary to the starting device of motor cars to prevent stalling on railroad tracks and at stop signals.

Joe Rowe of the Perfect Circle Co., Hagerstown, Ind., introduced and showed a talking picture entitled "The Magic Circle," depicting the manufacture, use, fitting and care of a brand of piston rings. Rowe was brought to St. Louis by Climax Jones & Quinn, Inc., distributer of Perfect Circle products.

The speakers were introduced by Dolph Moore, service manager for Lambert-Tigges Motor Co., chairman of the bureau, and Robert E. Lee, managing director of the bureau.

Retail Deliveries Of Dodge Cars Gain

A progressive increase in retail deliveries of Dodge passenger cars and trucks, and of Plymouth cars by Dodge dealers, is reported in a statement issued by Dodge Brothers Corporation.

This increase has been steady since the beginning of the year. It was particularly noticeable in the last few weeks in February and the first week in March.

Retail deliveries of Dodge passenger cars, trucks and Plymouth cars for the week ending Feb. 21 showed an increase of 10.1 per cent over the previous week. Retail deliveries of the same units the week ending Feb. 28 showed an increase of 9.2 per cent over the previous week. Similarly, deliveries for the week ending March 7 showed an increase of 8.7 per cent over the week before.

Shipments of Dodge passenger cars to United States dealers during the month of February were greater than in any month since May, 1930.

Buying New Car May Be Economy, Engineers Declare

This is the time of year motor car owners should take inventory of their automobiles to learn how many more miles of economical operation their cars possess and decide on the advisability of purchasing a new car. Such an inventory will reduce upkeep costs and eliminate future disappointments to thousands of motorists, according to Oldsmobile engineers.

"In the spring every automobile owner should have his car thoroughly overhauled to prepare for summer driving," say Oldsmobile engineers. "At that time he should obtain facts and figures to learn if it is more economical to have his car put in first-class shape for another year's service or to purchase a new car.

"The best plan to follow is to obtain an estimate of the cost of thoroughly reconditioning the mechanical parts of the car and of making required repairs to fenders, paint and upholstery, to improve the appearance. At the same time obtain expert advice as to the possibility of having to make any major service repairs if the car is driven another year. Possible replacement of tires and battery also should be figured in the reconditioning estimate.

"The total of the above items will give an approximate figure of how much more it will cost to operate the car another year over the upkeep of a new automobile. The present re-sale value of the car is easily ascertained and its approximate worth a year later is not difficult to estimate. There remains just a question of a little figuring to learn whether it will be cheaper to purchase a new car or keep the old one another year.

It is advisable to obtain a dealer's assistance as so many factors enter into ariving at the true value of an automobile.

"Among these factors are age, mileage, mechanical condition and appearance. Total mileage is an important consideration, but it is influenced by the condition in which the car has been kept.

"In addition to the purely economic question of buying a new automobile instead of keeping the present car there is the factor of personal satisfaction and pleasure in driving a new, stylish and fine performing automobile such as is represented in the new cars of 1931. This should be considered along with the costs when the service man is asked, 'How much will it cost to put the old bus in shape for another year?'"

U. S. Rubber Co. Breaks Records

Breaking of four tire production records in one day at the Detroit plant of the U. S. Rubber Co. is announced by J. F. O'Shaughnessy, general manager of the tire department.

All production records for the plant were beaten by an increase of 3 per cent, while the biggest shipment ever made from the Detroit plant was reported. More tires were cured on this day than were ever before cured at the plant in a single day, while all plant records for production on the new conveyor system were exceeded, it was announced.

The plant of the tire department is operating three shifts daily.

Ramco Piston Rings Said to End 'Rocking'

"That the choice of a piston with a red rocking chair as a trade mark for Ramco replacement piston rings was a happy one," said J. A. Ramsey, president of the Ramsey Accessories Manufacturing Corporation, "is borne out by the fact that this unusual picture has aroused much interest on the part of the car owner and automotive trade throughout the United States.

"It has helped us get across the fact that Ramco replacement piston rings stop and prevent piston rocking, piston slap and oil pumping—in fact, it sums up most motor troubles.

"Ramcos are the piston rings that scientifically take hold of the pistons, centralize them and stop rocking, knocking motion. They immediately adapt themselves to irregular cylinder shapes."

Europe in "Drive-Yourself" Car.

Tourists in Europe may hire a car, with or without driver, by the day, week or month. The rates for "drive-yourself" cars are as low as $39 per week, and lower for longer periods, with unlimited mileage. Larger cars, with or without chauffeur, may be rented in England and on the continent on a time basis or at a flat rate per mile.

Says Trucks Injure Roads No More Than Do Passenger Cars

"A highway sufficiently strong enough to carry an ordinary seven-passenger sedan will carry pneumatic-tired trucks up to a five-ton capacity; no additional surface thickness being necessary." So says the Missouri Truckmen's Association, in contradicting assertions that privately-owned, as well as "for hire" operated commercial, vehicles are destroying Missouri highways.

"A dispatch outlining the U. S. Bureau of Public Roads recent study of the effect of variation of vehicular wheel loads and impact on design of rigid pavements, and containing the testimony along these lines by Thomas H. MacDonald, bureau chief, before the Interstate Commerce Commission rail-motor hearing at Washington on March 4, proves conclusively that a highway sufficiently strong enough to bear the weight of an ordinary seven-passenger automobile needs no extra strength to carry trucks up to a five-ton capacity," he declared.

"It is shown that the average thickness of slab required for the support of the wheel load and impact of a 7½-ton trucks with pneumatic tires, operated at 30 miles an hour over a surface of smoothness equal to that of a particular street in Washington, taken as a standard, would be approximately only 15 per cent greater than the minimum practicable thickness required for traffic of seven-passenger automobiles.

"Use of a cushion and solid tires on the same 7½-ton truck operated at 20 miles an hour over a surface of the same smoothness would necessitate greater thickness of slab, averaging for cushion tires 31 per cent and for solid tires 42 per cent greater than the seven-passenger automobile minimum."

Cadillac Driveaway Activity Resumed For the Seventh Year

The 20-car driveaways, three times a week, to Chicago from the Cadillac plant in Detroit, have been resumed for the seventh year.

The Chicago group has 20 regular drivers, many of whom have been on duty the full seven years. They have driven 12,000 cars to Chicago. In all this time there have been only four minor accidents. In one period 3200 cars were driven through Detroit and Chicago traffic without a scratch.

This group has never been stopped by a traffic policeman for any violation. In a city, the men drive with one car's length of space between cars. On the open road they increase this to three car lengths, allowing other motorists to fall in line for a moment as they pass the driveaway.

Pistons in Essex Are of New Design

Pistons of aluminum alloy of entirely new design, of the T-slot cam ground type, are used in the new Essex super six.

The slotting of the skirt has been confined to the upper portions which expand most under operating temperatures, the lower skirt remaining solid, thus eliminating any possibility of distortion at this point. The skirt of this new piston is not round, but is ground to a special shape which scientifically provides exact clearance at all points when the piston has been heated to its normal operating temperature. The places on the piston where scoring is generally found are given slight additional clearances by this new design.

This Essex piston design preserves its characteristics over an exceptionally long life and will remain quiet.

Firestone Battery Plant Developed to 3000 Daily Capacity

The Firestone Battery Co., which has just been added to the Firestone plants in Akron, O., has a capacity of 3000 automobile batteries a day, according to S. D. Leland, manager of Firestone Stores, Inc., which opened its new service store at Delmar and Hamilton the past week.

In a telegram to Leland, Harvey S. Firestone, head of the Firestone Rubber Co., commented on the "one-stop service" idea which is exemplified in the new store, saying: "In all my experience I have never been able to get away from the principle that service is the greatest factor in business. We have studied service from the customer's angle. It was inevitable that the more progressive tire dealers should be the one to coordinate such products as tires, batteries, gasoline, oil, greases and greasing, brake lining and the many services required by an automobile owner, into a composite whole."

Firestone originated the "one-stop service" idea, and it is being worked out in stores all over the country, and by Firestone dealers, in the same way as in the new store at Delmar and Hamilton.

Racquet Club Dinner Dance For Visitors

Detroit Squash Team Honored at Party Attended by More Than 150 Guests.

AS a special mark of distinction to the visiting squash racquets team of the Racquet Club of Detroit, the St. Louis Racquet Club departed from its custom of giving only three parties each year where the wives of members are included —The Veiled Prophet Ball, New Year's Eve and the Spring parties —and last night gave a dinner-dance attended by more than 150 guests.

The visiting team came to St. Louis to play an inter-city match yesterday afternoon with the local club, the second to be played on the new squash courts, which have recently been added to the Racquet Club building, and which were formally opened last Saturday in a match with the Kansas City Racquet Club team.

In addition to the dinner and dancing, there were bridge tables arranged for those who cared to play, and backgammon boards as well.

Dutch treat tables were arranged, the largest of which had as their host and hostesses Mr. and Mrs. Eugene F. Williams Jr. and Mr. and Mrs. David R. Calhoun. In the Williams' group were Mr. and Mrs. James H. Platt, Mr. and Mrs. Harold M. Kauffman, Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. Bascom, Mr. and Mrs. James B. Bergs, Mr. and Mrs. Pelham Turner and Guy Gamble. Other parties were given by Mr. and Mrs. William O. Shock, Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Thurston, Mr. and Mrs. C. Drummond Jones, Mr. and Mrs. Louis B. von Weise Jr., Thomas W. Pettus, Mr. and Mrs. George B. Compton, Mr. and Mrs. Fielding Childress, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph W. Coale, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Magnus, Richard Shipley and J. W. Newell.

One of the interesting parties of the late Lenten season will be a tea this afternoon to compliment three important spring brides—Miss Mary Lees Kennard, Miss Jean Ford and Miss Almira Steedman, to be given by Mr. and Mrs. Leo de Smet Carton, 5357 Waterman avenue. The guests will be limited to the three wedding parties. Miss Kennard, the daughter of John Burton Kennard, will be married April 22 to Rolla Wells Streett, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. Clark Streett. Miss Ford will become the bride April 15 of Edward C. Simmons II, and Miss Steedman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edwin H. Steedman, plans to be married in June to Richard Baldwin, son of Mr. and Mrs. L. Warrington Baldwin. The engagement was announced two weeks ago.

HOW TO DARKEN GRAY HAIR

Makes One Look Younger

Men and women who used to be called Grandpa and Grandma are now setting the styles by darkening their gray hair at home.

For instance, J. A. McCrea, a well-known Californian, recently made the following statement:

"Anyone can prepare a simple mixture in five minutes, that will darken gray hair, and make it soft and glossy. Merely take a half-pint of water, add 1 ounce of bay rum, a small box of Barbo Compound and ¼ ounce of glycerine.

"These ingredients can be bought at any drug store at trifling cost. Apply to the hair twice weekly with a comb. It does not color the scalp, is not sticky or greasy and will not rub off."

I have just said that new problems, such as I think fall within the scope of Wharton's activities, demand solution. Perhaps that statement is not literally true; possibly some of the problems which I have in mind were present, at least, in a potential sense 50 years ago, but in any event, they had not at that time come so clearly as today within the field of human consciousness.

Period of Changes.

We cannot recall too frequently that we are living in a period of changing conditions, such as has probably never before existed.

When I was a boy it seemed to me at least—and it seemed to be accepted generally by others—that most, if not all, of our fundamental institutions had been definitely determined and fixed for all time—how, I did not know, but at any rate fixed beyond discussion, almost beyond question.

I have in mind, among others, matters such as the following: The superiority of our form of government, the status of the Bible as our rule and guide of life, the place and authority of religion, the so-called capitalistic system, based upon the right of private ownership of property, the marriage contract, which is the basis of our family life, the calendar and the number of months in the year. I repeat—50 years ago these questions were generally considered as settled.

Now all these are under attack and all are slowly but none the less surely going through a process of questioning and of reassessment which may leave them better or worse, but will certainly mean modification wherever and whenever it is believed by the majority of those affected that change or modification will promote the best interests of humanity. What the result of it all will be no one is wise enough to foresee or foretell at the present time.

Best, Despite Defects.

I do not suggest that all of these problems of human relations fall within the scope of Wharton's field of activities, but I do believe that at least one of them does and that, too, in double measure, because it involves not only a question of economics in its broadest sense, but also a question of government, and the founder of Wharton referred to each of these questions as being within the scope of his vision.

The capitalistic system, which is the basis of our entire political and economic structure, supplies the particular problem which I have in mind. There are those who are unceasing in their efforts to discredit it, to undermine it, to cripple it, to destroy it. What are we who believe in it doing to uphold and protect it? I admit that those who seek to destroy or displace it may be as honest and well-meaning in their intentions and beliefs as I think I am; even so, I believe they are mistaken.

With all its defects, and doubtless there are many, the capitalistic system, in my opinion, affords a better and fairer basis upon which to build an economic structure than any other system so far devised and tested by man. Feeling as I do, I am deeply desirous that it should be perpetuated in order that my children and their children shall be given the opportunity of living under the same general conditions that I have lived under, but made better and fairer wherever possible to do so.

Deplorable Failure.

We are deeply jealous of the good name of those we love. We should be no less concerned in the welfare of the institutions under

Capitalist Lists Failures Of the Capitalistic System; Problem "Pressing and Serious"

Daniel Willard, Railroad President, Believes American Economic System Is Best, but It Has Faults Which Justify Protests About Unemployment and Distribution of Labor's Products.

The following article consists of excerpts from an address by Mr. Daniel Willard, president of the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad, delivered at ceremonies marking the fiftieth anniversary of the Wharton School of Finance and Commerce, affiliated with the University of Pennsylvania, at Philadelphia.

Besides his railroad activities, Mr. Willard is a director on the boards of a number of large corporations and institutions. During the war he was chairman of the Council on National Defense and later chairman of the War Industries Board.

By DANIEL WILLARD.

THE object of the Wharton School, if I have not misunderstood its purpose, is to train and equip young men for their careers, not only as members of the business world, but also as citizens of the United States.

What are the opportunities today in terms of problems to be solved, which confront the Wharton School of Finance and Commerce, faculty and students alike, at the beginning of the second half century of its existence? Are they the same as 50 years ago, or have they also changed during the most changeful period in the entire history of mankind? They have not only changed, but others entirely new and wholly unforeseen 50 years ago now await and urgently demand solution.

I have just said that new problems, such as I think fall within the scope of Wharton's activities, demand solution. Perhaps that statement is not literally true; possibly some of the problems which I have in mind were present, at least, in a potential sense 50 years ago, but in any event, they had not at that time come so clearly as today within the field of human consciousness.

There are those who are unceasing in their efforts to discredit it, to undermine it, to cripple it, to destroy it. What are we who believe in it doing to uphold and protect it? I admit that those who seek to destroy or displace it may be as honest and well-meaning in their intentions and beliefs as I think I am; even so, I believe they are mistaken.

With all its defects, and doubtless there are many, the capitalistic system, in my opinion, affords a better and fairer basis upon which to build an economic structure than any other system so far devised and tested by man. Feeling as I do, I am deeply desirous that it should be perpetuated in order that my children and their children shall be given the opportunity of living under the same general conditions that I have lived under, but made better and fairer wherever possible to do so.

Deplorable Failure.

We are deeply jealous of the good name of those we love. We should be no less concerned in the welfare of the institutions under which we live. We should be the first to recognize their defects and should seek untiringly to correct them. While, doubtless, there are many defects in the capitalistic system, which is the basis of our political and economic institutions, I shall refer to only two at this time.

A system—call it what you will—under which it is possible for five or six millions of willing and able-bodied men to be out of work and unable to secure work for months at a time, and with no other source of income, cannot be said to be perfect or even satisfactory; on the contrary, it can be said to have failed in at least one very important detail.

I can think of nothing more deplorable than the condition of a man, able and anxious to work, but unable to secure work, with no resources but his labor and, perhaps, with others even more helpless, dependent upon him. Unless he is willing to starve and see those who justly look to him for support also starve, his only alternative is to seek charity and, failing in that, to steal. While I do not like to say so, I would be less than candid if I did not say that in such circumstances I would steal before I would starve.

Unemployment Not New.

The unemployment problem is not new, nor is it confined to this country, or even to times of general depression, but we have all come to see more clearly than ever before that the mere existence of the problem presents a serious challenge to our entire economic system. While practically everyone agrees that the problem is a serious and difficult one, no one apparently knows just how it ought to be solved; at any rate, no one has yet announced a formula for its solution in such clear and definite terms as to carry conviction—hence your opportunity.

First of all we must have the facts, and all of them. We must have a clear statement of what the problem really is, and what it will probably lead to if not corrected. This much having been done, and it has not yet been done, the rest should not be difficult. It is not now the duty of anyone in particular to find the solution of this problem, but it is the concern of all of us that the right solution should be found.

The second and the only other problem that I shall venture to discuss at this time is bound up closely with the first, and it may be indicated by the following statement: The United States is, perhaps, the richest country in the world in natural and humanistic resources. We have more coal, more oil, more copper, more iron and more standing timber than we will require, if prudently used, for many generations yet to come. We can produce more wheat, corn, oats, cotton and animal products than we can possibly consume, and we are holding millions of bushels of surplus wheat in elevators at government expense waiting for a market.

Faulty Distribution.

We have a productive capacity in our mills and factories far beyond our own domestic requirements, and at the same time, and with all this surplus of wealth and resources, we have millions, so it is said, in dire need of food and clothing—in short, more of everything to eat and wear than we can possibly use, and at the same time millions of human beings hungry and cold. That is another problem, although closely related to the first, and the two problems together—unemployment and the

THESE UNITED STATES—"A Nation Without Leaders or Political Parties; An Office-Seeking Class in Control"

Nicholas Murray Butler Points Out How First Principles of National Life Have Been Abandoned and Unrepresentative Government Substituted—Even Primary Elections a Failure.

This survey of political conditions in the United States is part of an address delivered this week by Nicholas Murray Butler, President of Columbia University, New York, on Charter day at the University of California.

By NICHOLAS MURRAY BUTLER.

THE vast population of this earth, and indeed nations themselves, may readily be divided into three groups. There are the few who make things happen, the many more who watch things happen, and the overwhelming majority who have no notion of what happens. Every human being is born into this third and largest group; it is for himself, his environment and his education to determine whether he shall rise to the second group or even to the first.

It gravely concerns us to know what is going on in the world and what may be the relation to it all of these United States. The notion that our country stands away from and outside the rest of the world and has no direct or immediate interest in it, is so silly and so contrary to every obvious fact that it is not easy even to speak of it with patience. Save the ancient Roman Empire and Great Britain, no people in history has ever been so closely intertwined with the whole civilized world as are the American people today.

The language which we speak has long since become the chief instrumentality of trade and commerce everywhere and is now at least the second language in almost every corner of the world. American commerce and American travelers are found in every port and at every capital. Finance has passed from a national basis to one which is international, and shortly it will become evident to all that the Bank for International Settlements at Basle is a guiding and constructive force in shaping the monetary affairs of the whole world.

An Indifferent Citizenship.

During this past quarter century all has not gone well with the people of these United States. Quite apart from our share in the changes and chances which are world-wide in their incidence, quite apart from our economic and military participation in the greatest convulsion of all time, we have come face to face with a new consciousness of the difficulties which are peculiarly our own. Complacency and self-satisfaction, coupled with too little knowledge, take high rank among our national traits.

The elementary fact to be pressed upon the American people is that they are the inheritors of a great tradition and of a noble ideal and that as such they are trustees for posterity in the guardianship of that tradition and that ideal. The history of civilization makes it entirely clear that traditions and ideals do not live by faith alone or by fervid rhetorical tributes. They live and can live only if faith be followed and accompanied by works.

The tradition and the ideal which began to form among English-speaking people a thousand years ago and which, with constant enrichment from other peoples and other lands, have continued to grow steadily stronger century by century, are now the possession and the boasted pride of the American people; but these will not long retain their vigor and their power of appeal unless they are protected, developed and strengthened by those acts and policies which constitute the essence of a nation's life and of a nation's government.

It would be no very great exaggeration to say that there is probably more political indifference in the United States than in any other of the larger nations. No doubt we give the appearance to others and to ourselves of being interested in political principles, in their application to the solution of current problems, and in the major concerns of our people; but is this more than an appearance? Certainly, participation in the political life of the nation has not by any means kept pace with the extension of the suffrage. Mr. Winston Churchill has recently pointed out that the same is true in Great Britain.

Minorities the Rulers.

As a matter of fact, we hardly ever make any use of that principle of majority rule which is comfortably supposed to be one of the foundation stones of our political structure. Our holders of political office, even of very high office, in state and in nation, are really selected not by any majority of those eligible to join in making the choice, but by the best organized and most active plurality of voting minorities. It would surprise most persons, even those considered well informed, to learn by what a small fraction of the voting population Senators of the United States hold their places at Washington. Similar statements might be made as to those chosen to be Governors or representatives in the Congress, or to membership in the legislatures of the several states. Political indifference far outruns political participation, and those who judge the results of an electoral contest by the plurality of the successful candidate overlook entirely the chief fact of importance, which is the relation of that plurality to the number of possible voters who did not take the pains to express themselves at all.

With this has gone the pretty complete collapse of the party system, with results which, whether measured by efficiency in administration or by progress in dealing with new and difficult problems in a large and liberal spirit, can only be described as deplorable.

Parties Meaningless.

At the beginning of our history, when our Federal form of government was first set in operation, the party system was represented, mutatis mutandis, by Hamilton and his followers, the Federalists, and by Jefferson and his followers, the Democrat - Republicans. Either would have been considered liberal or progressive from the European point of view as it was at that moment, but as contrasted with each other Hamilton was the conservative and Jefferson the liberal. These differences adapted themselves quickly to the necessities of our national political development, and with change of name and diverse types of leadership the alignment which they brought into being existed for a full century.

Today there are no real political parties in the United States and there have been none for years past. What we have in their stead are political voting names, trademarks, which have much political and sentimental value and appeal in different sections and states, but for which there is nothing approaching a uniform content or implication.

The Democrat party, as it had existed from Jefferson's time, was destroyed by the twenty years of dominance on the part of William Jennings Bryan. While the name of Jefferson is still revered by those who claim his party name, most of them flout and embarrass his fundamental principles at every turn.

In like fashion, the Republican party, logical and historical successor of the Federalist and the Whig, was broken into warring fragments by the events of 1910-12. Elihu Root of New York, doubtless our most distinguished living American publicist, is a Republican; so are Senator Borah of Idaho and Senator Johnson of California. No one in his senses can imagine these three men voting with like voice on any roll call which registered expression of an opinion on the most important questions of the present moment.

No Unity Among Partisans.

Similarly, former Gov. Alfred E. Smith of New York is a Democrat, as is former Senator J. Thomas Heflin of Alabama. Yet no political container that could possibly be built would be large enough or elastic enough to hold them both. Like instances might be indefinitely multiplied. Our once fairly effective system of party organization, party responsibility, party progress and party ideals has been blown sky-high. We keep on using the names and following the forms of party organization and party difference, but we are only playing with labels without anything upon which to put them.

If it be said that there is a Republican or a Democrat majority in any given legislative body, one must next inquire who constitute that majority and will its members agree among themselves to vote together on questions of fundamental principle. A truthful answer must be uniformly in the negative. They will not.

So long ago as 1908, the caucus disappeared from the Republican side of the United States Senate, and from that time to this each Republican Senator has felt at liberty to vote as he chose without regard to how other Republicans vote or to what the declared party policy may be, supposing that there were any declaration. The result is that party government and party responsibility have disappeared. While our form of Government has remained the same in theory, it has been wholly revolutionized in practice.

The election of a President and a legislative majority of the same party name used to mean unity of purpose and of principle, coherence in policy and definite agreement in action. It now means none of these things. The interests of the people are left to the fitful play of individual ambition, individual temper, individual prejudice and individual humor; and apparently nothing can be done about it.

That was a wise saying of Goethe's:

Divide and rule, the politician cries;
Unite and lead, is watchword of the wise.

Leadership Almost Impossible.

It has become not so very difficult to rule, at least for a time, but it has become well-night impossible to lead, even for a short time. A steady reading of the Congressional Record is one of the saddest of occupations. What wonder is it that the Fascist in Italy and the Communist in Russia point at us the finger of scorn for our political lassitude and political incompetence? It remains true, as Adams wrote to Jefferson 120 years ago in that famous correspondence of theirs:

> The real terrors of both parties have always been, and now are, the fear that they shall lose the elections, and consequently

"Fundamental American Doctrine To Which the Nation Must Return"

THE essential elements of Jefferson's teaching, stated in terms of the life of these United States today and in the face of twentieth-century conditions, twentieth-century forces and twentieth-century problems, are summarized by Dr. Butler in these words, with an admonition that the country must hark back to them:

That government, having been set up in a definitely marked field under specific limitations, shall be required to mind its own business, to do that business much more efficiently than is now the case, and to leave off its constant attempt to invade that broad field of civil and political liberty which the people of the United States wisely and justly reserved to themselves;

That reliance be placed upon a well-taught, broadminded and generous individualism, which shall, through willing and helpful co-operation, construct a society on the foundation of liberty, far more effective and far more just than any which can be built by compulsion upon a foundation of supposed equality to be gained only at the cost of liberty;

That an end be put to the constant and shocking outbursts of intolerance, fanaticism and cruel persecution, whether for differences of religious opinion or of political policy, and that these be made to disappear before an open-minded and generous tolerance for all differences of faith, of opinion and of practice that lie within the bounds set by the enlightened judgment of mankind, which tolerance has been built into a fundamental institution protected by the declaration of our Bill of Rights;

That a stop be quickly put to the power of some social groups or classes to depress or exploit others or to alienate from public ownership and control those natural resources of the nation upon which in the future its economic life and prosperity must largely depend;

That tariffs be framed in the public interest alone, as Hamilton taught and as Garfield, Blaine and McKinley urged, in order that international trade be increased and multiplied, while private interests are required to surrender those advantages which they have been able to gain for themselves at the public cost;

That quick and eager co-operation be offered to the other peoples of the earth and the Governments to the end that the agriculture, the industry and the commerce of each and all be stimulated and developed;

That there be speedily established in the several states a system of social insurance, economically sound, which will safeguard men and women against the major risks of modern industry, including unemployment, and against the deprivations attendant upon illness or dependent old age;

That the stupendous expenditure for vast armaments in preparation for wars which the nations have pledged themselves to renounce shall be brought to an end; and

That those judicial and consultative institutions which make for the firmer establishment and fuller protection of the peace of the world shall be earnestly and eagerly supported and strengthened.

WHAT AMERICA MEANS TO ME

Albert Einstein, German Scientist, Tells Impressions Gleaned From Two Months' Visit.

Men Not Money Mad; Good Word for Machines; The Peril of Leadership

By ALBERT EINSTEIN.

I MUST fulfill my promise to say something of my impressions of this country. This is not entirely easy for me. For it is not easy to assume the viewpoint of an objective observer in a country in which one is received with so much love and exaggerated respect as I was in this country. At first a few words concerning this:

Individual-worship is, as I look at it, always something unjustified. To be sure, nature does distribute her gifts in rich variety among her children. But of those richly gifted ones there are, thank God, many, and I am firmly convinced that most of them lead a quiet and unobtrusive existence.

It does not seem right to me, indeed not even in good taste, when a few of these are admired beyond all bounds, just because one attributes to them superhuman abilities of spirit and character. This very thing became my fate, and there actually exists a grotesque contrast between what of capability and accomplishment people accredit to me, and what I really am.

The consciousness of this singular fact would be unbearable if there were not one beautiful consolation therein; it is a gratifying sign for your age, so often chided for being materialistic, that it makes heroes of men whose goals rest upon purely spiritual and moral bases. This proves that knowledge and righteousness are rated by a large part of humanity higher than possessions and power.

In an especially high degree, according to my experience, does this idealistic attitude prevail in America, so often described as a particularly materialistic nation. After this digression I come to my theme with the hope that my modest remarks will not take on more significance than they deserve.

Better Living Conditions.

To begin with, what first astonishes the visitor most is the pre-eminence of this country in a technical and organizing capacity. The objects of daily use are more serviceable than those of Europe, the houses are incomparably better and more practically furnished.

Everything in America is arranged to save people's energy. Labor is well paid because the country, in proportion to its natural resources, it but thinly populated. The high cost of labor gave the impetus to the remarkable development of technical resources and working methods. One need only think of, as contrasts, the too-densely populated China or India, where the low cost of labor has hindered the promotion of technical appliances. Europe stands in the middle.

If the machine is highly enough perfected, it is, in the final analysis, cheaper than labor at its lowest price. This might be borne in mind by the European Fascisti who, out of narrowminded political considerations, have championed an increase of population in their respective countries.

Of course, the anxiety with which the United States shut itself off from imports through prohibitive tariffs does not favor this impression. . . . But an innocuous visitor should not be expected to break his head over these things. And after all, it is not entirely certain that every question admits of a reasonable answer.

Natives Radiate Happiness.

The second thing that attracts the attention of the visitor to America is a happy positive attitude towards life. The smiling faces in the photographs are a symbol of one of the strongest traits of the American. He is friendly, unselfconscious, optimistic and unenvious.

The European, on the other hand, is more critical, more self-conscious, less good-hearted, less ready to render assistance, more isolated, more fastidious in his diversions and in his reading. In comparison with the American, the European is inclined to pessimism.

The amenities and comforts of life play a large role in calmness, light-heartedness, security—these are sacrificed to living. The American lives more for the goal, for the future, than the European. Life is always a Becoming, never a Being. In this regard he is still more dissimilar from the Russian and the Asiatic than from the European.

There is, however, one point in which the American is more like the Asiatic than is the European. He is less of an individualist than the European when one considers him from the psychological and not from the economic angle. The "we" is more strongly emphasized than the "I." To this is allied the fact that custom and convention are very powerful, and that the philosophy of life and the individual moral attitude is much more standardized than in Europe. To this circumstance America owes her largely economic superiority over Europe. Co-operation and effective division of labor are accomplished with more ease and less friction than in Europe, be it in the factory, university, or in private charity. In a certain sense this social attitude may be ascribed to English tradition.

Wealth's Responsibilities.

In apparent contradiction to this is the relatively small field of activity of the nation as compared to that of Europe. The European marvels that telephone, telegraph and railroads are everywhere in America private enterprises. This is made possible by the more social attitude of the individual. This also accounts for the fact that the extremely uneven distribution of property does not entail intolerable bitterness.

The owner's feeling of social responsibility is much more developed than in Europe. He regards it as self-evident that he has to place a good part of his property, and even of his labor, at the disposal of the community. Public opinion, all-powerful in America, demands this of him. Thus it is that the most important cultural functions can be left to private enterprises, that the role of the Government in this country is a comparatively limited one.

The prestige of the national Government has undoubtedly fallen as a result of the "prohibition law." There is nothing more dangerous to the prestige of the nation and of the law than the making of the observance of which cannot be enforced. It is a public secret hat the menacing development of criminality in America is a direct consequence of this situation.

In yet another respect, according to my opinion, does the "prohibition law" foster a weakening of the nation. The saloon is a place which gives people a chance to exchange their thoughts and opinions on public matters. Such an opportunity is now lacking, it it seems to me, in this country.

The exaggerated value of money is even more noticeable in America than in Europe, but it seems to me to be waning. I am certain that Americans are beginning to realize that material possessions are not essential to a happy and blessed life.

Research Leadership.

From an artistic standpoint, I have genuinely admired the elevated good taste which expresses itself in the modern buildings and the ordinary objects of daily use. On the other hand, I find that painting and music are less vital in the American soul than in the European.

I have the highest admiration for the efforts of the scientific research foundations. We, in Europe, are unjust in seeking to attribute the growing pre-eminence of American research exclusively to their greater wealth. Devotion, patience, companionable spirit and inclination to co-operate are important factors in the success of these institutions.

And, finally, one more word: the United States is today the most powerful, the most technically developed nation on earth. Her influence on the formation of international relations is an altogether incalculable one. Yet America is large and its inhabitants have not, up until this time, taken much interest in great international problems. The problem of disarmament is of primary importance. This American attitude toward interna-

"I Fear Modern Men."

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

FREDERICK MITCHELL-HEDGES, our English visitor, explorer and lecturer, who says that he fears modern women in general and American women in particular, has inspired me to write an article entitled, "I Fear Modern Men."

What is the world coming to with men who desire to live softly, easily and prefer wives who bring dollars into the home instead of children? Wives who enable them to have added luxuries, fine cars, more time for golf and bootleg whisky? Heave to, girls! Men are getting out of line. We are spoiling them. They will dominate us completely, and we will degenerate into a spineless race like the primitive Zulus under patriarch rule. Let us put men out of the clubs back into the homes, and force them to spend their earnings for more and more cradles, bigger and better cradles!

All nonsense aside, why all this absurd and childish mudslinging between the sexes? Is it possible to lay all the evils of modern life at the door of either sex? Why make Eve any more than Adam the scapegoat who has brought unemployment, birth control and divorce? Human nature is the same in man as well as women. There are selfish men as well as selfish women; weeds that have sprung from the soil of war and financial unrest. But we have more important work than fanning the hideous flame of desire for domination of either sex over the other. There are men and women with fine dreams being frustrated; men who are begging for employment to provide their own firesides, and restless homesick women hiding their hungry hearts under a coating of modern flippancy. Let's work side by side with mutual loyalty till we straighten out the muddle and find the homeward trail.

It seems that the lecturer was shocked beyond words to hear an American financier upon receiving a dinner invitation for himself and his wife say, "I will speak to my wife about it." According to our English visitor, the husband should have strutted home, yanked his wife by the hair and bellowed, "We are dining out tonight. Eat, drink and be merry, for your lord commands it." No doubt if the explorer had heard the wife receive the same invitation, she would have said, "I must first ask my husband." Neither one is being servile, but merely acting in the kindly manner of civilized beings. Mr. Mitchell-Hedges is well versed on the customs of the aborigines, so we cordially invite him to extend his visit until he is less shocked by the gentleness of our civilization.

An Unwise Investment.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

WHEN a small town bank is on the downward trend and the depositors have little chance for the return of their funds, is it a wise procedure for folk of the town to step in and buy bank stock in an effort to ward off the closing of a bank so situated? It is not.

My husband listened to the directors of his bank and increased his holdings of bank stock, and by so doing has lost his life savings through the closing of this bank. Now at the age of 57, my husband must ask the world for a living. Are we rich in friends? Certainly not. Our friends departed with our dollars.

A. LESSON.

A Bedtime Story.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

ONCE upon a time three men went fishing together. They caught many fish.

When the fish were divided, the first man, who steered the boat, received so much that he had more than he could possibly use, and he allowed some to spoil and threw some back into the water.

The second man did the fishing. He received as much as he needed.

The third man did the rowing. His share was so little that he starved to death.

This is the end of the story.

It is an old story, widely known, of which this is the 1931 recession. One of its names is "Civilization."

It is a bedtime story. Tell it to your child. He may ask some hard questions, but he may make some wise sayings under the head of "Distribution, a part of Political Economy." Try it!

Too Many Lawyers in Legislature.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

I WANT to thank you for what you have to say about "Shyster Lawyers." It certainly was timely and right on the bean, where it belongs. I understand that eminent lawyers say that no law which is passed by the Legislature is finished until it has been tested by the highest courts. If such is the case, why send so many lawyers to the Legislature? A few more mechanics, farmers and business men would be better, especially the latter. The government of the State is a business man's job.

LITTLE REFORMER.

The Failure of Public Utility Regulation and the Remedies

Involved in this question is the agitation against the conduct of the power industry. The power problem is not to be solved by the Federal Government going into the power business, nor is it to be solved by the project in this bill.

The remedy for abuses in the conduct of that industry lies in regulation and not by the Federal Government entering upon the business itself. I have recommended to the Congress on various occasions that action should be taken to establish Federal regulation of interstate power in co-operation with state authorities.

—From President Hoover's message vetoing the Muscle Shoals bill.

I.

It is clear from the above quotation that President Hoover has full confidence in the ability of government, Federal and state, to regulate public utilities. That feeling is widespread. It is heard on every hand. We do not question the sincerity of those who entertain it. Indeed, it is so plausible that the utilities industriously circulate the idea in their propaganda.

Government regulation has long been regarded as a panacea for everything that is wrong in the country. When, many years ago, monopolies came to be recognized as inevitable, especially in the public utility field, regulation was hailed as a protection against their obvious evil possibilities and franchises were freely granted to public service corporations. The statutes consequently are larded with regulatory acts. Some work, but most of them do not, as those having experience with them know. Time has proved that regulation of utilities does not work. But unfortunately for a sane and equitable solution of the growing public utility problem, misinformation as to the essential facts of regulation is more general probably than ignorance of almost any other public question. In our opinion, this lack of information is responsible for popular faith in the power of Government to do justice between the public utilities and the public.

When President Hoover speaks of regulation he must have in mind fair regulation, fairness to the public as well as to the public service companies. But the fact is that fair regulation of rates and service never would be possible without drastic amendments to the Federal Constitution, which, we are satisfied, none of the proponents of regulation, including the President, would for a moment contemplate. That is true of all regulation whether of municipal, state or interstate service, for the controlling principle of government regulation is the same in all cases.

To begin with, the rates charged by privately owned public utility companies—gas, electric, water and transportation—are made by state public utility commissions. All who read the newspapers are acquainted with the tedious, long-drawn-out proceedings which must occur before a rate schedule is made by the commission. Large expenses are incurred by the company through these proceedings which, in the end, must be paid by the consumers. Next, a repetition of the proceedings in the courts, first state and then Federal, for no important case is ever finally settled until it has been passed upon by the United States Supreme Court. It is no uncommon thing for a utility rate case to be in litigation four or five years. And even if the ultimate decision be in favor of lower rates, the higher schedule has been in effect all that time, and there is no way for the public to recover the overcharge.

Samuel Untermyer, a national authority on the public utility question, in whose hands New York City finally placed its chaotic transportation problem for solution, has said:

> *Experience has, I think, demonstrated that public utility regulation is in most states unsatisfactory to the point of failure. Where the corporation is protected by a long-term franchise all attempts at effective regulation are met with dilatory tactics and an avalanche of technicalities which the public authorities have neither the money nor the facilities adequately to meet. The difficulty in maintaining the character of service required through commission orders and judicial proceedings makes for steady evasion and deterioration of service. * * * You cannot successfully conduct a business enterprise through a succession of judicial orders and decrees.*

We take it any business man of large experience will agree with Mr. Untermyer that business cannot be successfully conducted through a succession of delayed and uncertain judicial decrees and orders. The deadly handicap of "judicial orders and decrees" is quite as destructive of the vital public business of transportation, electric, gas and water service as it would be of private business.

So much for regulation in the practical aspect. It is wholly impracticable.

II.

But even if the mechanics of regulation were simple and expeditious the results would not be fair to the public as long as our cherished Bill of Rights remains in the Constitution. The public is cognizant of the perplexing problem of "valuation" as applied to public utilities. Briefly, the regulatory commissions, before making rates, must estimate the value of the utility company's property. They must make their estimates in conformity with the decisions of the United States Supreme Court. The result is that the rates prescribed do not confine the company's earnings to a fair return on its actual investment, but are calculated to yield a fair return on what it would cost to reproduce the company's property new, with liberal additions for intangible and highly flexible items, such as going value, depreciation, working capital, overhead costs during construction, etc.

We have an illuminating and startling example of the operation of this valuation theory in St. Louis in a current rate case. The Union Electric Co. contends that the State commission should add $1,000,000 to the estimated cost of reproducing its Ashley street plant because of the incidence of the plant being situated upon the bank of the Mississippi River; that the public should pay the company an annual return of 8 per cent or more on a non-existent $1,000,000 because, first, some day the company may use the river for transportation purposes, and, second, it gets its water for steam purposes free; the water is free to the company, but the consumer should pay for it.

We have no quarrel with the state commissions for allowing fantastic valuations. They are doing their duty under the law of the land as laid down by the United States Supreme Court. The Supreme Court established and for 30 years has sustained the reproduction new theory of valuation by majority rule. The Supreme Court, too, is doing its duty as it sees it under the law of the land—in its case the United States Constitution. The Constitution contains two articles guaranteeing property rights: the fifth amendment, which is a part of the Bill of Rights and a check upon the Federal Government, and the fourteenth amendment, which is a check upon the states. The clauses in these amendments pertaining to property rights prohibit the confiscation or taking of private property for public use without "due process and just compensation." The Supreme Court has held, first, that where a private person or corporation receives the right "by legislative sanction" of any political subdivision of the United States to serve the public through the use of its private property, as public utility companies do, the political subdivision granting that right must permit the company to charge rates for its service which will yield a fair return on the "fair value of the property," the reproduction cost, that is, and, second, that not to permit the company to charge such rates would be confiscatory of the company's property in violation of the constitutional guarantees quite as much as if its property had actually been physically seized.

The effect of these decisions, "the law of the land," so frequently referred to in public utilities discussions, is to legalize utility rates far in excess of what is justified by actual investments, and to encourage in many cases practices which fall little short of extortion.

The St. Louis public is familiar with a case of the latter kind. The St. Louis Public Service Co., which paid $49,100,000 for its property, is allowed by the State commission a valuation of $63,500,000. The number of car riders has progressively declined for the last five years or more. But the fares have been progressively increased in the futile effort to earn more out of less business, and all within the law, all in accordance with the scheme of regulation in which President Hoover declares his faith.

As long as the fifth and fourteenth amendments remain in the Constitution, which undoubtedly should be as long as the Constitution itself endures, there can be no other sort of regulation, no hope of regulation that would be fair to the public; no fair regulation, that is, of utilities operating by right of "legislative sanction", a right which virtually all of them now enjoy.

Thus regulation not only is not feasible, but even if it were it would fail on its merits.

III.

The question naturally arises, then, what can be done to secure justice for the public at the hands of the public utilities? Public ownership is apt to come to mind immediately as the only solution. But there is another. Public ownership obviously is an important question of public policy to be decided by each community for itself. The other escape from the intolerable situation, as the Post-Dispatch often has pointed out, is to substitute cancelable permits for franchises.

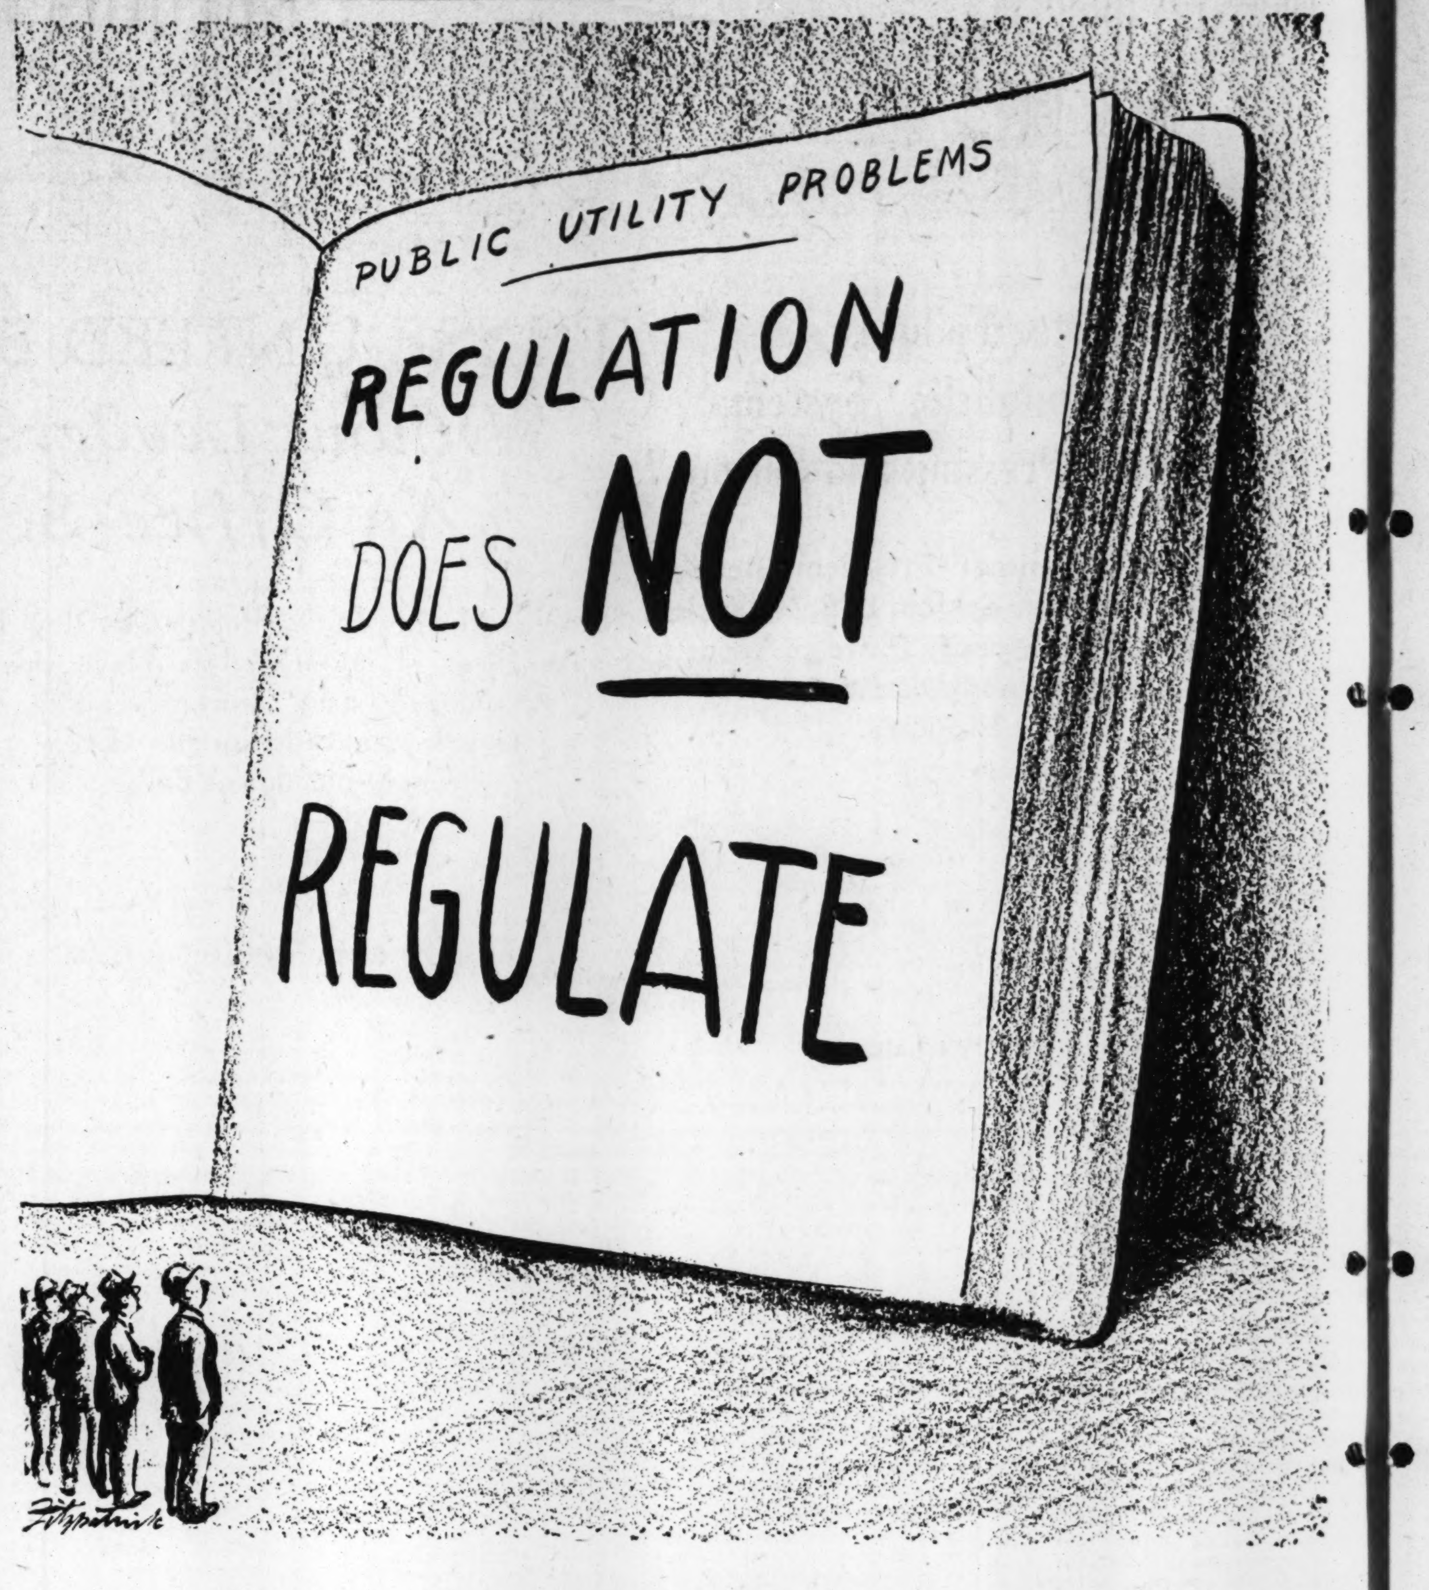
As we said earlier, no public utility rate case is finally decided until the Federal courts pass upon it. That is an important fact to keep in mind. The significance of it derives from the fact that in the last analysis there is no state regulation. Such regulation as we have is Federal regulation, regulation by the Federal courts in accordance with amendments five and fourteen. But a still more important thing to realize is that the utilities cannot appeal to the Federal courts except upon constitutional grounds, and specifically upon the ground that they are suffering confiscation, in contravention of one of those amendments. Moreover, they cannot invoke the Constitution unless they are serving the public by "legislative sanction." Now, legislative sanction is expressed by what is commonly known as a franchise, a grant made by a legislative body. Without a franchise, then, a public utility company cannot get into the Federal courts. This was proved in the historic Detroit street railways case. The case went to the United States Supreme Court on the company's familiar constitutional plea of confiscation. The court found that the company's franchise had expired and ruled that minus that legislative sanction the company had no constitutional ground of appeal.

In the case of permits, neither state commission nor court, state or Federal, can intervene between the grantor of the permit and the utility company that accepts it. Not granted by legislative bodies, they do not constitute "legislative sanction." The permit allows the company to operate as long as it does so in accordance with the conditions of regulation to be exercised by the grantor as stipulated in the permit itself, and reserves the right to revoke the permit whenever the company refuses to accept such regulation. Obviously, there would be no difficulty in arriving at fair and equitable arrangements between a bona fide transportation or other public utility company satisfied with the fine profit which is to be made out of a monopoly service, on the one hand, and public officials seeking only satisfactory service and reasonable rates upon the other.

This, then, is the case against franchises, whether granted by state or city. Franchises are what commit the necessary public service to the fallacy of Federal regulation. They set up long-term monopolies which regulation is powerless to control. They legalize exploitation of the public for private profit. They are the antithesis of sound public policy.

A STORY OF THE SEA.

The sea of the cold North star, with its rolling mist, frozen sails and shriek of salt wind in the rigging, makes heroes and heroes make literature. All the world has listened to the call of boatmen across the sands of Dee because Kingsley once heard them as the western tide came creeping in with its hungry foam. Stevenson's ballad of spouting breakers through a long Christmas and clearing the headland at the day's ending has brought the winter sea to many a landlubber's Christmas day. The high tide which swept the coast of Lincolnshire 360 years ago still beats against prairie schoolhouses a thousand miles from ocean lights and free flying spray. Thus, the poets have made armchair seamen of us all, and thus, each of us can appreciate the heroism in that news story from Halifax which told of the lighthouse keeper, his wife and five children who were imprisoned by raging seas for two weeks. Their food washed away, they made a day's rations last through eight. More than a week went by before a boat could supply them with a line. But they hung on, and in the end the news wire brought a story of the sea that deserves a poet's immortalization.



THE FIRST LESSON.

How Game Bird Raising Can Aid Farmers

Systematic raising of game birds increased British supply 900 per cent after neglect of war years; many men employed and large income to land owners results; U. S., which is dissipating natural assets, can repair losses and bring cash to farmers by similar method; commercialization urged as only way to make game abundant.

Joseph P. Knapp in Nation's Business.

WE Americans are incredibly, fantastically, wasteful of Nature's bounty. Others have said this to a careless and indifferent public. Talk gets nowhere. Somebody has to do something. So we started the foundation, "More Game Birds in America." Its one and only purpose can be found in its title. It will create a new crop for the American farmer; provide him with another source of income, sure, lucrative and demanding from him little increase in labor. This new crop is game birds — our fine old native American game birds, wild duck and geese, bob-white, quail, partridges and wild turkeys.

The only way to make game birds abundant, as is well said by the State Ornithologist of Massachusetts, Edward Howe Forbush, is to commercialize them. Make them mean something to most people, or to a lot of people, in the way of money. Then they get interested.

Early in the nineteenth century the United States had a greater variety and number of wild food birds than any other country. In the last 50 years this great natural resource, once considered inexhaustible, has decreased tremendously. In fact, the absolute extermination of game birds in America has been predicted. Yet we have passed more game laws than any country ever had and amended them more often.

But the more laws we have passed the less game we had. All this legislation was almost wholly restrictive, and no attention whatever was paid to propagation or to the great economic, commercial possibilities of wild game birds as a national crop, as a source of new income for the farmer.

The British in six years replaced their wild game birds, almost totally destroyed during the war. What has been done can be duplicated on a far wider scale in America. We have a more favorable terrain, one-tenth of the British population per square mile and fairly well distributed wealth—everything needed for success.

The game act of Great Britain, passed in 1831, has been the basic game law of that people for a century. Since the act was passed, partridges have increased more than 200 per cent and pheasants more than 1000 per cent. Game birds are killed in tremendous numbers every year during the long open seasons. They have a wonderful game reproduction and a thorough replacement system.

That system had a severe test during the World War. When the war started, most of the 12,000 British game keepers went into the service. Naturally vermin increased rapidly. Foxes, weasels, stoat—all manner of greedy little carnivora—multiplied and took a heavy toll of wild nesting birds. At the armistice it looked as if game in great Britain were done for.

Not a bit of it. Using their old, well tested methods, the British put the supply back to normal in those six years from 1919 to 1925, an increase of 900 per cent, and the game bird industry once more began to play an important part in the economic scheme of things—a part we here in America scarcely comprehend. It once more gave employment to thousands, pleasure to men of moderate means as well as to the rich, and sent to the market at poultry prices a fine food supply.

Game farms and game keepers wasted no time bemoaning the situation and changing the law. They bred and released game birds. They killed off the vermin.

They don't set bag limits, but landowners are too intelligent to permit encroachment upon basic breeding necessities. If you lease a moor in Scotland, you pay according to the number of birds you will be permitted to kill in the season. The game keepers know down to a bird just what can be done. When you have shot your quota you are through.

In Scotland alone $10,000,000 is paid to the land holders every year for shooting privileges. In addition, hunters who go to Scotland for grouse must spend 10 times that amount there annually. Think what such funds would mean to our farmers. Some people have estimated that it would produce $300,000,000 a year in shooting privileges alone. Personally, I think a shooting industry can be built up totaling $500,000,000 a year.

Recently Gov. Gardner of North Caroline, one of the founders, called a conference of game raisers, sportsmen, farmers, educators and legislators to take steps to make his State a model in game bird laws and in research, education and experiment. The More Game Birds Association of North Carolina was brought into existence. The first act of the association will be to establish a model breeding farm, as a laboratory for classes in breeding and raising now being set up at the State Agricultural College.

Probably not more than 100 men in the United States today are fully qualified to raise game birds. Great Britain has 12,000 game keepers. America, at the same ratio of population, should soon have three times that number, which, at salaries of $2000 a year or more, would mean a vast amount in wages for a vocation hitherto practically unknown in this country.

Don't let the old Tarheel State get too far ahead of yours, for they are out to make that State the "Scotland of America." And remember that propagation is the keynote—propagation and not restriction.

A HUNDRED YEARS AGO—

From Capper's Magazine.

THERE was not a public library in the United States. Almost all the furniture was imported from England. An old copper mine in Connecticut was used as a prison. There was one hat factory, and that made cocked hats. Every gentleman wore a queue, and powdered his hair. Crockery plates were objected to because they dulled the knives. Virginia contained a fifth of the whole population of the country. A gentleman bowing to a lady always scraped his foot on the ground. The whipping post and pillory were still standing in Boston and New York. Buttons were scarce and expensive, and trousers were fastened with pegs or laces. When a man had enough to eat he placed his spoon across his cup, to indicate that he wanted no more.

WASHINGTON DAY BY DAY

WASHINGTON, March 29.

ESTEEMED among his colleagues for his rare wit, his merry manner and his kindness is the "gentleman in the wheel chair"—Judge Joe Mansfield, member of Congress from Texas. Fourteen years in Congress have made him a familiar figure on the Hill, and a popular one.

Now 70 years old, with another term in the House just ahead, he will find much in the Seventy-second Congress if the Democrats organize it. For he would become chairman of that highly important committee of the House on rivers and harbors. During the years he has been in Congress he has made this subject his specialty.

Mansfield represents the famous Gulf Coast district centering around Corpus Christi. His advice is often sought when the question of rivers and harbors legislation is before Congress. In his whimsical manner he explained recently the origin of his interest in a subject of this kind. At least, he says it is the only explanation he can think of.

THERE had been an overflow of the river near his home. It was in winter, and huge quantities of ice were washed out on the public roads. He found it necessary to go to the mill, some six miles up the river, to have some shelled corn ground into meal for the family.

So he got out the family horse, put a two-bushel sack of corn aboard, climbed on and started out. He found the road almost impassable. Half-way to his destination, he ran into an ice barrier six or seven feet high. While he was attempting to ride around the obstruction on the side next to the river, his mount stepped on a block of ice. The horse's feet shot out from under him. Horse, corn and rider slipped over a six-foot embankment into the river. When they came to the surface all were widely separated. The horse swam out on one side, Mansfield on the other and the sack of corn floated swiftly downstream.

"Since that day," says the Judge, "anything for the improvement of waterways has been always met by me with a hearty response."

RARELY does Mansfield speak in the House. He would rather sit and listen, then express his opinions in private, where he believes they are more effective. He occupies a regular spot when on the floor—in his wheel chair to the right of the speaker's dais on the Democratic side.

A page wheels him to and from the Capitol and his office. Once in the Capitol, he propels himself around the corridors and in and out of the chamber. An illness years ago deprived him of the use of his lower limbs.

His favorite trick is to wheel himself up to a door, pull out a nickel, and say to his colleagues: "Who wants to make a nickel today? Open the door, then, so I can get through."

They all scramble for the door. He has played this little game for years.

"NATION WITHOUT LEADERS OR POLITICAL PARTIES"

the loaves and fishes; and that their antagonists will obtain them.

Here we come upon the crux of the whole matter. John Adams was a wise old man. The desire to win elections, not to establish principles but to gain the authority and emoluments of office, has bedeviled our whole political system. Through our various and complicated electoral devices we have made consultation and consideration in the choice of public officers increasingly difficult, indeed well-nigh impossible, and we have turned over the selection of our candidates to those well-organized pluralities of voting minorities which have already been mentioned.

As in so many other familiar cases, the theory of the direct primary laws and their practical working are in flat contradiction, the one with the other. The direct primary system has elevated aggressive self-seeking and has effectively eliminated the power of public opinion based on knowledge and consultation. Naturally, the loudest defenders of this system are its products. The result of all these forces taken together has been to produce among us an office-seeking and an office-holding class which has a psychology and an ethics all its own, and from which the highest and best elements of our citizenship are steadily being excluded—or, perhaps better, exclude themselves.

Success at Any Price.

No matter how grave the question at issue, the office-holding and office-seeking class is concerned only with what will be thought about that question on the Tuesday following the first Monday of the next November, and looks with perfect unconcern upon the principles at stake or the larger public interest involved.

So far from putting government in the hands of the people, this system removes government from the hands of the people about as effectively as any system could. It puts government in the hands of a self-seeking class which is highly privileged. If we are no longer to have genuine political parties based upon principle, surely it behooves us to find an effective substitute for them and not continue indefinitely to drift on a sea of political incompetence and irresponsibility. As matters stand, we have achieved well-nigh a miracle of unrepresentative government.

It would be a mistake for Americans to suppose that they alone observe these facts and speak of them. All these circumstances and tendencies are matters of common knowledge in Italy, in Russia and in China, and are used by the leaders of opinion in those countries as arguments why our system of republican government should not be invited to prevail in their lands.

The industrial and financial happenings of the past two years and the stupendous shock which those happenings have brought upon our economic system have plainly moved the mind of the American people toward introspection and reflection on basic things both political and economic. They are beginning to ask much more emphatically and much more earnestly than ever before: How can such things be, and what is our relation as individuals and communities to these deplorable events? What is the explanation of the fact that, with a nation-wide system of schools and colleges and with a newspaper press that is universally read, political indifference and political incompetence continue to exist in so high degree?

Troublesome Questions.

Why should it be possible that there is a surplus of food products in one part of the country while hundreds of thousands of men and women are on the verge of starvation in another part? Why should all kinds and sorts of products which men desire be produced in great quantity, but without any means of getting them into the hands of those who need them most? Questions like these are very searching and carry one to the very foundation of both our economic and our political systems. Perhaps if these tragic and desperate happenings shall induce the American people to think, to take a genuine interest in their political life and in their government on grounds of high principle, the vast destruction of values which we have witnessed and the widespread suffering and distress which have followed will not have been in vain.

The very first effect of all these happenings is to shake severely the foundations of that plan of political and social organization which we call democracy and which now prevails, in form at least, over a major part of the Western world, whether in Europe or the Americas. Men who are in want or in constant distress must not be expected indefinitely to view with satisfaction the institutions under which they live. Unhappiness and need are the natural and almost necessary forerunners of revolution, whether peaceful or violent.

Out of this morass there is but one sure way of escape, and that is by the aid of a really well instructed, a really alert, a really courageous, and a really liberal public opinion.

Revival Needed.

We sorely need a new revival, a revival of learning, a revival of fundamental convictions, a revival of courage and a revival of old-fashioned, broad-minded Americanism. Too long have we been accustomed to set Hamilton and Jefferson in opposition to each other without grasping the unity of doctrine which includes them both. As a matter of fact, Hamilton and Jefferson represented the two sides of one and the same shield, and both are necessary to a complete understanding and interpretation of American political philosophy and American political institutions. The Hamilton side has done its work. The Jefferson side, nominally and superficially so popular for nearly a hundred years, has still the greater part of its work to do.

From none of the Jeffersonian program would Hamilton today dissent; but the philosophic teacher and prophet of the principles upon which it rests was primarily Jefferson, who was described by Blaine, speaking in 1888, as the most comprehensive and far-seeing mind of all the Presidents of the United States. This is fundamental American doctrine, and unless we are to admit that this doctrine has played its part in the world once for all and may now be put aside for something else, say Fascism or Communism, the American people must quickly hark back to it, put new life into it, remain true to it, and require their Government to conform to it.

Drifting—Just Drifting.

There is constant complaint that leadership no longer exists among us. It is said that we permit ourselves to drift hither and yon and to be partly tempted, partly forced, into a policy of conformitarianism by reason of our unwillingness as individuals to appear different in opinion, in thought or in habit from our neighbors. If these things be true—and perhaps they are—then surely we have come to a bad estate. Not so long ago, to speak only of the recent past, we had genuine leaders in official life, for example, Root and Roosevelt and Wilson. Today it is certain that our most competent and commanding leadership is in the unofficial life of the nation, in the field of liberty as marked off from the field of government, and is to be found among our scholars and men of science, our professional classes and men of large affairs. The lamentable loss of leadership in official life is, I repeat, one of the direct and baleful effects of the electoral devices and systems which we have of late installed.

Leadership in our democracy, particularly official leadership, is not without its troubles. It requires not alone high character and large intelligence, but calm and unruffled courage. Perhaps nothing more conduces to successful leadership of opinion than that trait which marked the late Lord Balfour, to wit, complete indifference as to what was said or written about him so long as he was doing what he believed to be just and right.

$106,000 SUBSCRIBED TO EMERGENCY FUND

Citizens' Relief Committee Acknowledges Gifts of First Week of Campaign.

The emergency fund of Citizens' Committee on Relief and Employment passed the $100,000 mark last night when new contributions of $9665 were acknowledged, bringing the total obtained in the first week of the campaign to $106,002. The committee has said that $300,000 will be necessary to enable it to continue its work.

Largest of the donations received yesterday was one of $3000 from Union Electric Light & Power Co. International Shoe Co. and Laclede Gas Light Co. each contributed $2000.

The experience of the committee's employment bureau this month has given no indication that the need for relief will become less in the near future, A. W. Jones, director of the bureau, declared last night. So far this month, he reported, the bureau has found jobs for 444, most of them temporary employment in the building trades and house work. Nearly 18,000 have registered for employment, but jobs have been found for only 1500.

Miss Miriam Marten, manager, said the morale of the unemployed has been seriously undermined by their failure to obtain jobs with the approach of spring.

Contributions acknowledged yesterday included:

distribution of resources—bring into question the very foundations of that political and economic system which the founder of this institution believed in and desired to perpetuate.

If I have understood the situation rightly, then it seems to me that those two problems are clearly within the scope of your activities as conceived by your founder. I judge, from a somewhat cursory reading of your schedule of studies, that your activities in the past have fallen largely within the field of under-graduate work. The problems I have suggested may, and probably will, lead into the field of research, and what is sometimes called graduate work, but no less will they lead into the field of the technical expert and business executive.

If you should ask me to be more specific and to point out more definitely just what I think Wharton ought to do in line with this suggestion, I would reply that by means which you have, and along ways with which you are familiar, you should first obtain the facts and seek at the same time to develop a correct understanding and sympathetic attitude towards them.

But you must not stop there; it is at this point that your training at the Wharton School should be of the utmost importance, for you must correlate the facts you have established, and translate them into ideas which may, in turn, become the basis of action. The facts have been there all the time; ascertaining them is only the first step. An ascertained fact is of importance to the extent and only to the extent that it can be made useful. It is here that the trained mind, by setting facts to work, finds means of expression and makes those contributions upon which our civilization depends.

It may develop that the solution for the unemployment problem, in whole or in part, lies in more employment, or perhaps in a better distribution of employment. It may be that some form of unemployment insurance is necessary, and it is possible that there may be some other method of dealing with the situation as yet undiscovered, but which will be revealed by your studies.

While the problems referred to are serious and pressing, it is doubtful if their final solution will be found in the immediate future, and it is all the more desirable, therefore, that young men should be trained to understand their importance and their ultimate implication. It is not unlikely that the matter will be dealt with eventually by Congress. Who are the men and where are they being trained who as law-makers or as recognized experts will advise Congress concerning a matter of such supreme importance? The answer to both questions, so it seems to me, might be and should be in part at least—"Men trained in the Wharton School of Finance and Commerce."

Finance and commerce, as carried on in the United States, and in the greater part of the world as well, are based entirely upon the principles of the capitalistic system. Of what avail would be your studies here concerning the details of that system if the system itself should collapse? I do not fear its collapse, because I believe a way will be found to perfect and preserve it. What greater service could you of Wharton render than by finding the correct solution of one or both of the problems I have briefly discussed—employment and distribution of resources—the very foundation stones of our economic structure?

The opportunity as well as the need of this school, as I see it, was never greater than at the present time. May those who direct and control its policies today be in every way equal to the demands of the present, as in large measure they have been in the past, to the end that the school, and those who go out from it into the world of business, may be successful in carrying out the purpose of the founder, thereby promoting the happiness of mankind. I am confident that they will be.

ACTIVITIES OF BOY SCOUTS

SCOUT CAMPERALL TO BE JUNE 12-14

Picked Patrols to Be Entered From Troops in Five Districts.

The 1931 boy scout camparall, joint camp and intertroop contest, will be held at the old aviation field in Forest Park June 12, 13 and 14.

The camparall, a St. Louis Council development, is carried out by picked scouts forming one or two patrols from each troop entered. Contestants compete against time and arbitrary standards.

In addition, contestants are judged on the manner in which they conduct their camps, the meals they prepare, and on general discipline. At the end of the three days, scores are added and the winning patrol in each district is determined. Last year the members of each winning patrol were awarded a stay at Camp Irondale, official summer camp. No announcement has been made as to the award for this year.

Five districts will be entered in the camparall this year, the central district having been organized since last summer. Because of the new district, it is expected that the camparall this year will be even larger than that of last year, when 102 patrols of eight scouts each took part.

Troop Notes

North District.

Robert Gannon and George, James and Robert Callanan were awarded second-class pins at a troop court of honor conducted by Troop 171, Notre Dame Catholic Church, March 12. The court was the first the troop has held since its organization three years ago. Seven new recruits, Cartaret Alsop, James Gannon, Joseph Gillis, Henry Ladendecker, William Skinner, Joseph Smith and Francis Rivers, received tenderfoot badges at the circus.

Central District.

Scouts of Troop 206, Second United Presbyterian Church, participated in a civic good turn last week by distributing circulars announcing Easter sunrise services to be held at The Arena. Several tests were passed at the last meeting.

Troop 32 received a gold streamer at the circus for completing all requirements in the 1931 Achievement Roundup. Although organized in February, 1930, the troop already has two Eagle Scouts, one Life, and five Star Scouts. Scoutmaster Robert L. Spelbrink and his son, Robert, will receive their Eagle badges at the next Court of Honor, in April.

West District.

Scouts of the West District are holding their regular monthly meeting at Scoutmasters' Lodge this week-end. A program of round-table discussions and demonstrations has been scheduled.

Five new appointments have been made in the junior officer ranks of Troop 17, First United Presbyterian Church. John Russell has been advanced to Junior Assistant Scoutmaster; Bob Lueking has been promoted to Senior Patrol Leader; Robert Bowen has been appointed Scribe, and Bob Smith and Frank Dubbs have become patrol leaders of the Loon and Flaming Arrow patrols, respectively. The troop is engaging in an inter-troop contest with Troop 814 of Chicago. Five events, marching, signaling, fire-by-friction, knot tying, and first aid, have been scheduled, for successive Friday evenings. The troops will compare results by mail.

Four scouts of Troop 26, Delmar Baptist Church, received Tenderfoot pins, four others were promoted to second class, and eight were given merit badges, at a Troop Court of Honor.

Scout George Gillerman was chosen Officer of the Day for the meeting of Troop 30, Y. M. H. A., last week. The meeting was devoted to First Aid. A test-passing period was also held. The troop won a Gold Streamer at the Scout Circus for completing all requirements in the 1931 Achievement Roundup, and will also receive the Deputy Commissioner's award for selling 303 tickets. Bud Carp led ticket sales with 52, followed by Harry Platt, 45; Jerome Wenneker, 35; Fred Haffner, 28, and George Gillerman, 20. These scouts will be given prizes by Scoutmaster Goldsmith.

Eleven appointments of junior officers were made by Troop 2, of the Pilgrim Congregational Church, two weeks ago. Fred Ruoff and Lloyd Palmer became junior assistant scoutmasters; Alfred Krause, senior patrol leader; James Delano, scribe; Roy Eilers, quartermaster, and Charles Barnhart, Elliott Fagerberg, Donald Alexander, Arthur Birge and Elmore Cave, patrol leaders.

South District.

A week-end meeting of all scoutmasters, assistants, troop committeemen, and deputy commissioners of the South District will be held at Scoutmasters' Lodge on the Meramec River near Fenton April 11 and 12. A program of activities pertaining to spring and summer scouting will be taken up. Camping Director M. D. Shippey and Activities Director Charles H. Mills of the local council will have parts on the program.

Five new deputy commissioners have been appointed in the South District. M. J. Alpiser will have charge of Troops 85, 245 and 249; A. E. Bryant, Troops 123, 209 and 250; Paul E. Kelley, Troops 115, 126 and 244; W. J. Kern, Troops 52, 178 and 181; and Chaplain E. E. Trett of Jefferson Barracks, Troops 73, 174, 215 and 232.

Troop 247 of the Froebel School was awarded a gold streamer at the circus for completing all five parts of the 1931 achievement roundup. The troop will also receive a streamer from their deputy commissioner for selling their quota of tickets.

Troop 250, Shepard School, has registered for a new year with R. O. Clemons as scoutmaster, E. A. Miksecek as assistant, a troop committee of five and 18 scouts. Ray Meyer was promoted to second-class rank. Seven merit badges in firemanship and bookbinding were awarded at a troop court of honor held March 12.

Troop 214, Fremont School, has started working for the 1931 Camparall. Contests are being held to determine which scouts shall represent the troop.

SCOUT 'CUB' COURSE TO CLOSE

The training course in Cub Leadership, conducted by the St. Louis Boy Scout Council during the past two months, will hold its final meeting at the Church of the Redeemer next Thursday evening. The meeting, open to any man interested in the Cub program, will be a round-table discussion of problems encountered in conducting these troops for younger boys.

Two talks, one on "Hikes" by Scoutmaster Nathan Burgheim and the other on "An Adequate Yearly Outdoor Program" by Camping Director M. D. Shippey, will be given at the regular meeting of the Elements of Scout Leadership course at the Michael School tomorrow evening. Dr. R. F. Barnes will lecture on "Suffocation and Artificial Respiration" at the First Aid class, to be held at the Washington University Medical School tomorrow evening.

Einstein's Reactions on Visit to America

tional problems must change, if for no other reason than the American's own interest. The Great War demonstrated that the continents are no longer separated, but that the destinies of all nations today are closely interwoven. In this country the conviction must grow that its citizens bear a great responsibility in the fields of international politics. The role of a passive spectator is not worthy of this country. If continued, it would invariably be fatal to us all.

TWO TRIED BY JURY WITH ONE CONVICTION

Lewis E. Balson Acquitted for Want of Evidence in Buckingham Fire.

Two jury trials in the criminal divisions of Circuit Court last week resulted in a conviction and an acquitttal. David Reems, a Negro, was given three and one-half years in the penitentiary for a statutory offense, and Lewis E. Balson, University City realty dealer, charged with murder, was acquitted by instructed verdict ordered by Judge Taylor. The State failed to show any connection between Balson and a conspiracy to burn the Buckingham Hotel Annex. The hotel was destroyed by fire with a loss of seven lives on Dec. 5, 1927.

Balson, who owned the major portion of the destroyed hotel's stock, was the third of four defendants to be placed on trial. Ralph Pierson, part owner of the hotel, has been sentenced to death, as has been Andrew B. Meadows, nightwatchman, who, with Robert H. Cotham, hotel clerk, confessed a conspiracy with Pierson to burn the annex for a consideration. Cotham is still to be tried. It is expected he will enter a plea of guilty and receive consideration for assistance rendered the State. He was a witness against both Pierson and Meadows. Six murder cases and an arson indictment are still on the docket against Balson, but it is believed none will be tried, since the evidence in these cases is the same as the one presented last week.

Prison Sentences for Six.

Six defendants charged with robbery entered pleas of guilty during the week and were given penitentiary or reform school punishment. John Williams, a Negro, was given eight years in the penitentiary for a $20 holdup in a shoe store. He, with Louise Jackson, also a Negro, and Steve Maysack, robbed Morris Goldfarb, 2224 Franklin avenue, on Jan. 27, last. During the robbery Goldfarb was struck on the head with a hatchet. The Jackson woman and Maysack were given five-year penitentiary sentences. Williams' three additional years were the result of a previous conviction for robbery at Belleville. Edward Garrett, charged with attempted robbery, was given a two-year penitentiary term, while Kenneth Cross and Harvey Krout, who forced occupants of automobiles to part with their cars and money at the points of revolvers, were given five years each in the Boonville Reformatory.

Others who entered pleas of guilty to felony charges and were given penitentiary sentences were: Carson Patterson, burglary, three years; Harry Kemper, rape, two years; George Bashford, obtaining money by false pretense and forgery, two years; William Veasley, burglary, two years, and James Misuraco, rape, two years.

Six entered pleas of guilty of carrying concealed weapons and were either fined or imprisoned. William Siebenauer and Clarence Williams got four-month Workhouse sentences, while Lawrence Keenan and William French got 50 days each. Robert Hughes and John Anderson paid $100 and costs.

Plead Guilty of Major Crimes.

Those charged with major crimes who were permitted to plead guilty of crimes of lesser degree and take less than penitentiary punishment were: Lawrence Maurer, Levi Franklin and Grover Cross, petit larceny, six months in City Workhouse; George A. Spinks, tampering with automobile, 60 days; Robert Jeffers, assault to kill without malice, one year; Willie Reid, assault to kill, one year; Gene Austin, forgery, six months; Charles Douthit and William O'Hearn, taking automobile without owner's consent, four months; Glen Tester, felonious wounding, $100 and costs; George Golloway, larceny from person, one year in jail; John H. Chester, malicious destruction of property, one year in Workhouse; James Purdy, three months, and Delmar Rogers, malicious trespass, six months.

Cases against Curry W. Weathers, charged with felonious wounding; Elvira Leper, charged with manslaughter; Cledus Stone, charged with larceny of a motor vehicle, and Joseph Alpert, charged with embezzlement by agent, were dropped by the Circuit Attorney's office for insufficient evidence.

GUS NATIONS' SUIT AGAINST MRS. WILLEBRANDT DISMISSED

U. S. Court Ends $1,000,000 Libel Litigation for Want of Prosecution.

The $1,000,000 libel suit of Gus O. Nations, an attorney and formerly chief prohibition enforcement agent here, against Mrs. Mabel Walker Willebrandt, former Assistant United States Attorney-General, growing out of a series of newspaper articles on prohibition enforcement written by Mrs. Willebrandt, was dismissed for lack of prosecution by Federal Judge Davis Friday.

Six months ago Judge Davis sustained a motion to dismiss the action against news services publishing the articles on the ground of improper service, but permitted the suit to stand against Mrs. Willebrandt. Since then Nations has filed suit against Mrs. Willebrandt at New York and Washington, asking $200,000 damages for libel in each case.

Nineteen other civil suits were dismissed on the same ground by Judge Davis in clearing his docket.

DIAMOND RING IS RECOVERED

Negro Hired Girl, 12, Admits Giving Away Other Valuable.

Tracing two diamond rings stolen from the home of Mrs. Clothilde Konze, 1231 Hamilton avenue, police went Friday to John Marshall Public School, 4340 Aldine place, to question a 12-year-old Negro girl employed after school hours by Mrs. Konze.

Tied to the girl's finger, to keep it from slipping off, was a $275 diamond ring identified as belonging to Mrs. Konze. Asked about the second ring, valued at $250, the girl said she had given it to another 12-year-old girl. The latter did not have the ring, but displayed an inexpensive wrist watch, which she explained she had obtained in a "trade" for the diamond. Both girls were taken to House of Detention.

CREAMERY DEPOT WILL BE ERECTED AT 20TH AND CARR

Southeast Corner Bought as Site for Beatrice Sub-Station — 25-Year Lease on Building.

GRAND AND LINDELL LEASE IS RENEWED

Arthur R. Lindburg to Display Electric Refrigerators as Well as Automobile Line.

By Berry Moore.

Negotiations concluded during the week involved notably the southeast corner of Twentieth and Carr streets and the southeast corner of Grand and Lindell boulevards.

The Carr street corner was purchased by a client of the Hemmelmann-Spackler Real Estate Co. for a building to be erected for the Beatrice Creamery Co. The building will be occupied by the creamery as a substation under a 25-year lease. Negotiations for both the purchase and the lease were handled by Hemmelmann-Spackler in a record operation.

Plans call for a fireproof structure, one and two stories in height, with electric elevators. The James Black Masonry & Construction Co. has received the building contract, with James M. Gray as the architect.

The site has 102 feet on Carr with a depth of 142 feet on Twentieth to an alley. It is one of the most advantageously situated in this part of the city. The purchase price was not announced. It is understood the rental under the lease will place the property in a high investment basis.

Renewal of Lease.

Arthur R. Lindburg obtained a renewal for two years of his lease of the building at the southeast corner of Grand and Lindell, held by Barney F. and Otto J. Dickmann, of the Joseph F. Dickmann Real Estate Co., under a 99-year lease. The building, two stories in height, has a frontage of 144 feet on Grand and 103 feet on Lindell.

In addition to handling Studebaker outomobiles, Lindburg will act as agent for Westinghouse electric refrigerators, for which display space in the building will be allotted.

A longer lease was sought by Lindburg, for which a much higher rental, it is understood, would have been paid. It was considered inadvisable, however, to tie up the premises, in view of the possibilities of the site, which is regarded as primarily one for a skyscraper, especially a hotel. The site is is one of the largest available in this part of the city. Many offers have been received recently for the 99-year leasehold, several disclosing plans for ambitious building projects.

Values on this part of Lindell boulevard are expected to be enhanced materially as a result of the widening of the thoroughfare between Grand and Channing avenue, as is now contemplated. The damage and benefit cases have the commissioners is promised within the next two weeks.

Interest in Investments.

a revival of interest in investment properties is reported, as exemplified in transactions concluded within the last two or three weeks. A year ago the market reflected comparatively little interest on the part of either speculators or investors, according to real estate men.

Operations involving apartment buildings continue to be a feature of the real estate movement in both the city and the county. A noteworthy number of contracts for the purchase of buildings of this type were closed, with other property involved as part payment. These included a large group of apartments recently completed in the Moorlands and one of the newest skyscraper structures of this character on Lindell boulevard. Details, however, are withheld pending final papers.

A resumption of operations in buildings of this type was discerned several weeks ago, with the purchase by the Independent Mortgage Co., of which W. R. Orthwein Jr. is president, of the multi-family group at 5832-40 Cabanne avenue. As evidence of the better attitude toward buildings of this type, it was stated yesterday that the Independent Mortgage Co. had alreday had several opportunities to dispose of the buildings at a fair profit.

Apartment buildings are attracting attention, obviously, in response to revised prices, especially where mortgages cannot be renewed. In many instances equities are offered in exchange for smaller holdings. While as a rule negotiations involve trades, there is a well defined demand on the part of speculators, in anticipation of a restoration of former prices, as a natural sequence following improved business conditions.

The Money Situation.

Conditions affecting rental properties generally have been improved, with the position of apartments strengthened appreciably as a result of the restrictions placed on loans for new building projects in the residential fields. Comparatively little money will be available for new apartment projects until the supply and demand have been equalized. There is no lack of money for real estate purposes. In fact, there is an overabundance of capital for investment and for business expansion on a conservative basis.

Negotiations for several large properties in the business district were reported during the week. These include, notably, the former Bank of Commerce building at the southeast corner of Broadway and Olive, facing Olive, Broadway and Pine. These buildings are said to be sought by a large life insurance company, for which the ground floor would be available as headquarters.

LATE J. M. LEVI'S SON TAKES OVER BUSINESS

J. Melvin Levi Has Had Six Years' Experience in Office With Father.

Announcement is made that the business of J. M. Levi & Co., real estate firm at 109 North Seventh street, wil be continued by J. Melvin Levi, following the death of his father, Joseph M. Levi, founder of the business.

Mr. Levi, who died last week, was in the realty business here since 1893, and won the confidence of his clients to such an extent that a number of them named him as executor in their wills, and nine made bequests to him, a total of more than $35,000.

The son, a graduate of the University of Missouri, has had six years' experience in business with his father.

PRINCIPIA BUYS ISLAND TO PROTECT COLLEGE

Portage Tract of 140 Acres Increases Elsah, Ill., Property to 2158 Acres.

Portage Island, a wooded tract of 140 acres in the Mississippi River opposite Elsah, Ill., has been purchased by the Principia to protect the surroundings of the college's new site on the Elsah bluffs, trustees of the institution announced yesterday. The transaction was handled by the real estate department of the Mississippi Valley Trust Co.

The addition increases The Principia's holdings in the Elsah vicinity to 2158 acres, the first block of 1300 acres having been acquired last December as a site for a new four-year college which will replace the present junior college. Elsah is 35 miles north of St. Louis.

The island dominates the river side of the village and is directly in front of the site to be occupied by the new administration building. It has been used chiefly as a hunting ground. No plans have been made for its immediate development as a college property, trustees said, but its purchase was regarded as desirable because of its conspicuous position with regard to the college site. Acquisition of the island, it was felt, would guard against its possible occupation by soft drink stands and other summer resort accessories and would also provide space for future expansion of the institution.

L. O. HONIG CO. LEASING AGENT FOR MART BUILDING

E. L. Stancliff, president of the St. Louis Mart, Inc., yesterday announced appointment of the Louis O. Honig Co., as executive leasing agents for the office building portion of the 20-story St. Louis Mart Building, now under construction on the block at the southwest corner of Twelfth boulevard and Spruce street. Plans, he said, have been completed for placing the various types of space before local and national concerns, and applications for leases are now being accepted, based on completion of the building Oct. 1.

Space in the Mart proper, it was pointed out, is being handled directly by the St. Louis Mart, Inc., the Honig company having charge only of the office building portion.

Because the Mart Building will provide a type of structure hitherto unavailable in St. Louis, it will offer an unusual service to business concerns, in the opinion of Louis O. Honig, president

"It will provide every refinement known in the development of office buildings," he said, "including the economical arrangement of offices in single units to suites of any size. High speed elevators serving the office floors will serve all warehouse and display floors and will provide 24-hour service. All floors will be provided with refrigerated water, hot and cold water in offices and other modern facilities."

RETURN OF CONFIDENCE IN BUILDING IS NOTED

President of George A. Fuller Co. Says Money Is Not Chief Factor in Gain.

"With public works and monumental and commercial building construction projects on the increase, and small home building likewise showing a considerable gain for the first quarter of 1931, it would appear that this basic industry has started on a gradual upward trend," according to Lou R. Crandall, president of the George A. Fuller Co.

"The importance of this lies not so much in increased dollars and cents turnover within the industry, as in the fact that any improvement is a reflection of returning public confidence which is the basic factor in healthy recovery from business depression," Crandall continued.

"Within the building industry, housing construction normally represents the greatest volume and must be regarded as the most accurate index to the mental attitude or state of mind of the public.

"The first two months of the year developed a healthy tendency in residential financing and construction, which, has been sustained during March though gains have been less pronounced and the improvement may be largely seasonal. The gains registered in this classification for the quarter, however, are encouraging.

"Of other classifications, heavy operations such as certain monumental types of bank and office buildings, general office buildings, lofts, industrial structures and large housing projects, must follow rather than lead the upward march of business, dependent as they are in most instances upon increased current earnings.

"This does not apply to public works and utilities, educational and institutional buildings supported largely by endowments, and certain monumental projects for which funds have been previously accumulated, and which have forged ahead during the period of depression under the artificial stimulus of a public demand for unemployment relief. These classifications probably will continue to gain."

ARCHITECTS SUFFER IN BUILDING SLUMP

New York Committee Seeks Funds to Aid Unemployed Trained Men.

Though there are unmistakable signs of revival in the building industry, unemployment in the architectural profession is still at a high level, according to a report of conditions in the metropolitan district made public by the Architects' Emergency Committee, of which Julian Clarence Levi, Fellow of the American Institute of Architects, is chairman.

The committe pointed out that, while destitution threatens many highly trained professional men, New York and other cities are in crying need of their skill. The Producers' Council, an organization of manufacturers and associations of manufacturers, representing a combined capital of $22,500,000,000, joined in urging that architects be enlisted to check the disfigurement of town and country by cheap construction and ugly design.

The committee has appealed to the architects of New York, New Jersey and Westchester to contribute funds for the aid of idle draftsmen, many of whom are graduates of leading architectural schools here and abroad, and have won distinction in their work.

During the last three months, the committee reported, nearly 800 draftsmen have registered for employment at the bureau established at the Architectural League, 115 East Fortieth street. Of these, more than 500 were said to be destitute. Architectural employment has been found for about 120.

Those employed through the Emergency Work Bureau were paid out of the Prosser Committee fund on the basis of $5 a day for a three-day week. The architects of New York, it was pointed out, contributed about $38,000 to the Prosser fund, but of this amount only about $4000 was spent in architectural salaries. Since no further Prosser Committee funds are available, the Architects' Committee is, it was stated, compelled to raise its own fund from members of the architects' profession.

All of the money received will be spent for the direct benefit of the unemployed, without deduction for committee expenses. Pledges of $5 a week upward, or donations in a lump sum, are asked.

AMERICAN RADIATOR GROSS SALES FEWER

Reflecting the decline in residential construction, the gross sales of the American Radiator & Standard Sanitary Corporation and subsidiaries declined $135,401,920 in 1930. Its annual statement to stockholders in this connection says:

"Residential building is the main source of demand for your company's products. In terms of aggregate square feet of floor space, this class of construction began to decline in November, 1928. In comparison with 1928, the decline in such construction was 31 per cent in 1929 and 60 per cent in 1930. This recession in residential construction was, in considerable part, brought about by the absence of demand for long-term bonds and mortgages.

"In August, 1930, however, a slight demand for building mortgages reappeared and continued slowly to expand as the year drew to a close. By December contracts awarded for residential construction had ascended closely to the level of the preceding year. In February, 1931, for the first time in 28 months, an increase in the square feet of residential floor space over the like month of a previous year, was noted, such increase being 8.9 per cent. This increase of residential building activity in February must be confirmed by like activity for several months before we shall be justified in concluding that the long period of recession has come to an end, but it presents a fair basis for favorable expectations.

"It is interesting to note that the demand for goods for current consumption showed a decline relatively small by comparison with the demand for goods of a capital nature, such as your company produces. The building industry is the largest of the country. Normally it affords employment to over 4,000,000 workmen and contributes 15 per cent of the aggregate tonnage transported by the railroads. It is consistent to expect that greater activity in the building industry, if maintained, will gradually lead the country out of depression."

APPRAISALS TOPIC OF CONFERENCE APRIL 16

Chicago Realty Men to Give Demonstration of Their Methods.

An appraisal conference for the members of the St. Louis Real Estate Exchange sponsored by the National Association of Real Estate Boards will be conducted Thursday, April 16, in the auditorium of the Union Electric Building. Morning and afternoon sessions will be held.

Mark Levy, president of the Chicago Real Estate Board, and Stanley Roe of Mark Levy & Co. of Chicago, will come to St. Louis to conduct the conference.

A residence, a commercial property and an apartment building here have been selected for specific use in this conference. All available information on these properties has been collected and forwarded to the appraisers who upon their arrival will inspect the properties and the neighborhood in which they are situated. Then at the sessions of the conference they will give a demonstration of their appraisal.

A recent sales conference for the members of the exchange and their forces was attended by 400 persons.

18 STATES MOVE TO LEVY TAX ON ADVERTISING BILLBOARDS

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

CHICAGO, March 28.—Eighteen states have bills pending in their legislatures to tax bill boards in an effort to cut down their number, according to the National Association of Real Estate Boards.

Faced by the necessity of paying fees and taxes in addition to the usual rental of billboard space, many advertisers may refrain from putting up their signs in scenic places, says the association.

Connecticut charges $3 a year for each sign containing 300 square feet or less, and this fee increases to $9 for signs containing more than 600 square feet and not more than 900 square feet.

Other states that have amended existing laws or proposed new laws designed to tax outdoor advertising at present include: Georgia, Indiana, Iowa, Maine, Maryland, Minnesota, Nebraska, New Jersey, New Mexico, Ohio, Oklahoma, Pennsylvania, Utah, West Virginia, Delaware, Michigan and New York.

The magazine has a general circulation among office and apartment building owners and managers, representatives of all other types of commercial properties, architects, investment bankers, building contractors and manufacturers of building supplies, materials and equipment.

PART EIGHT

AVERAGE OF 90 STOCKS DOWN OVER 8 2-5 POINTS

Bull Lines Yield to Cumulative Effect of Shrinking Dividends, Unfavorable Earning Reports and Constant Bear Hammering.

TRADE IS LIGHT UP TO FRIDAY

About Two-Thirds of the Extreme Rise of February Has Been Lost—One of Sharpest Breaks of Year on Saturday.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, March 28.—Bulls fought a losing battle in the stock market this week.

Their lines finally yielded under the cumulative effect of shrinking dividends, unfavorable earnings reports and constant bear hammering.

The list held up fairly well on Wednesday and Thursday, when it was subjected to such development as dividend reductions by Anaconda, Westinghouse Electric and Baltimore & Ohio, but finally gave way decisively on Friday, and in Saturday's short session, experienced one of the sharpest breaks of the year.

The week's net loss in stocks, as measured by the price index of 90 representative shares, was 8 2-5 points, the largest for any week since December. About two-thirds of the extreme rise of February has now been lost. Trading was in small volume all the week until late Friday.

The bond market was rather unsatisfactory. Money stiffened a little, as Government deposits were withdrawn from banks to meet veteran loan demands and for other purposes. The call loan rate touched 2 per cent on Thursday, but was back to 1½ on Friday.

Investment Market Affected.

The investment market was primarily influenced by unfavorable railway earnings statements for February, however, which brought considerable selling into certain carrier liens.

Income tax payments have fallen below expectations, and a large Treasury deficit looms. Heavy Government borrowing in the investment market is expected in the next few months. An offering of $100,000,000 in bills is being made next week.

The visit to New York of Montagu Norman, governor of the Bank of England, is watched with keen interest in financial quarters, but these visits back and forth of the heads of central banks have become an established practice, and discussions are regularly kept secret. An important concern of European bankers at the moment seems to be over when Wall street expects to resume its role as the leading world capital market. It is felt that our holdings of about half the world's monetary gold supply places a responsibility upon us which cannot be dodged if world economics are to function properly.

Particularly unsettling to the stock market appears to have been the check in the expansion of steel mill activity for the first time since the first of the year. How important this may be cannot be estimated as yet.

Lows for Month Saturday.

Active selling sent stocks to new lows for the month today. Industrials and utilities were heavily sold; the rail average made a new 1931 minimum for the second successive day.

Sales of 2,100,000 shares in two hours exceeded the daily turnover for the full sessions on Monday Tuesday or Wednesday. It was the busiest Saturday since the third week in February, when the market was approaching its peak.

Weakness of rail stocks is usually taken as a bearish symptom, and the break by this group Friday, together with the publication of additional earnings statements for February, drew large offerings from the shorts and from margin accounts. Steel and motor shares were hurt by the estimate that Youngstown district operations next week would be 3 per cent lower.

U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, Radio, American Can, Woolworth, General Motors, Chrysler, du Pont, General Electric and Westinghouse were off 1 to 2. American Telephone, American Power & Light, Consolidated Gas and Electric Power & Light lost 3, while Foster Wheeler, Worthington Pump and

LOCAL STOCKS TURN DOWNWARD AT WEEK'S CLOSE

Are Influenced by Action of Big Board—Week's Trade Little Over Previous Period—Some Gains Made.

The closing session of the week on the St. Louis Stock Exchange saw prices moving downward with those on the big board, and as result of the sales of 1284 shares, the total for the week was brought above those of previous week. Losses of point or more were recorded by National Candy, Missouri Portland, Stix, Baer & Fuller and First National Bank.

For the week about twice as many issues showed losses as rose, the higher and unchanged ones being about equal in number.

Wagner Electric showed the most activity during week, with sales reaching 950 in aggregate. The price rose to 19, but failed to hold it, closing ½ point lower. Shares showing improvement included McQuay-Norris, Dr. Pepper, Coca Cola Bottling, Southwestern Bell preferred and Consolidated Lead.

National Candy lost 1⅝ points and Missouri Portland 1½. Elder common, Corno Mills and Landis declined, the first named losing 2 points and others 1 point each.

Brown Shoe and International closed unchanged, after selling higher. Moloney Electric and Johnson-Stephens-Shinkle were unchanged.

In the banking group, Mississippi Valley Trust sold as high as 224½ and then back to 215⅛, where it was only ⅛ point net higher. Mercantile-Commerce failed to hold a 2-point rise.

Copper Offered Lower.

The poor income report by New York Central was conspicuous in the week-end news. Net operating income of this carrier, which affords a good cross section of the transportation industry, amounted to $1,555,911 last month against $4,112,065 a year ago, and gross was off more than $8,000,000.

Some speculative copper was said to have been offered at 9¾ cents, a concession of ¼ cent from the custom smelter quotation.

With the exception of bar silver, which rose ¼ cent here, the other financial markets were rather heavy. Wheat sagged ¾ cent to 1¼ cents on the Southwest crop reports and poor export inquiry. Corn sold off nearly a cent under larger offerings. Cotton was steadier, off 3 to 4 points net. Bonds, especially rails, were soggy.

Foreign exchanges did little. There was a small advance in Spanish pesetas and the French franc, which has been making new lows, was firm.

WEEK'S METAL MARKET

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, March 28.—Improved foreign demand for copper early in the week, following a reduction of ¼ of a cent in the export price, tapered off later when the London market eased. A moderate volume of domestic inquiry developed, owing to improved operations in fabricating plants, but reports of slight concessions for small quantities in the second-hand market has made buyers cautious. Custom smelters and producers, however, were firmly maintaining quotations at 10 cents for electrolytic, delivered in the Connecticut Valley.

Tin was depressed by easiness in the London and Singapore markets. Buyers continued to hold off. Although consumption has improved, large purchases in the last quarter of 1930 are said to have supplied increased requirements. Pressure in the domestic market is relatively light.

Lead has remained quiet, with consumers checking purchases pending the outcome of the producers' conference being held in London, and uncertainty exists as to the final outcome. The price is unchanged, business being confined to moderate lots for prompt shipment.

Zinc declined late in the week owing to pressure of prompt metal. Improved buying developed at the lower levels.

Antimony eased in sympathy with declines in silver. Demand continued restricted.

New York Sugar.

NEW YORK, March 28.—Raw sugar was quiet today and prices unchanged at $3.35 for spots and duty paid with no sales reported.

Raw futures opened unchanged to 1 point lower and later showed a further decline of 1 point on some of the more active positions under liquidation for over the week-end adjournment and some trade selling, which appeared to be influenced by the easier London cables and the continued liberal offerings in the spot market. The offerings were absorbed by covering and following the early setback there was a partial rally on covering with the market closing net unchanged to 2 points lower. The volume of business was light and buyers as a rule were inclined to limit fresh commitments and await developments during the coming week. Approximate sales 6700 tons. May closed $1.33, July $1.42, Sept. $1.49, Dec. $1.58, Jan. $1.60, March $1.66.

The only refiner who listed at $4.40 advanced his price 10 points today to the basis of $4.50 as quoted by all other refiners. There was a good withdrawal demand, but no new business.

BOND PRICES RANGE IRREGULARLY LOWER

Issues of the Australian Commonwealth and New South Wales Recover Further.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, March 28.—The bond market declined irregularly today.

Issues of the Australian Commonwealth Government and of New South Wales recovered further. Queensland 6s and 7s and City of Sydney 5½s lost ground on a few sales. Peruvian first 6s closed at a new low at 27¼. The second 6s and the 7s closed firm and higher. These fluctuations followed the announcement that interest due on April 1 would not be paid. Other foreign obligations were generally lower.

Stock privilege bonds followed the stock market downward. Atchison 4½s of 1948 were one of the most active of the group with one of the largest losses. American Telephone 4½s, Baltimore & Ohio 4½s of 1960, Warner Brothers Pictures 6s, which showed a net loss of 2⅞ points, Texas Corporation 5s, General Theaters 6s, Kreuger & Toll 5s, Lautaro Nitrate 6s, Loew's 6s, the warrants on which expire on April 1, Missouri Pacific 5½s and Philadelphia & Reading Coal & Iron 6s made varying losses.

Railroad issues receded also. Although the decline was orderly, the Standard Statistics average price of 10 rail bonds made a new 1931 low at 101.7. Public utility obligations were quiet and firm while industrial liens eased off on a few sales.

COTTON BARELY STEADY AT SMALL DECLINE

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, March 28.—An early advance in cotton promoted by steadiness in Liverpool and reports of continued unfavorable weather for new crop preparations in the South was followed by reactions today under week-end liquidation which found comparatively little demand after the early buying had run its course. May contracts sold off from 10.89c to 10.80c and closed at that figure, with the general market closing barely steady at net declines of 3 to 4 points.

The opening was steady, 5 to 7 points higher on some overnight buying orders from the trade and covering promoted by the steadier tone of Liverpool and Alexandria. There may also have been some scattered buying on reports of delayed farm work in the South, but the demand was supplied at 11.13c for July and 11.42c for October by realizing or week-end liquidation. This was absorbed within a range of a few points and the market held fairly steady during the greater part of the morning, but weakened somewhat toward the close, when the selling was accelerated by the action of the stock market. July sold off to 11.03c and October to 11.33c and closing quotations were the lowest of the day. Spot cotton was quiet; middling, 10.80c.

Contracts were comparatively scarce at the opening, apparently, but the buying soon tapered off, and while there was a flurry of selling toward the close, business was hardly active enough to attach much importance to the fluctuations, in the opinion of local traders. Week-end review of the cotton goods market reflecting the slackening of demand recently reported came in for comparatively little comment, and some traders considered the lull in demand natural following recent activity.

Liverpool cable said that hedging and Continental selling had been taken by trade calling and covering in that market. Reported a small turnover in cotton cloths at Manchester, but said there were slightly better results from the Shanghai auctions. Egyptian cotton futures in Alexandria were 11 to 27 points higher and there was an advance of 3 points in the Liverpool spot quotations for Indian cotton. The amount of cotton on shipboard at United States ports awaiting clearance at the end of the week was estimated at 99,425 bales, against 103,761 last year.

LOSSES OF POINT OR TWO ON CURB MARKET

Oils Are an Exception, However — Transfers Approximate 468,700 Shares.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, March 28.—The curb market ended the week with a decidedly feeble demonstration today.

Losses of a point or two appeared throughout the list, with the exception of the oils. Transfers for the two-hour session approximated 468,700 shares.

In the utilities, American Gas and Electric, Electric Bond and Share, Electric Power and Light warrants, and Insull Utility Investment all lost about two points, while American Superpower lost 1. Middle West and United Light "A" resisted pressure, however, and closed off only fractionally.

Industrials losing one to two points included Aviation Corporation of the Americas, Cord Corporation, Douglas Aircraft, the Dresser Manufacturing Issues, General Aviation, Mead Johnson, New York Steam, Parker Rust Proof, Pilot Radio and Tubize Chatillon, Aluminum Co. lost 3.

Mines showed little response to the further heaviness of copper prices, although Noranda ran into more profit taking, and closed off 1¾.

GRAIN FUTURES CLOSE LOWER AT WEEK END

ST. LOUIS STOCK EXCHANGE, March 28.—Wheat and corn futures declined at the week-end session on the local market, widespread rain and snow and weakness of stocks affecting wheat values and the setback in that grain having adverse influence on corn market. Export demand was called slow.

Winnipeg opened unchanged and closed ⅝c to ¾c lower.

Liverpool wheat closed ⅛d higher.

July wheat opened at 58⅝, May corn 62⅝ and July corn 64⅜.

Local wheat receipts, which were 81,200 bu., compared with 61,600 a week ago and 46,200 a year ago, included 46 cars local and 12 through. Corn receipts, which were 88,200 bu., compared with 107,800 a week ago and 77,000 a year ago, included 45 cars local and 18 through. Oats receipts which were 103,400 bu., compared with 118,800 a week ago and 61,800 a year ago, included 22 cars local and 25 through. Hay receipts were seven cars local and 12 through.

In the cash grain market Saturday, soft wheat was steady. Offerings were in pretty good volume, but the market was narrow. Except for a car of No. 1 light garlicky which went to a mill order buyer, all offerings were taken by a local operator. The market cleared closely. Hard wheat was steady to ½c higher. The advance was recorded in a sale of No. 2. There was good demand for intermediate and low grades, but limited for No. 1 at ruling prices, and one of the three cars on sale, held at 80c, was carried over. Sales of No. 1 and No. 1 mixed were on a basis 2½c below the Chicago old May figures and No. 2 at 2c below. Corn was steady to ½c lower. Trading basis was a little higher. Offerings were smaller and a good clearance was effected. Elevators took the bulk of the supply on sale. Oats were ¼c to ½c lower. Movement was slow.

SETBACK TO WHEAT AND CORN PRICES AT CHICAGO

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, March 28.—Notwithstanding that widespread rain and snow were bearish on wheat and bullish on corn, both grains underwent sharp price breaks today. Pronounced weakness of securities served as a notable handicap, especially on wheat buyers, who also were deterred owing to an apparent fizzle as to anticipated crop damage from abnormal cold. Ice-bound Russian ports were expected to reopen soon, it was commented.

Wheat closed nervous, 2 cents lower to ¼ advance; corn ⅝@⅞c down; oats ¼c off to ⅛c up, and provisions unchanged to 7 cents decline.

New crop deliveries of wheat, and the June delivery as well, closed at the day's bottom level. Traders recalled the big rush of wheat fresh from the harvest fields last year at the beginning of July. The receipts for July, 1930, as compiled today, showed Chicago arrivals were 9101 cars, Omaha 8935 cars, St. Louis 9486 cars and Kansas City 22,131 cars. Contributing also to wheat weakness was a report that Australia had yet 100,000,000 bushels to dispose of, and a report that millers were finding difficulty in selling Australian flour as against English flour made from cheap Russian wheat.

Slackness of export demand for North American wheat persisted, and the largest estimate of overseas business was 400,000 bushels, entirely wheat from Canada.

Corn traders showed little concern over heavy rain and snow. Holders of future delivery contracts responded instead to the bearish influence of downturns in wheat and securities and to slowness of shipping demand.

Oats were neglected.

Provisions had a downward trend, paralleling hog values.

TWO STEAMSHIP LINES REPORT SMALLER PROFITS

By the Associated Press.

BERLIN, March 28.—Net profits of the North German Lloyd and Hamburg-American Steamship Lines showed a considerable decrease last year under the profits for 1929, according to the 1930 annual report which was issued today.

The report is the first since the pooling agreement of the two lines. It shows a net profit for the North German Lloyd of approximately $2,500,000, compared with approximately $3,500,000 in 1929 and a reduction of the dividend rate to 6 per cent for 1930 from 8 per cent in 1929.

The net profits of the Hamburg-American line fell from approximately $2,900,000 in 1929 to approximately $2,450,000 in 1930 and the dividend rate was reduced from 7 to 6 per cent.

The North German Lloyd Line points out that the crisis in world shipping is illustrated by the fact that approximately 7,600,000 tons of the total world shipping tonnage of 65,300,000 was idle at the beginning of 1931, and that 646,000 of Germany's total tonnage of 4,200,000 were laid up. The North German Lloyd estimates the declines in its revenue from freight to be at least $1,000,000 but declares that passenger traffic improved satisfactorily. Especially since the liners Bremen and Europa were put into service. The Hamburg-American Line said that its loss in freight revenues is not balanced by improving passenger traffic but both lines agreed that the results of the pooling were satisfactory.

BUSINESS NOTES

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, March 28.—Orders for shirting fabrics from manufacturers who are preparing their early fall styles have been coming into the New York market in large volume during the week and converters are busy trying to fill the demand, reports in the trade state. Prices are steadier than at any time during the last year and premiums are being paid on some goods for quick delivery, it was said.

With the opening up of spring building operations all indications are for a substantial revival of activity in the window glass field, the American Glass Review says. During the past month, howevr, production of this commodity has been at an exceptionally low figure, with total output expected to run less than 400,000 boxes. Conditions in the plate glass branch show practically no change, with demand holding the gains made earlier in the month.

A pick-up in orders for low-end linoleum and felt base products and a substantial call for summer grass and fiber rugs were outstanding features of the floor coverings market in New York this week. Demand for regular merchandise in the soft surface lines was at the lowest point in several weeks, but producers attributed the drop to seasonal conditions and predicted that sales would increase immediately after Easter.

Wall Street News and Comment

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, March 28.—The aggregate net income of the 1397 industrial railroad and utility corporations so far reported for 1930 was $2,898,553,000, compared with $4,372,599,000 in 1929, a current survey by Standard Statistics company says. Segregated by major divisions, the survey says, "1174 industrial companies earned $1,692,096,000, a decline of 41 per cent from the preceding year; 141 railroads reported net of $387,703,000, are relative contraction of 42 per cent, while the aggregate of 82 utilities was $818,774,000, a gain of 1 per cent."

The Northern Pacific Railroad is starting active work on a $4,500,000 car building program, described as the largest equipment construction project ever undertaken in its own shops. A $600,000 contract for pressed steel parts has been awarded to "Siems-Stembel company of St. Paul, to supply the needs of the road's shops in Minnesota, and a similar contract for $350,000 worth of steel parts has been awarded the Pacific Car & Foundry Co. of Renton, Wash., to supply Western shops. Another $600,000 order of steel will be required at Laurel, Mont.

Buying activity in electrical equipment markets of the country suffered a slight relapse in the last week, Electrical World reports. An easing in demand from levels recorded in previous weeks marked trading in Eastern, Coast and Southeastern centers. Other districts were more active.

Electrical manufacturing plants were busier, on the whole, in February than in January, according to reports of energy consumption received by Electrical World, and taking into account the smaller number of working days. The increase over January was 3 per cent. Only Washington's birthday was counted as a holiday in this computation, the report explained, and if allowance also was made for some curtailment of work on Lincoln's birthday, the increase would be somewhat greater. January registered a 9 per cent rise over December.

Bar silver strengthened in the New York market, advancing a quarter of a cent to 29¼ cents an ounce. The metal also was stronger in London, where the price rose one-eighth of a penny to 13½ pence.

Four new directors have been elected by Container Corporation. They are: S. L. Avery, president of U. S. Gypsum Co.; William R. Bassett of Spencer, Trash & Co.; H. B. Clark, former president of Sefton Manufacturing Co., and Charles Ward Seabury, vice president of March & McLennan, Inc. They succeed J. P. Brunt, executive vice president; John Jacobs, Wesley M. Dixon and R. L. McLelland. At the directors' meeting the board was increased to 11 members from seven, and the four additional directors elected were William R. Jeffery of New York, George Mead, president of Mead Paper Co.; George Green of E. H. Rollins & Sons, and Wesley M. Dixon, vice president of Container. All the officers, with the exception of J. P. Brunt, were re-elected.

FIRST PLACE AT STAKE IN MAJOR LEAGUE

First place in the Major City Bowling League will be at stake tomorrow night at the Mid-City Recreation Alleys when the Flints and South Side Chevrolets, who are now tied for the lead, each team having won 55 games, meet in a regular league match. The league has only four weeks to run and the championship may not be decided until the final game of the season.

Only four games are separating the first five teams in the league, the Flints and South Sides are leading the Wooster Lamberts by one game with the Witter Razz fourth, two games back of the third placers and the Jule Schmitts fifth, one game in the rear of the Witters.

Following tomorrow night's schedule, the Flints have the Lamberts to meet while the South Side Chevrolets and Lamberts are scheduled to hook up April 13. The Witters have an easy schedule ahead of them and are expected to figure in the final standings.

League records, recently released by the league secretary show the Flints leading the teams with an average of 977. The South Sides have 971 and Witters 958. The Floriss five's 3141 leads the team three-game department with the South Side's 3133 second and Schmitt's 3114 third. The South Sides hold high single game with 1152, followed by the Witters' 1101. The City Limits five and Sunshines are tied for third with 1087 each.

Harry Deen, veteran pin toppler, leads the individuals with an average of 201. He is the only one of the 80 odd bowlers in the league who has been able to remain in the select circle. He has carried a 200 average since the start of the season.

"Buzz" Wilson, with a record of nine 600 totals out of the last 10, now ranks second with a 198 mark. G. Heibel, of the Melenes, has 197 and "Windy" Glaub, Walter Kuhnert and W. Zipf each have a 196 average.

George Horneker, of the City Limits team, holds individual high three, 710. Roy Nelson has 698 and G. Heibel 695. Heibel's 279 continues to lead the single games. R. Kott of the Sunshines is one pin behind with 278. Bob Meinhardt has 269 for third place.

Miss Flo Schlenk, with a score of 1705, won the all events title of the St. Louis Women's Handicap Tournament, held at Schaefer's Delmar alleys. Miss Schlenk totaled 589 in the team event, 566 in the doubles and 550 in the singles.

Miss Lee Chase and Mrs. F. Kriwanek, rolling on the last squad, totaled 1238 to win the doubles championship. Mrs. J. Moran and Miss G. Wiedemann landed second, 13 pins behind. Mrs. Ruby Mees was an easy winner in the singles, her 676 taking down first prize. Gladys Meyer wa ssecond and Mrs. Edward Geitz third.

The winners in each event were awarded gold medals. The low score to cash in the doubles was 1114 and 598 was low in the singles. The Hart Printers won the team event with a score of 2768.

St. Louis Midshipman Wins College Lightweight Title

Herbert S. Fulmer Jr. Knocks Out Former Champion in Two Rounds to Prove His Superiority in 135-Pound Boxing Class.

By James M. Gould.

After earning a place on the U. S. Naval Academy boxing team and scoring many points in dual-meet competition, Herbert S. Fulmer Jr. of 6651 Berthold avenue, has ended his season by winning the intercollegiate 135-pound title. To win his title, young Fulmer had to defeat Capt. Douglas Crosby of Western Maryland, champion in the college ranks for two years. Moreover, the St. Louis boy won by a knockout in the second round.

H. S. FULMER.

Fulmer, an appointee of Congressman Dyer, is 18 years old and has been boxing only two years. He is a "youngster" at Annapolis—a sophomore—and seems certain to make a great name for himself in college circles, as he has proven by far the best at his weight.

Foundation for the young boxer's success at Annapolis is shown in his record at Western Military Academy at Alton. He graduated from Western in 1929 with a brilliant record in scholarship, military training and athletic achievements.

Fulmer's college title came only after the hardest kind of effort. It fell to his lot to meet the former champion, Crosby, twice in two weeks, once in the Navy's meet with Western Maryland and once in the intercollegiate bouts held at Penn State. In the first of the bouts Fulmer was after his man at the first bell and, with a furious attack, swept the Marylander down and out in the first half of the opening round.

Observers were inclined to believe that this quick victory was in the nature of a fluke and college critics predicted that when the two met for the intercollegiate title, the decision would be reversed. But Crosby was able to weather the St. Louis storm only for one round and a part of another.

A Middy Hero.

Fulmer's fine work has made him quite a hero among the Middies and, in a letter to his father here, the youngster writes that his parent might be able to buy the Academy cheap, as "I practically own it right now."

Spike Webb, the veteran coach of boxers, saw Fulmer win from Crosby in the first bout and declared the battle one of the best he had ever seen.

Young Fulmer, with a career in the navy ahead of him, naturally has no leanings toward pugilism after he graduates. From accounts of his fights, the boy's right hand seems to be his best, though writers rate him an excellent boxer as well as a hard puncher.

Six Records Are Surpassed in Rice Relay Meet

HOUSTON, Tex., March 28.—Six university and college records, four for individual performance, fell today in the fifth running of the Rice Institute relays.

Failure of Tom Warne, Northwestern pole vault star, to come back after his defeat yesterday in the Texas University relays at Austin was an outstanding disappointment.

J. Walter, anchor man for Marquette, performed beautifully to win a medley relay from Oklahoma University. Walter, with a great burst of speed, drew abreast of Glenn Dawson, Oklahoma anchor, sailed by, and hit the tape two feet ahead. The time, however, was only 10:59.9, almost nine seconds above the Austin time yesterday.

John Hass of Minnesota bettered the 1928 record of Claude Bracey of Rice, in the 100-yard dash, tearing it off in 9.6, extraordinarily good time, considering the hostile wind. Bracey held a record of 9.8.

Rice Institute wrote a new recordof 3:20 in the one-mile relay. Dick Jamerson, a fast football back of last fall, anchored the institute four in downing the Texas A. and M. record of 3.21, set up in 1928.

In the college class, the medley relay record was improved upon by two flat seconds by Abilene (Tex.), Christian. The Christians made it in 3:31.6.

WOMEN'S NORTH-SOUTH GOLF PLAY TOMORROW

By the Associated Press.

PINEHURST, N. C., March 28.—A crack field of women golfers, but minus the champion of the last two years, Glenna Collett, will tee off Monday for the twenty-ninth annual North and South amateur championship for women.

Former winners—Mrs. O. S. Hill of Kansas City and Mrs. Donald Barlow of Bryn Mawr, Pa.—are expected to encounter sharp competition from a field that includes: Edith Quier, Reading, Pa., runner-up to Miss Collett last year; Virginia Van Wie, Chicago, who yesterday won the Mid-South medal tournament at Southern Pines; Maureen Orcutt, holder of the Florida East Coast championship; Martha Parker, New York, and Peggy Wattles, Buffalo.

A qualifying round of 18 holes is scheduled for Monday.

HORNSBY HITS LONG HOME RUN AS CUBS GO ON BATTING SPREE

By the Associated Press.

SAN FRANCISCO, March 28.—The Chicago Cubs' wrecking crew enjoyed batting practice in scoring a 12 to 5 victory over the San Francisco Missions of the Pacific Coast League in an exhibition game here today.

The National League sluggers chalked up 17 hits off three Mission hurlers. Lester Bell, third baseman, got four hits out of five trips to the plate, while "Kiki" Cuyler, right fielder, hit two triples and a single.

In the sixth, Robert Hornsby, manager and second baseman for the Cubs, smacked a homer over left center field fence. It was the longest ball ever hit in the park, traveling close to 400 feet.

Bobby Jones to Play Match for Charity Today

By the Associated Press.

AGUA CALIENTE, Mexico, March 28.—Bobby Jones will be given his first public chance to practice what his motion picture series will preach when he teams with Leo Diegel tomorrow here in an 18-hole match with George von Elm, Los Angeles, and Mortie Dutra, Long Beach, Cal., for charity.

It will be the first meeting of Von Elm and Jones since they left the ranks of the amateurs. Since that time, appearing as a "business man" golfer, self-styled, Von Elm has won considerable money, including half of the first and second cash prizes here in the $25,000 open last January when he tied with Johnny Golden.

Von Elm defeated Jones in the national amateur championship in 1926 at Short Hills, N. J., 2 and 1, but since that time the Georgian has risen to the greatest heights ever attained in golf. Jones' partner, Diegel, is former Canadian and national professional champion and pro of the course here. Dutra won considerable money in the winter tournaments on the coast and is a candidate for the Ryder Cup team.

One-fourth of money will go to Atlanta, Ga., charity, one-fourth to San Diego charity, and the remainder to Mexican charity in Tijuana and Mexicali, both in Lower California.

For yet in terms of memory
He'll come and come again,

ROOMS FOR RENT—CITY

IN A YEAR—HOW?

If it takes you a half hour night and morning, to reach your home and office, you are losing one hour a day, or 300 hours a year, which is six weeks of fifty hours each you could enjoy in extra work, pleasure or sleep; not to speak of the $80 a year you spend in bus or carfare, which would pay your room rent downtown at $5 a week for sixteen weeks.

HOW CAN YOU DO THIS?

Two high class hotels in the center of the business district, have a few vacancies to be filled with permanents at exceptionally low rates, two in room as low as $5 a week each; four in large room with private bath, as low as $5.50 a week each. Single rates in proportion. Beautiful lobby, hot and cold water, complete high class hotel service. This is your exceptional opportunity to live better, and put six weeks more time for usefulness in your year, "and how" you will enjoy that extra half hour in the morning. As there are only a few vacancies, quick action is necessary on your part to be lucky.

Box F-275, Post-Dispatch.

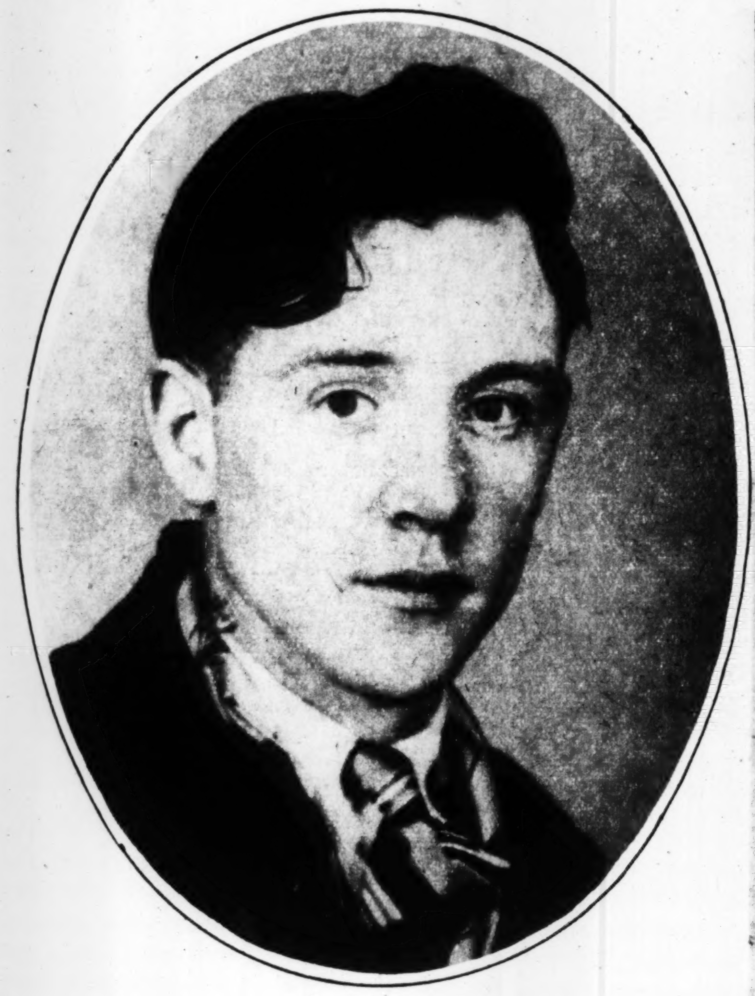
He Saved Six Human Lives in Five Years

John T. Johnson Jr., 24-Year-Old Chauffeur, Has Been Awarded the Carnegie Gold Hero Medal and a Life-Long Income.



John T. Johnson Jr.

BOSTON.

SIX times in the last five years John T. Johnson Jr. has saved a human life at the risk of his own. In recognition of this record of courage, the Carnegie Foundation has awarded him a gold hero medal and a life-long income of $22.50 a week. The award, the fifth of its degree to be made in the United States, was conferred after the rescues had been thoroughly investigated.

Not the least remarkable thing about Johnson's record is the fact that opportunity for life-saving should have been presented so frequently to a person who was not professionally engaged in that activity. Six times this young man has happened to be at hand when need arose for a rescuer. And always he has seized the opportunity promptly and effectively.

Johnson is 24 years old and a resident of the East Cambridge district of Greater Boston. He was graduated from the Sacred Heart grammar school and the Cambridge Night High School. and studied two years at the Rindge Technical School. He is now employed as a chauffeur by the District Attorney of Middlesex County, whose headquarters are in East Cambridge.

Johnson's first rescue was in 1925, when he was 18 years old. He fought his way through thin ice to a 14-year-old girl who had skated through a hole in a pond, and finally brought her ashore. Because of the weight of the girl, and her struggles, the rescuer was in much worse condition than the rescued when they finally reached safety.

A year later James Sheehan, 12 years old, living in the Charlestown district of Boston, fell into the Charles River. The boy sank quickly and his body became entangled among cables and wires under the water. Johnson dived repeatedly until he had extricated the lad and brought him ashore. In his endeavors to release the boy from the tangle of wires, Johnson suffered severe cuts on the hands, arms and face.

This rescue almost cost Johnson his life; for two weeks he hovered between life and death at the Massachusetts General Hospital here. The Sheehan child, delicate and sickly, died three weeks later from pneumonia.

In July, 1927, Johnson was hurrying over the West Boston Bridge to the Massachusetts General Hospital to have several broken bones in his hand set. He was in the center of the span, which crosses the Charles River, when a little girl ran to him, screaming that her brother had fallen into the water. In spite of the painful injury, which virtually disabled one hand, Johnson dived the 40 feet into the river and finally succeeded in getting to safety a 12-year-old boy, who later was identified as Stephen Afienko.

As Johnson laid the lad on the Boston shore, a woman grabbed the boy and disappeared in the crowd that had gathered. She was the child's mother. The commander and crew of a police launch in the Charles River arrived just in time to apply first aid measures to Johnson, who had collapsed.

His next rescue was at North End pond, Cambridge, in a swimming pool maintained by that city. A 12-year-old boy, William Markowsky, was attacked with cramps. While others stood by, Johnson swam to the struggling lad, and saved him, in spite of the boy's resistance.

ON the day following this rescue, the parents of the child visited the swimming pool, leaving a $100 bill, which they asked the head instructor to give to Johnson. When Johnson was told of the award awaiting him, he informed the parents that he didn't "save the kid for money." He refused to accept the reward.

In July, 1929, while driving a truck, Johnson saw a sedan skid into the Third street canal in East Cambridge. The sedan was driven by Albert Verry, 26, of Lynn, Massachusetts. Johnson stopped his truck and was in the water almost before the ripples started to mark where the sedan had disappeared.

After repeated dives, Johnson broke a window in the automobile, extricated Verry and dragged him to the surface by the hair. Verry suffered a fractured nose, while Johnson cut a large artery in a wrist and broke one leg. As a result of this adventure the East Cambridge life-saver was laid up for a long time in a hospitay, undergoing a series of operations on his leg. It finally was necessary to remove a piece of the shin bone. The plunge into the canal after the imprisoned motorist left the rescuer's leg crippled.

Johnson's most recent act of heroism was the rescue of Anthony Chacto, 14, of East Boston, who had fallen into quicksand edging the property of the Boston and Maine Railroad on the Charles River. Johnson was driving in the automobile of the District Attorney of Middlesex County. Fully clothed, he leaped into the treacherous sand, and after a desperate struggle managed to reach the boy, who was head down. For many minutes, while a crowd along the embankment watched, powerless to aid, Johnson tugged and battled to get the boy's head out of the quicksand. This accomplished, he had to fight his way to firm land. He succeeded after floundering terribly for 20 minutes. A waiting ambulance rendered first aid to the exhausted pair, after which the boy was sent to a hospital, while Johnson was taken home by a passing motorist.

The rescues of Johnson have received notice from the Commonwealth of Massachusetts, and the cities of Cambridge and Revere, as well as from the Carnegie Foundation. The youthful life-saver was given a cup by Revere and also by Cambridge. Another cup was awarded him by the State, the then Governor Frank Allen making the presentation. On this occasion Johnson, shying from applause, almost got away from the ceremony, but was brought back by a newspaper reporter who had to remind the youth that he couldn't spoil the party.

Through friends, reports of the young man's daring rescues reached the trustees of the Carnegie hero fund. It seemed almost impossible to them that a man so young could have established such a record, and a searching investigation of his life-saving was made. Eye-witnesses were interviewed, and the various police records of the rescues were examined. His record stood the scrutiny; the gold medal and the weekly income resulted.

Johnson has refused to capitalize on his heroism. An enterprising Boston theatrical manager tried to sign him up for a month's booking at $500 a week, with appearances in several Massachusetts cities—Boston, Springfield, Worcester, New Bedford, Lynn, Lawrence and Lowell. But the young man of many rescues declined the offer. "Say, I'm a chauffeur; beat it," he told the impresario.

FURTHERMORE, he refused to expose himself to public adulation and let himself be lionized in connection with the Carnegie award. Friends had made preparations for a formal presentation of the hero medals and the first check from the foundation. A ceremony was to be held at the State Capitol in Boston. Governor Joseph B. Ely, Mayor Richard M. Russell of Cambridge and Mayor James M. Curley of Boston were to be present. There were to be many speeches. Johnson was to respond to the resounding praises of his valor by explaining how he happened to be a hero, and was to be photographed as some dignitary handed him the check. There would be photographs as another dignitary, possibly the Governor, pinned the hero medal on the life-saver's breast.

But Johnson balked at all this. There would be no formal presentation, he declared; he would receive his medal and check from the mail carrier at his home in East Cambridge. He wouldn't agree even to a presentation ceremony at his home.

The financial award which Johnson has won by his heroism is likely to amount to a very substantial sum before it ceases. If he lives as long as insurance standards indicate he should—a little more than 39 years—he will have collected $45,832 before he dies. Should he reach the age of three score and ten, the Carnegie Foundation payments will total $53,360.

NEW YORK.

IF A STRANGER had been present that night in January when the Hessian Hills School at Croton-on-the-Hudson burned to the ground, he would have observed a strange phenomenon. He would have noticed 12 and 13-year-old boys, ordinarily happy and carefree, choking back tears at the sight of their school going up in flames and he would have seen young ladies of the same insouciant age pale with distress at the spectacle. The stranger, particularly if he happened to be a principal or teacher of an ordinary public school, would not have known what to make of it. For the schoolhouse to burn down has always been one of the earnest if unexpressed wishes of healthy children. But here were children, normal and spirited, who were actually grieved when their school burned, and who looked upon it as a deep personal loss. Where the children of another school under similar circumstances would have shouted with glee—at least in their hearts—these children were shocked and hurt.

The explanation of this seemingly unnatural state of affairs is simple. If the reaction of the children to the catastrophe was unusual, it is because the Hessian Hills School is unusual, too. Since the fire classes have been continued in temporary quarters nearby, and plans for new buildings are being made, so that the Hessian Hills School is still very much of a going concern. But that fire, despite its many concomitant inconveniences, has served a very useful purpose, for the students' reaction to the event and other attending circumstances has again forcibly brought to the attention of educators and parents the problems of juvenile education and has stimulated wide discussion of the value of institutions such as the one at Hessian Hills.

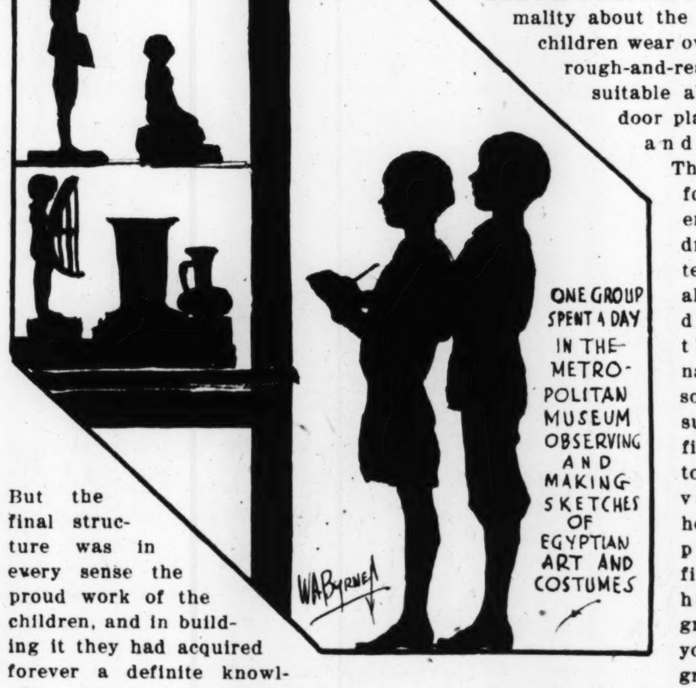
The Hessian Hills School is one of the new type technically known as a "progressive" school. Its methods are based on the theory, as expressed by John Dewey, that the best way to learn is through experience, rather than through being a mere receptacle of second-hand data dished out by a teacher. To show how this theory is applied in practice and what such a school can mean to its students and its community, the history of the Hessian Hills School should be examined.

Six years ago Elizabeth Moos (in private life Mrs. Robert Imandt) a graduate of Smith College with several years of experience as a teacher in progressive schools, decided that she wanted to raise her young daughter in an environment other than that of New York City. She moved to Croton-on-the-Hudson and in her garage opened a small school with her own daughter and the two young children of Stuart Chase, the economist, as the pupils. The number of children increased, a large farmhouse was acquired, and remodeled and when the fire came the number of students had grown to 78, with 10 teachers on the faculty.

To put the matter briefly, the school was made a pleasure by making learning not a routine but a matter of personal experience. Instead of teaching arithmetic by arbitrary rules and mechanical drills, it is introduced, in the early stages, by mathematical games, in which the use of numbers is related to actual experience.

FOR example: two years ago the school was given two ponies. Sheds were needed to house the animals, and one of the older groups, the 9-and-10-year-olds, were allowed the privilege of building the sheds. By study and discussion they decided what material would be best and cheapest; they decided on the type and size of the structures; by a very definite application of their arithmetic, they determined the measurement of the boards needed and the number of shingles, and then, in the periods set aside for that, they actually built the sheds themselves, boys and girls working together. They knew how to handle tools, because of the school workshop. Robert Imandt, one of the directors of the school, who is shop teacher, was present to offer advice when appealed to.



ONE GROUP SPENT A DAY IN THE METROPOLITAN MUSEUM OBSERVING AND MAKING SKETCHES OF EGYPTIAN ART AND COSTUMES
W.A. Byrne

But the final structure was in every sense the proud work of the children, and in building it they had acquired forever a definite knowledge of materials, arithmetic, tools, ventilation, the needs of certain animals, the relative cost of buildings.

In history one group was studying ancient Egypt. In addition to reading on the subject, the group spent a day in the Metropolitan Museum in New York, observing and making sketches of Egyptian art and costumes. Later that group gave a play based on Egyptian life. The students wrote the play, designed, made and dyed the costumes, made and painted the settings and, finally, acted it.

Parallel methods are followed in all the studies, the nature of the work varying, of course, with the age of the groups. The studies are properly varied so that a wide field of learning is embraced, in addition to musical compositions, painting, weaving and other handicrafts, and in every instance theory and practice are intimately blended. There is no element of compulsion about the work—none is necessary for the simple reason that the children find it absorbingly interesting. There is no competitive grading system, with its emphasis on a high mark rather than on the content of a subject. Charts are kept that simply register a child's progress with his previous month's record as the basis of comparison. Periodically examinations are given, not, however, for the pupils, but for the teachers, as a check to assure them that the factual knowledge isn't falling below the standards set by the routine public schools.

There is a marvelous air of informality about the school. The children wear overalls or any rough-and-ready clothes, suitable alike for outdoor play, classroom and workshop. There is, therefore, no false emphasis on dressing. The teachers are always addressed by their first names. It was something of a surprise at first, at least to this casual visitor, to hear the pupils of the first-year high school group call the young Oxford graduate, who teaches them, "George." But in this intimacy there was never any lack of respect; rather there was definite indication of affection and a respect based on the knowledge that "George" was a companion, a guide, there to help them find their way into the mysterious and fascinating realms of knowledge of which he already was master. And then when George asked "Bingo" to tell Barbara what was wrong with a certain mathematical formula, the "Bingo" in question turned out to be a dark-haired young miss, who answered George conversationally and simply, in the same unaffected way a youngster might point out to a stranger the location of the neighborhood grocery store.

Occasionally on warm days in the early fall or late spring, a certain group will decide that they would like to go swimming, instead of doing history that day. And off they go with their teacher. Then they make up for the interlude by covering the "lost ground" in home work. The same applied to sleighing and skating parties in the winter. But the amazing fact is that they enjoy the actual school work so much that it is as exciting and fascinating an occupation to them as the more obvious forms of amusement would be.

Indeed, so popular is the school with the children that they show up in the morning even before classes are scheduled to begin, and sometimes parents have to be requested to keep the youngsters from coming so early. Furthermore, it has been found necessary to make a strict rule that students be off the schoolgrounds by 4 in the afternoon, and so eager are some of them to be there during the week-end, to work in the chemistry laboratory, the shop or at one of the looms, that special permits are granted only occasionally, to permit some youngster, say, to complete a set of fire irons being made for a mother's birthday, or a metal box for father.

That there is no truancy problem at such a school is obvious. The remarkable fact is that the school itself became the nucleus of a community life. Students and their parents gave the school far better advertising than the usual obvious channels would provide.

THE result is that many families have moved to Croton so that their children might attend the school! A New York constructor moved from the city and built a home a short distance from the school so that his two children might attend. A retired Chicago attorney settled in the same vicinity for the same reason. Only 10 of the students, ranging in age from 2 to 14 years, are boarding students. The rest live at home in the vicinity, and more than half of the families represented have moved to the neighborhood of Croton because of the school.

Now the town of Croton itself has a grade and high school, and one might at first suspect that the proximity of this new-fangled school located in the woods at the edge of the town limits, might be regarded with suspicion by most of the townspeople. But when the fire destroyed the school there came an opportunity to learn what the community's attitude was. A former Mayor of the town put a large house at the school's disposal for classes. Several families promptly offered to take in some of the boarding pupils for the bare cost of their food, offering the surplus toward a fund for rebuilding the school. The local high school offered textbooks and equipment. A grocer presented two floors of his warehouse for classes. Two owners of real estate offered to give the school seven acres of land if it would rebuild on the same site. An architect has offered to design the new buildings without charge. And the parents of the children promptly began to devise ways and means of replacing the destroyed equipment and one mother cancelled her Caribbean cruise to donate the money toward the $75,000 fund which will be needed to put up the new buildings.

BUT the real test of the significance of the school was to be found in the attitude of the students when the fire came. All of them had precious personal possessions destroyed, skates, skis, tools and such—but the loss of these seemed of no importance. What most of them actually mourned was the loss of botany, Latin and history notebooks, so enthusiastically compiled; the destruction of a new box of chemicals as yet unopened; the loss of a new microscope through which they had but recently taken their first look. And what most of them feared above all was that school would be discontinued, even temporarily!

Fortunately, by the spontaneous cooperation of parents, townspeople, faculty and students, temporary quarters were immediately provided and hardly a day was lost, and the students, on their own initiative, decided to reconstruct the lost notebooks during their own leisure hours at home. They went further than that; they immediately began to devise ways and means of raising money among themselves to replace some of the equipment. One group, discovering that the new temporary schoolhouse could be reached only by walking through mud, after a rain, immediately planned the construction of a board walk leading from the road. These 8-and-9-year-old youngsters made the measurements, decided what sort of wood was necessary, bought it at a lumber yard and in their own spare time constructed and laid the walk—and a perfectly satisfactory board walk it is.

To make the new quarters serviceable a number of new items had to be constructed — several bulletin boards, a mail box, some racks, etc.

A list of these needs was posted. A student or group would then voluntarily choose the job preferred, write his name or group after it and then check off the item when it had been completed.

Seven weeks after the students had moved into the farm dwelling that temporarily houses them, the writer visited the school and found it functioning as though it had been a schoolhouse for years. The equipment, of course, is not polished or uniform, but it serves its purpose and classes are sailing along smoothly and with clear-cut evidence of enthusiasm.

GLASS WALLS for a NEW STYLE BANK

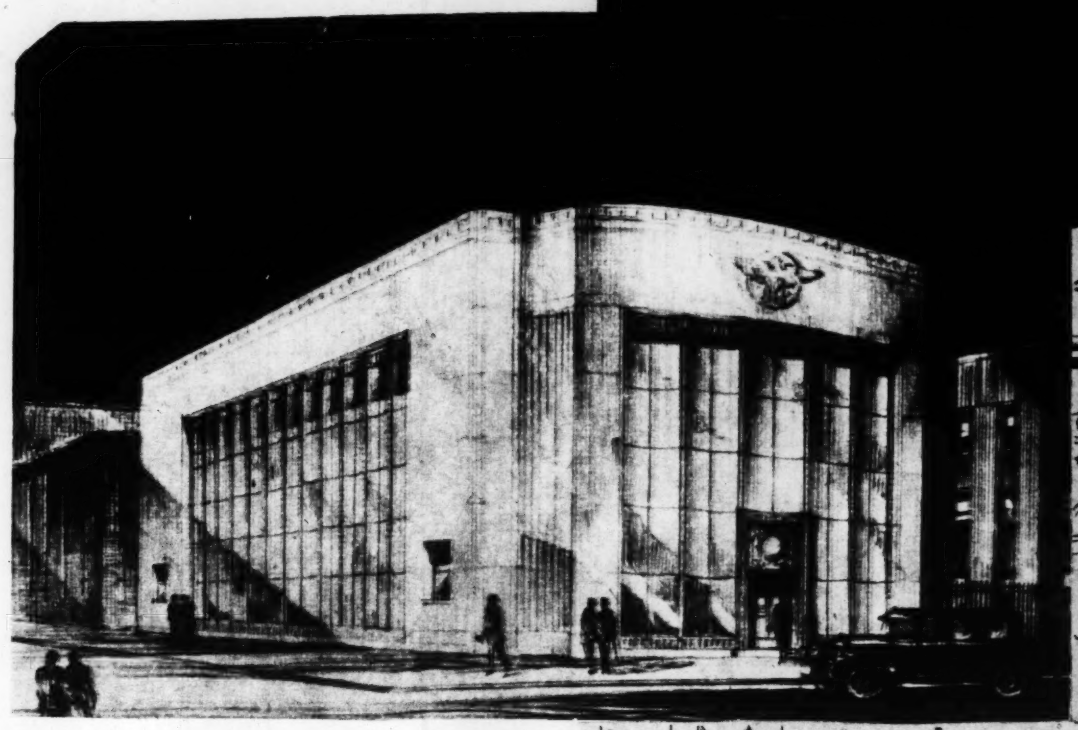
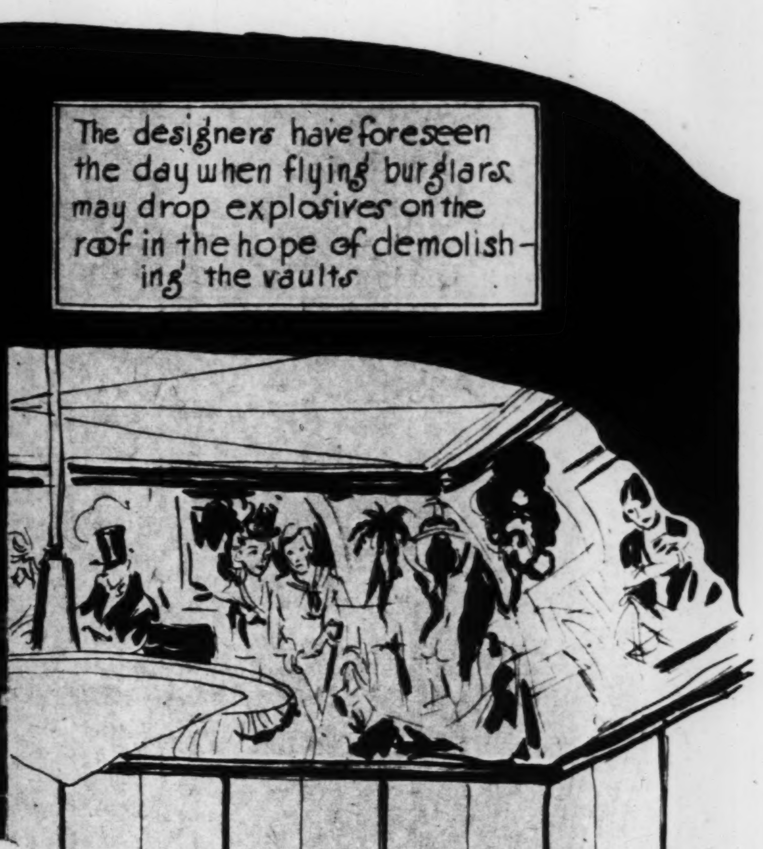
American Architect Proposes an Arrangement Whereby All Activities Could Be Watched From the Outside and Every Money Transaction Would Be Handled Through Pneumatic Tube Connections With Secret Vaults.



Design for a new style bank with walls of glass and steel, made by Francis Keally of New York.



The designers have foreseen the day when flying burglars may drop explosives on the roof in the hope of demolishing the vaults

NEW YORK.

REVOLUTIONARY changes in bank designing and in the methods of handling money offer the real solution to our growing crimes, according to Francis Keally, New York architect. By using glass and steel construction for practically the entire wall surfaces so that activities on the banking floor may be seen from the street, and by confining the bank's money supply to a burglar proof money exchange room equipped with pneumatic tubes to serve the tellers' requirements, this modern architect believes the bank crime problem may be solved.

"Banks make things too easy for the robber. No other business house would think of exhibiting its money the way the bank does. It wouldn't assume the hazard. Large sums of money available just inside the teller's wicket constitute a temptation which no business firm would wittingly permit," Keally comments.

"If a department store kept its money as readily accessible as the bank does, we would hear of daring daylight holdups there. The method of handling money from a centralized office by means of pneumatic tubes may be applied to the bank just as successfully as to the department store.

"Our bank designs are, for the most part, archaic," says Keally. "Banking design has progressed slower than any other type of building I know of. Banks are still depending upon thick walls, small windows and iron grating as a means of protection and symbol of strength, whereas the bank, the cornerstone of modern business, should be frankly representative of this modern age."

Years ago, before the advent of the modern burglar proof vault, the thick masonry walls and heavy iron bars of the building constituted practically the only protection of the bank's funds both day and night. If robberies occurred they were perpetrated by breaking into the building, but the modern impregnable vault eliminates the necessity for the old fortress-like construction.

The problem of bank robbery now concerns itself largely with the inside daylight holdup at the point of a gun, forcing the teller to turn over the cash on his counter. The money exchange room would give the bank funds the same protection during banking hours as the present vault affords after closing hours. There is no reason why a bank should depend upon walls and its bars for protection.

Among interesting architectural exhibits to be looked forward to at the coming Architectural and Allied Arts Exposition, at which the Architectural League of New York will celebrate its fiftieth anniversary, are photographs and drawings of recent bank buildings and numerous sketches of proposed bank designs as conceived by leading modern architects. The exhibition will be held from April 18 to 25.

In discussing a bank design which he will submit, Keally refers to a number of radical changes which he proposes to introduce. Force of habit clings more tenaciously to bank design than to any other branch of architecture, Keally believes: "There is no more reason for the iron grating on the bank window today than there was for the whipholder on the first automobile."

THIS architect's proposed design for a bank goes considerably farther than eliminating the customary wickets and cages. Contending that the teller's business can be conducted from an ordinary business desk, and that the use of desks in a banking room to replace the present counters would produce a more intimate atmosphere and eliminate the formidable aspect which often makes the bank a tomb-like institution, he would substitute an arrangement of desks in front of an all-glass partition, beyond which space would be provided for the clerical forces and files. This plan centers around establishment of a burglar proof money exchange room. This room could be located either at the rear of the main floor or in the basement of the bank—preferably in the basement, and in any event protected by every means known to money storage vaults. Using vault construction with the best modern equipment for artificial light and ventilation, the money exchange room should be planned to expedite the handling of the pneumatic tubes by means of which money would be sent to the tellers' desks upon request. By systematically arranging the money exchange room and having various amounts of cash readily accessible to eliminate as much counting as possible, withdrawals could be handled just as expeditiously as at present and the danger of holdups could be minimized if not entirely eliminated, Keally maintains.

Bank's money supply confined to a burglar-proof money exchange room

By establishing a burglar proof money exchange room, such as the architect proposes, a banking house might, by means of pneumatic tube connections with all its branches, handle all the money for its entire organization from one central exchange. The principle of transporting money by tube could be applied still further. Tube service could be established between all member banks of the clearing house for the rapid and safe transportation of cash.

The question of utilizing tubes for carrying large sums of money between the Federal Reserve Bank and various New York banks has been agitated for some time, it having been estimated that such a system of inter-connecting pneumatic tubes would pay for itself within a short time and would greatly facilitate the speed and safety with which exchanges of currency and valuable documents could be made.

The pneumatic tube system is burglar proof. Transportation of money by tube between the Federal Reserve Bank and its member banks would eliminate the present costly methods of delivering money by armored trucks. The money would never leave the custody of the bankers when en route from the Federal Reserve Bank. The use of guards would be eliminated.

In advocating the use of enormous windows the architect proposes to have the masonry wall reduced to a mere narrow frame, using glass and ornamental bronze for practically the entire wall surface right down to the floor. He proposes to use two walls of bullet-proof glass, allowing an air chamber between. By scientific planning an even temperature could be maintained within this air chamber to keep the glass clear and free of steam. A practically shadowless interior would result.

The use of narrow strips of metal with beautifully detailed symbolic characters would lend to the beauty of the simple, modern exterior. If a corner site were to be used, the architect favors a similar treatment for the side wall, giving a maximum of daylight to the interior.

Keally would introduce the use of color, brilliant color, into the banking room. There is no reason, he believes, why the business of handling money should be undertaken in somber surroundings. The growing tendency to introduce mural paintings into the banking room is a definite step in the right direction, he thinks, but, for the most part, these paintings are too subdued. He advocates color arrangements that are bold, yet restful. He thinks the bank interior needs cheering up; that the bank clerk, whose job is a confining and meticulous kind of work, needs stimulating surroundings. He would utilize the floor to tell a

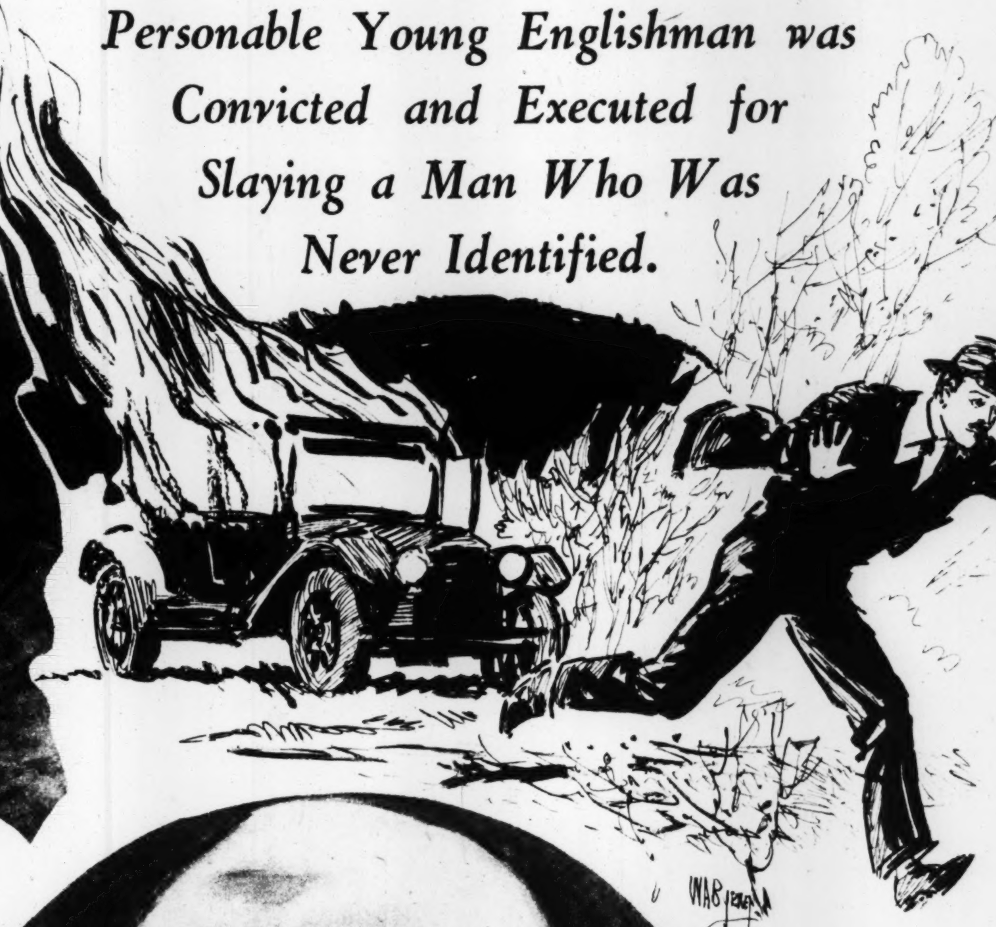
TOO MANY WIVES LED ALFRED ROUSE TO HIS DOOM

After Trying to Maintain Four Domestic Establishments on $35.00 a Week, This Personable Young Englishman was Convicted and Executed for Slaying a Man Who Was Never Identified.

Mrs. Lily Rouse.



Alfred Arthur Rouse.

LONDON.

THE singular passion of Alfred Arthur Rouse for domesticity has brought him at last to the gallows. Rouse's vice was such a respectable one — he simply wanted to marry good, plain looking women, lots of them. No champagne out of slippers, no dazzling chorus girls, no orchids for Arthur. Nothing but highly respectable, even rather drab domesticity on a wholesale scale.

Rouse would be living today and so would the unidentified victim whom he was found guilty of murdering, if only the domesticity hadn't grown a little too thick and too complicated. There were at the last too many wives, and too many children by these wives. Death was the only way out.

But Rouse didn't want to die. He liked living very much, he had a passion for marrying. The great light dawned—a victim to be mistaken for him. This earnest, God-fearing traveling salesman was desperate, of course, or he never would have fastened upon such an idea. But even in his desperation it must have occurred to him that with a new identity he could start out to marry a whole new set of wives.

No one for a moment thought of him as a murderer for the sake of murder. The prosecuting attorney, even in his most fiery moments, contended only that Rouse was a simple soul, driven to commit a stupid and bungling murder by a bungled life.

To the last Rouse kept silence. He denied his guilt and swore on the steps to the gallows that he did not know whose body it was that was found in the ruins of his burned automobile. He was the first person in 145 years to be hanged for the murder of an unidentified victim, and his trial aroused intense interest here. A number of prominent Londoners, among them Sir Philip Gibbs, espoused Rouse's cause. They contended that the Crown had not proved the man's guilt and that he was entitled to a reprieve or to sentence of life imprisonment, in the hope that further evidence would come to light. But the inexorable legal machinery of this law-abiding nation ground on to the ultimate conclusion.

The story begins with the war. Rouse came out of it in 1916 with a head wound that incapacitated him for further service. In 1917 he married his first wife, the only one in the series entitled to be called Mrs. Rouse. It was a typical war romance. This woman, Lily, was a war nurse. They had met first in a hospital behind the lines.

At this time Rouse embodied all the suburban virtues. At least it must have seemed so to Lily. He was a man of prepossessing appearance and a good talker, infallibly cheerful. He was making $35 a week, and it may be said here that his income never exceeded that figure, despite his several marriages. It was a good enough income for two people starting out in life. But it was stretched to the breaking point when it was finally made to cover the expenses of four establishments.

Helen Campbell.

Alfred and Lily seem to have been happy enough during the first year or two of marriage. At least there is no authenticated record of philandering on Alfred's part. The marriage was childless.

In November, 1924, he went through a ceremony of marriage with Helen Campbell at Islington. She was a companion and nurse when Rouse first met her while visiting her employer, whom he knew. They quickly became firm friends.

ROUSE seems to have had a fatal fascination for women starved for romance, nurses, servants, typists. He had a little car and it was at this time that he got in the habit of cruising the streets for women. He got to know when the nurses at certain hospitals came off duty, when the telephone operators changed shifts and when the big department stores closed. He favored also districts in which domestic servants are employed in large houses. There were few bets that he overlooked.

Nurse Helen Campbell very soon lost her heart to him. He represented himself, of course, as a single man. For 18 months he divided his time between the two women, Lily and Helen. A boy, christened Arthur, was born to Helen.

Toward the end of 1925 he set up a third domestic establishment with Miss Nellie Tucker. Whether there was ever a ceremony of marriage has not been definitely established. Miss Tucker insists there was, but no legal records have been found. It was characteristic of Rouse to lavish the greatest part of his income on the most recent wife. He told Lily and Helen a hard luck story and they went to work. In two years he had two children by Nellie, one of whom died.

All these establishments were in drab, cheap little flats and Rouse and his wives were under the constant necessity of petty economies. His wives nagged him because he didn't spend more time with them and more money on them. But since there are only 24 hours in the day and Alfred had to give up from eight to ten hours to his job as a salesman it is not surprising that he could not keep all three wives contented.

Nellie Tucker.

And yet he wanted more domesticity. In November, 1928 — there was something fatal about the month of November for Arthur—he set Ivy Muriel Jenkins up in a fourth household. Less than a year later she had a child that died a few hours after birth.

The more wives and the more children Rouse acquired the more desperate his situation became. There was a constant demand upon him for money that he could not supply. Nellie Tucker had to go out to earn her living and Rouse had all he could do to support her small daughter, Pamela, who was put out with foster parents, discovered through a newspaper advertisement.

In October of last year it seemed that everything was about to close in on the handsome suburban salesman.

The payments on his little car were past due and the finance company was threatening foreclosure. So were the payments on the little house in Finchley past due and Lily was worried for fear they would lose their home. Helen Campbell, who called herself Mrs. Helen Rouse, wept over him at each meeting because he did not spend more time with her and because he could give her so very little money for the support of their son. Ivy Muriel Jenkins kept telephoning and writing to his place of business to ask for him, to demand, once she had him on the wire, why he had not kept his promise to marry her. And he was soon to be a father again by Nellie Tucker. Add to this the fact that business was bad and his income slipping and one has a complete picture of Rouse's misery.

Nellie Tucker and her two children by Rouse.

Ivy Muriel Jenkins.

He made one desperate effort to retrieve his position, to economize by telescoping two of his households together. To Lily Rouse he confessed his relationship with Helen Campbell. He told her the whole story, including the existence of his son, Arthur. And Lily forgave him. So did Helen Campbell when she heard about Lily. The women met each other and got on beautifully from the first. Lily took the boy, Arthur, and Helen got a full-time job.

But even this economy was not enough. And he knew that a full confession would be fatal. Lily and Helen might forgive him and forgive each other. But there were Ivy and Nellie still to be considered. It was a very bad mess, and sooner or later the whole thing would come to light. A solution flashed across his mind, or at any rate this is the way the prosecuting attorneys for the Crown built up the sequence of the crime. There was an insurance policy covering his automobile, and if the owner died while driving, $5000 was payable to his heirs.

He took Nellie to the London Maternity Hospital and started out on what was to be his last trip. What Alfred Rouse did on that trip became of subsequent great interest to all of England, and particularly to Scotland Yard.

AT THE trial there was presented evidence to show how step by step Rouse went about it to perpetrate a murder which would conceal his own disappearance. The narrative of Rouse's movements during the week of the murder, presented as a probable hypothesis at the trial, was pieced together by the best minds of Scotland Yard. It is as follows:

Driving to the north, toward Leicester, Rouse decided definitely to kill a man, set fire to the body and the automobile and drop out of the picture. He picked up a hitch-hiker along the highway, knocked him unconscious with a mallet as they rode along, turned up a lane and set fire to the car. He hid in a ditch long enough to make sure that the car and its contents were burning fiercely and then sneaked out of the lane. But just here his haphazard plan went wrong. Two strangers came by and there was no escaping their gaze. Rouse had sense enough to know that they would remember his face and connect him with the blazing car down the lane a few hundred yards. The game was quite definitely up. He turned and fled precipitously towards the highway. He went to see a friend who was expecting him in Wales and not long afterward returned to London, Alfred Arthur Rouse as of old. Curiously enough, he had never bothered during any of his marriage escapades to change his name.

The police came, as Rouse must have known they would. The story he told sounded plausible enough at first. He said he had picked up the hitch-hiker and had been driving him up the lane, a short cut to another highway, when the car ran out of gasoline. He started to walk back for some when, suddenly turning, he saw the interior of the machine in a blaze. Terrified at this spectacle, he fled.

That was his story and he stuck to it all through the trial. And so did Lily Rouse and Helen Campbell. They knew their husband was telling the truth and they'd stick to him to the end.

The Crown presented, however, one very damaging piece of evidence. Not far from the entrance to the lane a mallet was found, on which there were traces of human blood and hair. But Rouse's calm demeanor was unbroken even by this unpleasant exhibit. He came close to being the calmest person in a courtroom crowded to the doors with the morbidly curious. Lily and Helen sobbed in each other's arms, but Rouse's outward appearance of a respectable traveling salesman was never disturbed.

IT TOOK the jury only 22 minutes after hearing Justice Talbot's charge to return a verdict of guilty, carrying with it the death penalty. Only at the very threshold of the gallows did he falter. It was necessary to carry him, half-fainting, the last few steps. To the end he protested his innocence.

But the day after the hanging the Daily Sketch published what purported to be a confession from Rouse. It disclosed that in all particulars Scotland Yard had been almost wholly correct. The confession stated that the victim was a man whose name Rouse did not know, but whom he had met casually once or twice over a glass of beer in a suburban public house. He picked him up on the night of the crime, ostensibly to give him a lift to Leicester. The confession stated that he strangled the man and then set fire to him and to the car by a trail of gasoline which he ignited some distance from the machine.

This confession has, of course, no official recognition. And Lily Rouse and Helen Campbell steadfastly refuse to credit it.

Lily has become so devoted to Helen that she invited her to come to the little Finchley house and make her home there always. She wanted her to bring little Arthur Rouse along and it was her idea that they should rear him together. But Helen Campbell, as fond as she is of Lily, couldn't quite see this. She is going to take Arthur away so that he may grow up among people who know nothing of his background. Both women up to the last moment worked for a reprieve, and until the Home Secretary's final ruling, they were hopeful. They have sworn to be friends always and to share the memory of that sterling husband, Alfred Arthur Rouse.

“MORGAN the MAGNIFICENT”

The Dramatic Treasury Crisis Which Resulted in the Money Baron’s Purchase of A Whole Bond Issue for Four Million Dollars Less Than the Market Figure.

Twice in times of national crisis J. Pierpont Morgan “saved the country” with his gold and in doing so became virtually dictator of the United States in all save formal title. His most spectacular piece of rescue work was in the panic of 1895, when he saved the United States Treasury from bankruptcy for a price, and his own price. In the following article, which is the fourth of a series of six drawn from John K. Winkler’s book “Morgan the Magnificent,” the biographer tells how the rescue was accomplished.

By JOHN K. WINKLER

NOT alone industry, but the United States Government itself suffered disastrously from the panic of 1893. A nest of tangled and unmanageable circumstances brought on a series of crises in 1894 and the early part of 1895. Drained of its gold reserves, the Government was several times on the verge of bankruptcy. Only bold and secret action by Treasury officials and New York bankers, led by Morgan, averted disaster.

Since the resumption of specie payments in 1879 the Government had maintained a minimum gold reserve fund of $100,000,000 to redeem outstanding notes. The reserve had proved ample during the prosperous and money careless ’80s. The panic of 1893, however, brought a startling and disheartening change. European security holders dumped $100,000,000 worth of stock and bonds upon our markets. Foreign exchange rose rapidly. It was necessary to export gold by the tens of millions. The Treasury at once felt the effect. . . .

At the close of 1894 it seemed impossible to preserve the gold standard and the public credit. In panic, foreign and domestic capital rushed to escape before the anticipated crash. In January, 1895, the enormous sum of $45,000,000 was withdrawn from the Treasury; and gold to the amount of $25,900,000 went abroad. On the last day of January the gold reserve had fallen to $41,340,181. Withdrawals were continuing at the rate of almost $2,000,000 daily.

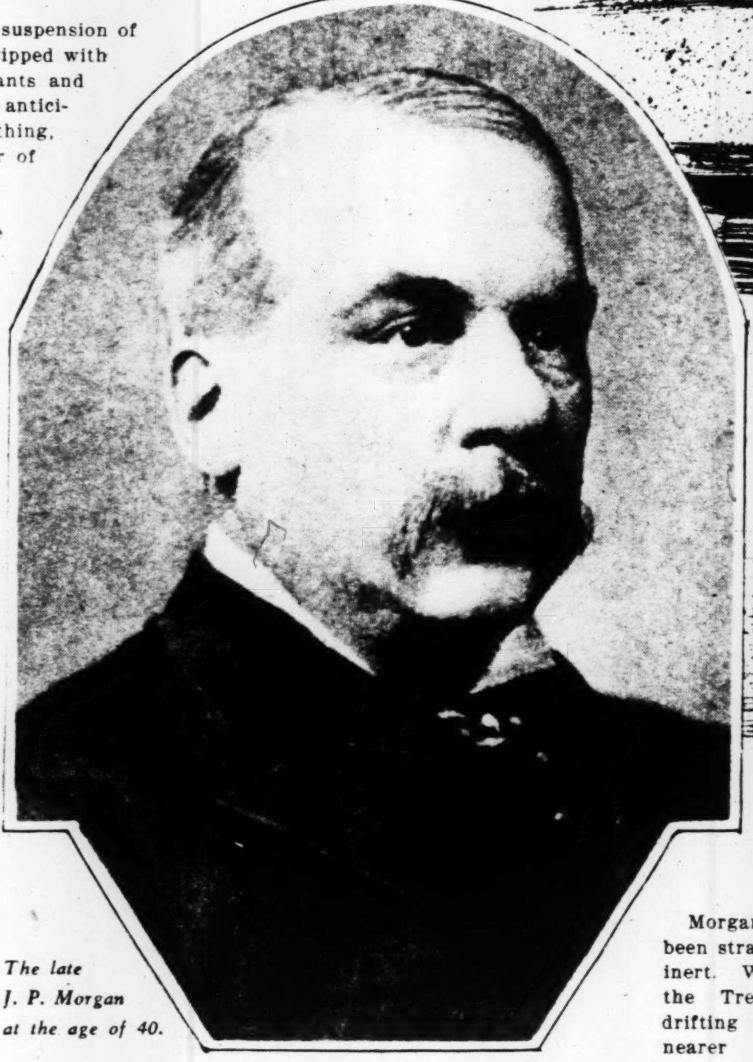
It seemed that nothing could prevent suspension of gold payments. Business circles were gripped with excitement. The markets fell. Merchants and bankers arranged their affairs as though anticipating invasion by a foreign army. Nothing, they believed, could avert the surrender of the Treasury.

But something did. . . .

Pierpont Morgan sat in a room in the Arlington Hotel, Washington, playing solitaire. It was 4 o’clock on the morning of Friday, February 8, 1895. Snow slashed against the windows. The storm was not more foreboding than the situation which confronted the country. There was but one day’s supply of gold left in the United States Treasury.

The Government and the financial world were facing a catastrophe such as had never before been known.

Uninvited, indeed, risking open rebuff, Morgan had come to the capital to consult President Cleveland. The previous day a bill authorizing issuance of emergency gold bonds had been defeated in the House by silverites. To Morgan this had but one meaning: the Government must depend upon private sources to save the Treasury. President Cleveland was bitterly opposed to such an expedient. The stalwart Democrat in the White House clung stubbornly to his belief that relief should and must come through the people’s representatives.



The late J. P. Morgan at the age of 40.

THOUGH much alike in mental mold, Cleveland and Morgan divided sharply in social philosophy. The President, son of an indigent traveling parson, held a naive belief in popular government. Morgan believed that democracies were devices where the most ruled the best. Both were men accustomed to command. In a situation such as this their wills were bound to clash.

At the station, the night before, Secretary of War Daniel Lamont had delivered a blunt message from the White House. “The President has made up his mind to rely upon Congress. He will not see you,” he told Morgan. Morgan’s response was equally blunt. “I am going to the Arlington Hotel,” he said. “I shall wait there until the President is ready to see me.”

To Morgan this was no time to stand upon ceremony. Cleveland, he realized, was no financier. Morgan nevertheless respected him for his sturdy championship of the gold standard at a time when his political future was at stake. The silver issue had split both parties wide open. Morgan had decided that relief of the Treasury could be brought about only by his firm and one other—August Belmont & Company, American representatives of the powerful foreign house of Rothschild.

He had in his pocket a contract for restoring and maintaining the Treasury gold reserve. Whether the President and the Secretary of the Treasury could legally consummate the covenant without the consent of Congress was the problem which now concerned him as he sat and smoked and riffled the cards. His presence in Washington capped a fortnight of dramatic events.

For two weeks Morgan and August Belmont had been engaged in guarded parleys with various Treasury officials, negotiations conducted in the greatest secrecy. The Government did not dare permit the press and public to learn in actual measure how close the Treasury was to repudiation. On January 24 Belmont and John G. Carlisle, Secretary of the Treasury, had been closeted in conference. Carlisle asked Belmont to ascertain quietly whether it would be possible for the Government to float an emergency loan in Europe. On January 28 the President sent a special message to Congress. Without revealing in detail the terrible straits of the Treasury, Mr. Cleveland thus pictured conditions:

“The real trouble which confronts us is the lack of confidence, widespread and constantly increasing, in the continuing ability of the Government to pay its obligations in gold.

“The only way left open to the Government for procuring gold is by the issue and sale of its bonds. The only bonds that can be so issued were authorized nearly 25 years ago. . . . They are made payable in coin instead of specifically in gold. . . . It is by no means certain that bonds of this description can much longer be disposed of at a price creditable to the financial character of our Government.

“THE most dangerous and irritating feature of the situation . . . is found in the means by which the Treasury is despoiled of the gold thus obtained without cancelling a single Government obligation, and solely for the benefit of those who find profit in shipping it abroad or whose fears induce them to hoard it at home. . . . The same notes may do duty many times in drawing gold from the Treasury; nor can the process be arrested as long as private parties . . . see an advantage in repeating the operation.

“Whatever ideas may be insisted upon as to silver or bimetalism, a proper solution of the question now pressing upon us only requires a recognition of gold as well as silver, and a concession of its importance, rightfully or wrongfully acquired, as a basis of national credit, a necessity in the honorable discharge of our obligations payable in gold, and a badge of solvency.”

On January 29 Secretary Carlisle’s chief assistant, William E. Curtis, saw Belmont at the latter’s home in New York. Curtis was the Treasury liaison man with the New York bankers. Many times, in that trying period, he had gone to New York on confidential missions. On this occasion Belmont silently handed Curtis a sheaf of private cables. They were gloomy. Rothschilds would not touch American Government bonds—unless payable in gold and gold alone. “Why don’t you see Morgan?” asked Belmont. “Perhaps he can suggest something.”

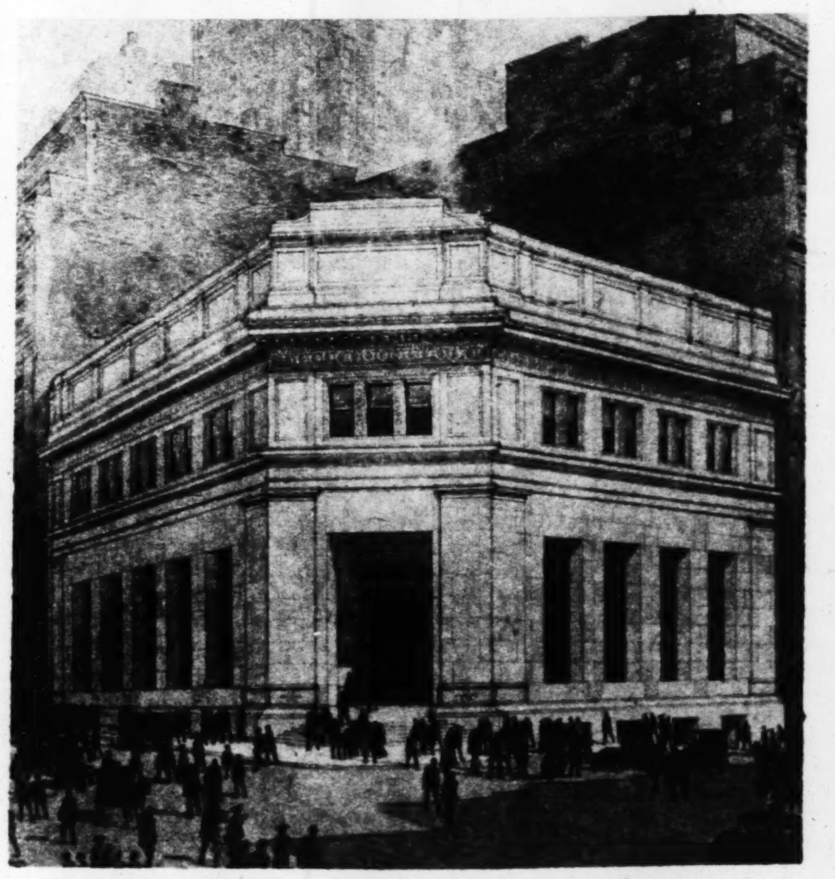
Morgan had been strangely inert. With the Treasury drifting daily nearer the rocks he had made no move. It was unlike him. His attitude puzzled the panicky and timid men of his world, who had grown to look to him, in every emergency, for decisive action.

On this morning—January 30—Morgan received two communications. One was a request from Curtis for a conference at the Sub-Treasury. Another was a cable from his London house. The latter, signed by Walter Burns, informed him that the London house of Rothschild had approached J. P. Morgan & Company and suggested joint action to avert a calamity. The growing gravity of the situation apparently had caused the Rothschilds to modify their earlier insistence upon “gold only” bonds.

In a few minutes the immaculately groomed Belmont walked into Morgan’s office. He also had received a cable from London. To his astonishment he found that Morgan had already drawn up a rough outline for a syndicate proposal. The two worked over the plan for a little while, incorporated certain changes into the memorandum and, arm in arm, crossed the street to see Curtis. They told him they had decided to come to the aid of the Government—at a price.

“I don’t know whether we can get hold of enough gold, either here or abroad,” said Morgan. “But we are willing to try. In our opinion, no popular loan is possible. Here is a memorandum of our terms. You can take it to Washington and let us know what the President and Mr. Carlisle think of it.”

The Morgan memo measured with little mercy the Treasury emergency. Morgan and Belmont offered to take a 30-year 4 per cent bond at a price equivalent to 104 1-2. Existing U. S. 4 per cents were bringing 111 on the market. No such concession had been asked of the Government since the resumption of specie payment.



The house of Morgan at the corner of Broad and Wall streets, New York.

The Treasury, however, was in no position to bargain. On Saturday Morgan and Belmont received word from Washington that the President and Carlisle favored their proposal. Saturday morning rumors circulated in Wall street that Morgan had agreed to come to the relief of the Treasury. On the mere strength of these reports, some $4,000,000 in gold, boxed for export shipment, was returned to the Sub-Treasury. It was a surprising illustration of the potency of one man’s name.

As the day advanced the newspapers got wind of the negotiations. Though they could only guess at the extraordinary nature of the situation, the papers were healthily suspicious. One or two editorials appeared on Sunday in which such phrases as “dark-lantern financiering” were freely used. The New York World, under the quick spur of its almost prophetic proprietor, Joseph Pulitzer, at once launched a campaign that was to last for months—and prove insufferably irritating to Morgan. The World warned Cleveland and Carlisle that they were delivering themselves to the money interests and permitting private individuals to pouch large profits at the expense of the nation. In bold, black type the President was advised to stand out for a 3 per cent loan—“If the banks won’t take it, the people will.”

On Monday, when he thought the matter practically settled, Morgan received a letter from Secretary Carlisle. The Secretary wrote that the administration had decided to depend upon a popular loan. Morgan spluttered with anger. The new-fangled telephone was one of the financier’s pet dislikes. When he had to use it he swore, tore his hair and worried his vest as a terrier does a mouse. But, on this occasion he got through a call to Carlisle and urged the latter to do nothing until he and Belmont got to Washington. Carlisle agreed to delay for a day before inviting subscriptions to a popular loan. August Belmont started for Washington at once. Morgan followed.

With Morgan went Robert Bacon and Francis Lynde Stetson. Bacon was a junior partner in the new firm of J. P. Morgan & Company, formed January 1, 1895. Lovable, handsome as a god, Bob Bacon, ’80, had been “Harvard’s Model Man” by selection of his classmates. Morgan took him from a brokerage house in Boston and was now breaking him in. Bacon adored “Senior” and survived Morgan’s remorseless pace for several years with but one breakdown. Then, upon orders of his physician, he went to England and restored his shattered nerves by riding to hounds 50 miles a day, five days a week.

Anthony J. Drexel had died in Karlsbad in June, 1893. Though changing the firm name in New York, Morgan continued alliance with Drexel’s successors in Philadelphia.

STETSON was a former law partner of President Cleveland. The wags of the street called him Morgan’s “attorney-general.”

In Washington, Morgan found Congress aflame. Party lines had disappeared. Gold men and silver men were battling like bandits. Gold was denounced as a badge of oppression. “The President has declared war on silver,” shouted Senator George G. Vest of Missouri. “He would make us accessories to this effort to fix the gold standard upon us. This supposed emergency can be met by Treasury payments in silver.” The Senator raised a vibrating hand to heaven. “So far as I am concerned, I will never vote to issue bonds to secure gold to place us on a single gold standard!”

Morgan paid no more attention to these forensic outbursts than to attacks in the press. He regarded politicians and editors as a semi-literate crew, anyway.

President Cleveland received Morgan and Belmont on Tuesday morning, February 5. Morgan and Cleveland were old acquaintances, having met frequently, during the period between his first and second terms, when Cleveland practiced law in New York. Both men were wedded to tobacco. It

Vivian Gordon's Tragic Legacy To Her Daughter

The Disastrous Chain of Events That Resulted When a Broadway Adventuress Tried to Regain a Good Name.

NEW YORK.

NO ONE can be certain as to just what happened in the secret, adolescent world of Benita Bischoff. She saw her name in type across newspaper pages, she saw enlarged photographs of herself. She read that her mother, Vivian Gordon, had been flagrantly immoral, strangled to death because of her connections with the underworld. And in the mind of Benita Bischoff there came the certainty that she was disgraced for life.

With the vivid imagination of the adolescent, this 15-year-old girl thought that people were shunning her on the street, she was sure that her friends in high school were trying to cut her. She knew with the desperate certainty of the very young that she was marked forever. Benita wrote a last entry in her diary, turned on the gas and lay down to die in the flat of the respectable stepmother with whom she lived.

Tragedy trailed Benita's mother, Vivian, in her death as in her life. For the one thing she had wanted, grimly, passionately, was to restore her good name, officially, for the sake of the daughter who had been taken away from her. That was why she was murdered —because she threatened to give information to the vice investigators that she hoped would clear her reputation. Her death was the first of a series of tragedies. They followed with a grim inevitability.

Five days after the body of the pretty, red-haired Vivian Gordon was found in Van Cortlandt Park, with the strangler's rope around the neck, Benita ended her life. Before another week had passed, the dead woman's brother, harried by the mad circus that follows New York murders, was carried out of his hotel room to the psychopathic ward in Bellevue Hospital, strapped to a stretcher, and for the time being at least, out of his mind. In a dresser drawer police found many well-thumbed clippings telling the details of the murder.

A sister of the murdered woman was reported prostrated in a Mid-Western city. Vivian Gordon's divorced husband, stunned by the train of events, alone remained firm, although badly shaken and clutching closely the pitiful diary of his child for which he was offered large sums of money. The father with dignity declined to permit his child's private thoughts to be exploited.

Vivian Gordon, attractive and well into her thirties, will probably live longer in the annals of famous New York crimes than she did in the city's network of racketeering, swindling and blackmailing. Her sensational death was the spark that started a wave of reform that will bring acute concern to many a city official and private playboy before it is through.

Vivian Gordon's "career" started when, at the age of 15, she ran away from a convent school where her father had sent her on the death of her mother. In the convent Vivian for a number of years stuck to her studies and thumped away at her Cnopin and Beethoven. She came of a fairly well-situated family in Detroit. She took naturally to the classics. Then one day she realized that her straggling red pigtails had become a fluffy bronze crown and her awkward body something that attracted attention, and abruptly she slipped out of the school, several hundred dollars of her own money in her purse.

Capable and independent, she worked into the show business and went on the road with burlesque troupes.

THIS ultimately palled on her, however, and she married a traveling man, John E. C. Bischoff. Bischoff was making plenty of money and for several years the pair traveled about together. After the arrival of their child, trouble developed and they separated, Vivian taking the baby to New York and Bischoff going his way and ultimately becoming a Federal prison official in Washington, D. C.

In New York Vivian soon found her way into the gold-digging ranks and was not long in discovering that there were many ways of persuading gentlemen to part with their money. She had many lovers and plenty of money, a child to take care of and a suite in a good hotel. She blackmailed and extorted and tossed the receipts into night clubs and her child's playroom. It was great while it lasted.

One day, after the child, Benita, had passed her sixth birthday, the mother failed to return home in the evening. The youngster found herself in the care of a kindly hotel clerk, who assured her that everything would be all right. Benita was turned over to her father, who took her to Audubon, N. J., where he had remarried. Benita's mother had been arrested on what is believed to have been a trumped-up vice charge, although trumping-up was hardly needed, and sent to Bedford reformatory for her waywardness.

The mother was not long in the reformatory and on re-entering the world started a frantic fight to regain possession of Benita, whom the courts had declared her unfit to raise. There were frequent stormy visits to the home in Audubon, passionate charges of framing the Bedford case. Benita became one of those eight or nine year old youngsters whose dark eyes look as if they had seen much of the shoddy side of living; easily frightened and moody.

Vivian Gordon.

Benita Bischoff, Vivian Gordon's daughter.

VIVIAN GORDON never succeeded in getting her daughter back and it hurt her. Benita ran when she saw her and a resolve to regain the respect of her child was born in the mother.

Her first act toward vindication was to call on Irving Ben Cooper, who is playing a big part in the vice-framing inquiry, and to give him evidence as to her alleged framing by the vice squad. A few days after the interview with Cooper, during which she had arranged for another appointment, Vivian Gordon was strangled and thrown into the weeds from an automobile.

Benita Bischoff was dark and sensitive. The members of the freshman class at Audubon High School resolved not to say anything to her about the tragedy, but she felt the pointing of fingers, real or imagined, as she walked home.

She alternately wept and brooded, refused to eat and slept only fitfully. She read every line the papers carried on the murder. As more and more light on her mother's underworld life was unfolded, she became hysterical. Her diary carried such entries as: "Feb. 27. What an awful mess my mother got into!" "Feb. 28. My mother has been found dead and terrible things are being said." "March 1. I guess I'll have to change my name now."

At her stepmother's insistence, Benita, in a despairing effort to pull out of her mood, slung her ice skates over her shoulder and went to the community skating rink one evening. There she might run across her only boy companion, Herbert Trout, a 23-year-old clerk, a clever skater, who was her hero, or members of the high school girls' hockey team which Benita tried so hard to make. But Trout was not there and as Benita stepped onto the ice she thought herself the object of stares. She bravely skated alone for a few minutes, but the coolness —or fancied coolness—of her girl friends broke her down and she finally left the rink sobbing.

In her room at home she read the latest development in the murder case—that she herself, as a child, had caused her parents to separate. This was a new blow.

Next morning she was more calm. She strapped her school books together and walked to the high school. Her father had told her that he would send her to business college in Philadelphia and a smile flitted for a moment across her face, encouraging him to believe she had adjusted herself to the unusual conditions. Benita's stepmother smiled, too, as she sent her off to school.

Benita walked into the office of Mrs. Grace M. Cramer, principal, and putting her books on the desk quietly informed the principal that she was leaving. Mrs. Cramer put her arm around the girl and assured her that she was still loved by her classmates, who would be sorry to lose her. Benita smiled once more.

A glance at her diary would have revealed, however, that on the previous night, on her return from the skating rink, she had written: "I can't live any longer. This has got to be too much for me. I am going to end it all."

That afternoon, while her stepmother was in Philadelphia, she ended it. Stuffing a carpet in the crack under the kitchen door, she turned on the burners of the gas range and while the gas filled the room, wrote the final entry in her diary: "March 3, 2:15 p. m. I'm tired of living. I've decided to give it up. I cannot face the music and as I write this I am turning on the gas." This was followed by a "will," which is without legal status since she was a minor, leaving any money due from her mother's estate to Herbert Trout and a relative. Her stepmother, returning at 4:10 p. m., found her lying on the floor unconscious. She died an hour later at a hospital.

Meanwhile, when the distraught girl was making entries in her diary, an automobile salesman, Pierre M. Franklin, of Montreal, was gazing horror-stricken at the newspaper picture of his sister found in Van Cortlandt Park. As he neared New York City with a police telegram in his pocket he read the details of the wild career of a sister whom he hadn't heard of in years.

FRANKLIN had been on the verge of making a business deal which might have meant his fortune, but he forgot that when he walked through Grand Central Terminal to the puzzling accompaniment of photographers' flash lamps and reporters' shouted queries. A 200-pound man when he arrived, he quickly lost weight. He gazed at his sister's body in the morgue, wept as he claimed the body no one else would claim, and answered questions fired by police and grand jurymen. He registered at a hotel under an assumed name.

It took less than a week for the husky salesman to crack. It was necessary for police to subdue him when the break came.

Bischoff aged many years in less than two weeks. Childless, he returned to his prison work.

Vivian Gordon kept a diary, too. The diary contains more than 200 names and their owners are being haled into private rooms and asked questions. Everything seems to have gone wrong. Men are finding that their secret affairs with a red-headed woman were not so secret. Official heads are nodding on the block as the revelations increase day by day. The man who strangled Vivian Gordon to silence her, if that was his motive, muffed his role badly. A father lost his only child. The child lost her heritage of a happy childhood and youth. Vivian Gordon not only lost her life but failed in the last burning passion of her fiery existence. She failed to regain the respect of her daughter.

"Morgan the Magnificent"

had been Morgan's habit, when in Washington, to go to the White House for a chat and a smoke.

This morning, though, there was tension. "Thank you for calling, Mr. Morgan," said Cleveland, shaking his shaggy head, "but I have decided to rely upon Congress. The Government does not desire a private loan." The meeting was soon over.

For two more vital days Congress beat the tomtoms but did nothing to put a dollar in the Treasury. On Thursday afternoon the Springer bill was buried in the House by a vote of 167 to 120. This bill authorized bonds specifically payable in gold. Even the New York World then abandoned hope for a popular loan—"The only thing left for the Administration to do is to make a loan on the best terms obtainable. That these terms will be harsh and discrediting is due as much to the willfulness and imbecility of Congress as to the incapacity of the Administration—that party leadership which is a part of its obligation to the voters who placed it in power."

Only a miracle, it appeared, could prevent suspension of the Treasury within 24 hours.

In New York Morgan received word at 3 o'clock of the failure of the Springer bill. He jammed on his hat and picked up a satchel. "Come on, Bacon," he said, "we'll take the Congressional." Fiercely staring straight before him, he brushed aside a knot of waiting newspaper men, jumped into a cab and drove to the Cortlandt street ferry. On the way to Washington, Bacon recalled, he uttered scarcely a word. News of his departure had been telegraphed ahead. He shook his head grimly when asked for a statement; received Secretary Lamont's message from the President without change of expression; and went to the Arlington.

Throughout the evening there was a constant stream of visitors. All seemed in a panic. The last callers left at midnight. Bacon went to bed. A light burned in Morgan's room until almost daylight.

WHILE he played solitaire, he thought out the problem. He had no doubt that Cleveland and Carlisle would capitulate on the morrow. But, even if they accepted the proposal, how could they overcome the legal difficulties?

As he sat alone in the small hours, his mind floating in the backwaters of introspection, a solution came to him.

He and Bacon breakfasted at nine. "Bacon," said Morgan slowly, "there is a law on the books, unless it has been repealed, which gives the Secretary of the Treasury power to purchase gold whenever the Government needs it, at the best price he can make, and to pay for it in any authorized obligations of the United States. I think the section is number four thousand and something of the Revised Statutes. It was passed, I think, in 1862 during a Civil War emergency. I remember Mr. Lincoln's sending Secretary Chase to New York, where he worked out the legislation with some of the bankers. I know the Government got gold because my house furnished some of it."

Before the meal was over the telephone rang. It was a message from the White House. The President would see Mr. Morgan.

Not even pausing to light a cigar, Morgan, with Bacon, started for the White House.

In the President's study were gathered Secretary Carlisle, Attorney-General Olney and other officials of the administration. Mr. Cleveland was curt in his greeting. He seemed worried. Morgan and Bacon sat in an inconspicuous angle of the room.

Business had begun in New York. The run on the Treasury continued. From time to time bulletins were brought into the room. All were disquieting. Several times the President reiterated his determination to resist a private bond issue. Hours passed. Finally a yellow slip was handed to Mr. Carlisle. "Mr. President," announced the Treasury chieftain, "only nine million dollars in gold is left in the New York Sub-Treasury.

Now Morgan, for the first time, broke silence. "Mr. President," he said, "the Secretary of the Treasury knows of one check outstanding for $12,000,000. If this is presented today it is all over."

Carlisle nodded confirmation. Then, and then only, did the harassed President turned to Morgan, "Have you anything to suggest, Mr. Morgan?"

Now Morgan talked rapidly and decisively. He told the President of "section number four thousand and something," Revised Statutes.

"That may help us" remarked Cleveland quietly. "Let's have a look at the law." The book of Revised Statutes was sent for. Attorney-General Olney quickly identified the section Morgan had in mind. It was number 3700. Olney read the act aloud. Passed March 17, 1862, it provided:

"The Secretary of the Treasury may purchase coin with any of the bonds or notes of the United States authorized by law, at such rates and upon such terms as he may deem most advantageous to the public interest."

The President took the book and read the act to himself, intently, amid silence that had become painful. Then Cleveland closed the thick volume. "Gentlemen," he said, "I think our problem is solved. This act seems to empower us to negotiate a bond sale at our own discretion. Congress, of course, must and shall be informed of our intention."

At once the President and his advisers took up the Morgan-Belmont syndicate proposal. The terms as originally set forth by Morgan were agreed upon. But sudden doubt assailed Mr. Cleveland. "How about this drain of gold abroad?" he asked. "Suppose the Government does purchase gold from the bankers and it is immediately withdrawn from the Treasury and sent abroad. Mr. Morgan, can you guarantee that such a thing will not happen?"

This was a consideration that had occurred to no one in the room—except, possibly, Morgan. Could any syndicate prove powerful enough to prevent foreign exchange dealers from profiting by shipping gold abroad? Morgan did not hesitate. "Mr. President, he said, "I will so guarantee."

"All right," said the President. "It is now 2 o'clock, and you gentlemen had better go out and get some lunch, while I formulate the terms of the plan for transmission to Congress so as to send it up to the Capitol without delay."

As the company rose the President said: "Mr. Morgan, will you remain while I dictate a message to Congress?"

Under its contract with the Morgan-Belmont syndicate, the Government was to receive, over a six months' period, gold worth $65,116,244 and to issue in payment $62,315,400 in bonds. The contract provided: "At least one-half of all coin deliverable hereunder shall be obtained in and shipped from Europe," and "the parties of the second part and their associates hereunder . . . as far as lies in their power, will exert all financial influence and will make all legitimate efforts to protect the Treasury of the United States against the withdrawal of gold pending the complete performance of this contract."

These provisions had never before appeared in any bond agreement between the Government and private purchasers.

THE contract provided, also, that the Government was to be permitted within 10 days to substitute at par a straight three per cent bond, provided payment should be expressly stipulated in gold. On its face this was a generous offer. It would have saved the Government $16,000,000 in interest. But there was not the slightest possibility of such provision's passing. . . .

Psychologically, the Cleveland-Morgan agreement proved instantly effective. That very Friday night, $18,000,000 in gold was taken from the strong boxes of ships in New York harbor and redeposited in the Sub-Treasury. . . .

The remarkable experiment went smoothly forward. On July 8, 1895, the Treasury gold reserve reached $107,571,230. . . . By autumn, with syndicate operation concluded, the Treasury reserve was well over $100,000,000.

Glass Walls for a New Style Bank

story by means of beautiful, colored mosaic work.

We have been very slow in making attempts to modernize bank design, although the construction of the vault, the core of the bank, was completely revolutionized some years ago. It was as a result of a bank robbery in California in 1912 that vault builders developed the present burglar proof vault.

That robbery marked the first in which a vault break was accomplished by means of the acetylene torch, and as a result of it, torch-resisting metal, principally copper, replaced manganese steel for vault construction.

Bank construction along these lines, leaving the bank building itself fairly open to invaders, makes it all the more important that the vaults be absolutely impregnable. And progress along these lines has matched progress in design.

The new safe deposit vaults of the Irving Trust Company at 1 Wall street, New York City, which recently opened, are an example. Three sides of this treasure chamber are part of the caisson walls of the building itself, and are 30 feet below water level.

The front wall is, of course, approached through the building, but it offers little hope to the prospective burglar. Its outer wall is of "steel-crete," all interlaced and bound together with electric wires, which set off numerous bells and alarms at a mere touch. There is a layer of solidified chemical which when heated gives off clouds of poisonous gas. Doors are 30 inches thick and have 20 bolts and four time locks on each.

The modern bank vault is no less secure in its roof than in its sides. For designers have foreseen the day when flying burglars may drop explosives on the roof of a bank in the hope of demolishing the vaults for waiting confederates on the ground. So the roofs of many vaults are constructed so as to withstand the weight of many tons of broken masonry and even the force of direct contact explosives.

Cousin Sylvester Goes Russian

And Futilely Points to the Futility of Everything.

"WHERE'VE you been hiding out?" I inquires of Cousin Sylvester.

"He's been writing a play," explains the missus.

"That's great," says I. "If there's anything this country needs right now it's a good 5-cent play with 4 cents worth of sex in it. What's the opus about?"

"It's a symbolic drama after the Russian," returns Sylvester, "pointing out the futility of everything and the hope that lies in nothing."

"I always have been rather hopeful about you," I remarks. "How far have you got with the thing?"

"The third act and the last half of the second are finished," comes back the wife's cousin.

"Working backward, eh?" I observes.

"Life," says Sylvester, "works backward. The moment we're born we begin to die."

"Not, however," I points out, "if you have periodical health examinations, eat a certain amount of roughage, sleep in a well-ventilated room and see that your feet are dry."

"Existence," goes on the youngster, "is in three acts—birth—suffering—death."

"Maybe," I agrees, "but you can have a swell time between the acts by going up three flights and asking for Tony."

"Who's Tony?" asks the frau.

"Tony," I replies, "is a symbol."

"Symbol," sniffs Minne. "You mean a speakeasy, don't you?"

"Perhaps," says I, "but isn't all life a speakeasy?"

"How do you figure that?" she frowns.

"Why figure it?" I shrugs. "Journeymen symbolists have compared life to everything, from a left-handed monkey wrench to the new abattoir in Elyria, Ohio, so why not a speakeasy? What are you comparing life to?" I asks Sylvester.

"To a nude climbing a cottonwood tree in the twilight of the world," he answers.

"REASONABLE enough," says I, "and I shall do my best to be out of town the night the play opens, if any. What's the plot?"

"There is no plot," says he. "Life is plotless."

"Have it your way," I assents. "How about the characters, then—what do they do?"

"There are no characters," returns Sylvester. "Life is without character, isn't it?"

"This," says I, "is going to be worth seeing—or is there going to be anything to see?"

"Plenty," he comes back, "with the mind's eye."

"It'll be just my luck," I growls, "to leave my mind's eye in my other suit on the opening night. How you going to work this play if you"——

"I haven't quite completed all the details," cuts in Sylvester, "but as it shapes up at present the curtain will rise on an empty stage—that is, it will be empty as far as humans are concerned. To the illuminati, however, it will be peopled to the point of congestion."

"I see," says I, "but what will it be to a lad with a retreating forehead like me?"

"To you," replies Sylvester, "there will be visible a table, a soap box, a crib and the suggestion of a body swinging outside the window. For 15 minutes you will be permitted to develop the action."

"What action?" I asks.

"The action," explains young cyanide, "suggested by the objects—poverty, despair, a suicide, a birth"——

"Lovely," says I, "but suppose Joe Doaks and Eli Glimish, a couple of cash customers, build a different story out of the junk on the stage. Isn't the rest of the play going to be a total loss to one of 'em?"

"Only one story can be built," returns Sylvester. "What other?"

"Well," says I, "personally I'd figure that the bozo swinging outside the window was a lad who'd gotten in Dutch with the boys of Bar X ranch for stealing sheep from Lottie Zilch, the rancher's daughter, while she was riding through the night to save her lover from the machinations of the dance hall girl over at Rio Frio"——

"It's quite simple," returns Sylvester. "A Russian of good family had been living in sin and squalor with a woman of low station. He kills her"——

"How," I cuts in, "do we in the audience know that he kills her?"

"There's no woman on the stage, or any suggestion of one, is there?" comes back the youngster.

"No," says I, "and there's no suggestion of the Toledo Fire Department or the ride of Paul Revere, either. Why couldn't the Russian woman have gone on a visit to her Aunt Vanya McGoldrick in Tobolsk or down to the station to meet a zither salesman from Omsk?"

"The very sordidness of the scene," points out Sylvester, "would signify a murder to those familiar with the workings of the symbolic."

"It's possible," I concedes, "but if I were you, heaven forbid, I'd make the point a bit clearer."

"In the second act," reveals Sylvester, "we are on a wild steppe in the Urals at twilight. The scene is unrelieved except for a cottonwood tree, on which is perched a raven."

"What," I inquires, "does this represent—a mass meeting of vegetarians in a butcher shop?"

"It represents futility," explains the author. "We are to assume that the child who was in the crib in the first act has set forth to snatch at the hem of life, and what does he get?"

"Magnolia," I offers a venture.

"Emptiness," says Sylvester. "A void of ash and hollow bitterness. After all, isn't life like that?"

"I don't know," says I. "What are you calling this piece of yours?"

"Fish Don't Climb Flagpoles," he returns. "Is that a provocative title, or isn't it?"

"Considering what the play's about," I comes back, "the title's much too good for it. You really think that life's so futile and bleak?"

"I do," replies Sylvester. "What are we but angle worms wiggling under the heel of a dying yesterday?"

"I'd have to consult my lawyer about that," says I. "In the meantime, I'm hungry. What've you got to eat, Minnie?"

"Boiled beef," returns the missus. "You like it, don't you, Sylvester?"

"I love it," he declares, "with horseradish sauce."

Maud Muller, on a Summer's Day, Arrives in Hollywood

To Appear in that New Super-Production, "Her Farmhand Lover."

LOS ANGELES, February 23.
Mr. Joseph L. Birch,
New York Office,
Supreme Pictures, Inc.

Dear Joe: I have read this poem "Maud Muller" which A. R. wants us to use for Miss May's next starring vehicle. I must say I don't think much of it. The poem lacks punch, conflict, suspense and, in fact, every desirable element that a good picture ought to have. It would afford very little opportunity for the kind of work the public expects of Maybelle May.

As I get it, this girl Maud Muller is a farmer's daughter and the "big scene" of the picture would be where the Judge rides up and asks her to get him a drink of water. A pretty weak climax. The ending is unhappy, and you know as well as I do that such pictures do not gross anywhere near as much as the others. Are you sure you referred me to the right poem? Yours,

KAMP STEVENS.

NEW YORK, March 4.
Mr. C. Kamp Stevens,
Los Angeles Studios.

Dear Steve: There is no mistake about the poem. I have talked again with A. R. and he says it is a very well known and high class poem and that you are to go ahead and have it dramatized. You can make the ending happy and institute any other changes you deem advisable. A. R. suggests you work up a conflict through a triangle, using Durward Drake for the leading man and Gregory Gotch for the heavy. Yours, JOSEPH L. BIRCH.

LOS ANGELES, March 20.
Mr. Joseph L. Birch,
New York Office.

Dear Joe: We have completed our script for the Maud Muller picture and I am outlining it for you herewith.

The action opens in Frisco in 1912. George Burton and Adolph Muller are business associates and intimate friends. Burton persuades Muller to invest his entire fortune in a deal that turns out badly. Muller thinks he was double-crossed and breaks off their relationship. A ruined man, he leaves the city and settles down on a small farm with his wife and infant daughter, Maud.

We jump to the present day. Burton's son, John, is kicked out of collage after an escapade and the old man cuts off his allowance. John wanders into the country and happens to get a job on Muller's farm. He assumes the name of John Stallings.

John falls in love with Maud Muller. We show them going to a picnic and a barn dance and reading to each other in the shade of an apple tree.

Next we introduce this hay-raking scene wherein Maud meets the good-looking stranger, as per poem. We are not making him a Judge as he is the heavy in the picture. Instead we are making him a crook. Also, we are giving him an automobile for a vehicle instead of a horse.

The stranger, whom we call Charlie Marshall, drops around for three days in a row, asking Maud to fetch him drinks of water. John objects to Marshall, but Maud falls for him, as he has every outward appearance of being a wealthy, cultured gentleman.

Early one morning old man Muller discover's John's real identity through an envelope bearing the return address of George Burton. He orders John off the place.

Just as John is leaving the yard the Sheriff drives up and asks whether anything has been seen of a tall, slender, good-looking young fellow with a black mustache. It develops that the bank was robbed during the night and that somebody caught a glimpse of this man leaving the building.

The next moment Mrs. Muller comes bolting through the door in a frenzy. She has found a note from Maud, in which Maud reveals that she eloped at dawn with Charlie Marshall. John suddenly realizes that Marshall is the missing bank robber.

He hops into the Sheriff's car and orders him to step on the gas. They dash down the highway after the elopers. There is a thrilling chase. Finally the Sheriff catches up to Marshall's car and forces it off the road. It crashes into a tree.

John and Marshall engage in a terrific battle and John knocks his man out with a solid blow on the jaw. Maud runs sobbing to John's arms. In the wrecked car, meanwhile, the Sheriff has found a suitcase chock full of crisp new banknotes.

We close with a pretty wedding in the village church. The fathers of the two young people have been reconciled. The honeymooners taxi to the station, climb aboard their train and go into a clinch on the rear platform. The train recedes into the distance and we fade out.

We will probably name the picture "Her Farmhand Lover." With kind regards.

C. KAMP STEVENS.

NEW YORK, March 28.
Mr. C. Kamp Stevens,
Los Angeles Studios.

Dear Steve: I want to congratulate you on the splendid way you have handled the Maud Muller picture. Both A. R. and myself believe it will prove a real box office wow. We have only one criticism. In several scenes you show Maud raking hay. It hardly seems consistent, in this day, to have a beautiful young girl doing manual labor on an American farm. Would suggest that you have her feeding chickens instead. With kind regards,

JOSEPH L. BIRCH.

READY FOR BED

How new greaseless skin softener is ending night cream discomfort for women everywhere. Why it banishes dry, scaly look . . . brings satin-smooth, dewy skin.

. . . because she said good-bye to old-type greasy creams!

THE OLD WAY . . . No need now to smooth towel over pillow for fear of grease on linen! New greaseless softening cream contains no heavy oils to make you uncomfortable . . . unattractive . . . at night.

It's a new type of skin softener women everywhere are changing to!

A light delicate cream you apply at night . . . it is utterly unlike the old-type "greasy" softening creams. Hence you retire with face smooth and lovely.

No need to smooth towel over pillow for fear of grease on linen. No need to be unattractive . . . uncomfortable with grease on face, in hair.

You simply smooth cream well into skin for a moment, and behold! your face is left soft, velvety, utterly greaseless.

What it does

Absorbed rapidly by the skin, this new cream works through the night, counteracting dryness, tight, drawn feeling of skin, scaliness, tired look.

Skillfully compounded of finest ingredients, it keeps skin soft, satin-smooth, dewy.

A strict departure from ordinary softening creams, Texture Cream not only softens and lubricates dry skins, but positively will not over-stimulate oily areas.

Good for "Deceptive Skin"

Hence it is used with remarkable success by the "Deceptive Type" skin, which shows both dry and oily symptoms.

Note: Many women, in attempting to keep skin softened and lubricated, find creams increasing the oily condition around nose, chin, and forehead. Hinds Texture Cream will not do this.

Of exquisite composition, this new cream resembles a delicate, fluffy, whipped cream. Observe, please the total absence of "greasiness" you see in many creams.

How to use

At night, after cleansing face and neck, smooth Hinds Texture Cream well into skin, a little at a time until it disappears. Wipe off any surplus moisture and skin is left satin-smooth and greaseless.

Or use mornings when working around house. Thus you are freed from embarrassment of "greasy" face when answering doorbell. Skin is protected from housework's dirt and dust.

Costs no more

Consider, too, that this exquisite new cream costs no more than ordinary "greasy" creams.

You get it at all drug and department stores. Price 10c and 65c. Buy Hinds Texture Cream today.

DRAMATIC TEST at well-known New York laboratory proves three new Hinds products equal in quality to similar products of expensive lines bearing famous "individual" names and selling at prices two to eight times more than they do.

New Way to End Large Pores

Now comes a new and vastly better way of pore-refining!

Scientists have been working on it for three years at the Hinds laboratories.

It's a way that not only refines pores, but does so in a remarkably short time.

You accomplish this by means of a liquid which is both a cleanser and a solvent. Hinds Toning Cleanser, it is called.

Dissolves pore residue

First, it thoroughly cleans surface of skin. Then it enters pores and dissolves out accumulated pore residue. Relieved of this residue, pores shrink back to normal size.

Observe how skin is left cool, clean, exhilarated. Use after cleansing cream to remove all traces of grease, all lingering particles of dirt, dust, make-up.

Cleans skin

Use during day to cleanse skin when renewing make-up. Make-up then applied gives you the lustrous look of glowing health.

Note, please, the new delicate skin texture, the vivid cleanness, regular use of Hinds Toning Cleanser brings you. Price 65¢.

Why Bother With "Lard-Like" Cleansing Creams . . .

when there's a remarkable new liquefying cream that melts at skin heat?

The moment you apply, it melts, penetrates pores, removes all dirt, dust, make-up.

Observe how gently it frees skin of impurities, leaving it clean and soothed.

Thus you avoid the danger of pore enlargement which comes with heavy cleansing creams that require vigorous rubbing to penetrate.

You get it in two sizes, 10¢ and 65¢. Ask for Hinds Cleansing Cream. At all drug and department stores.

ELLA CINDERS

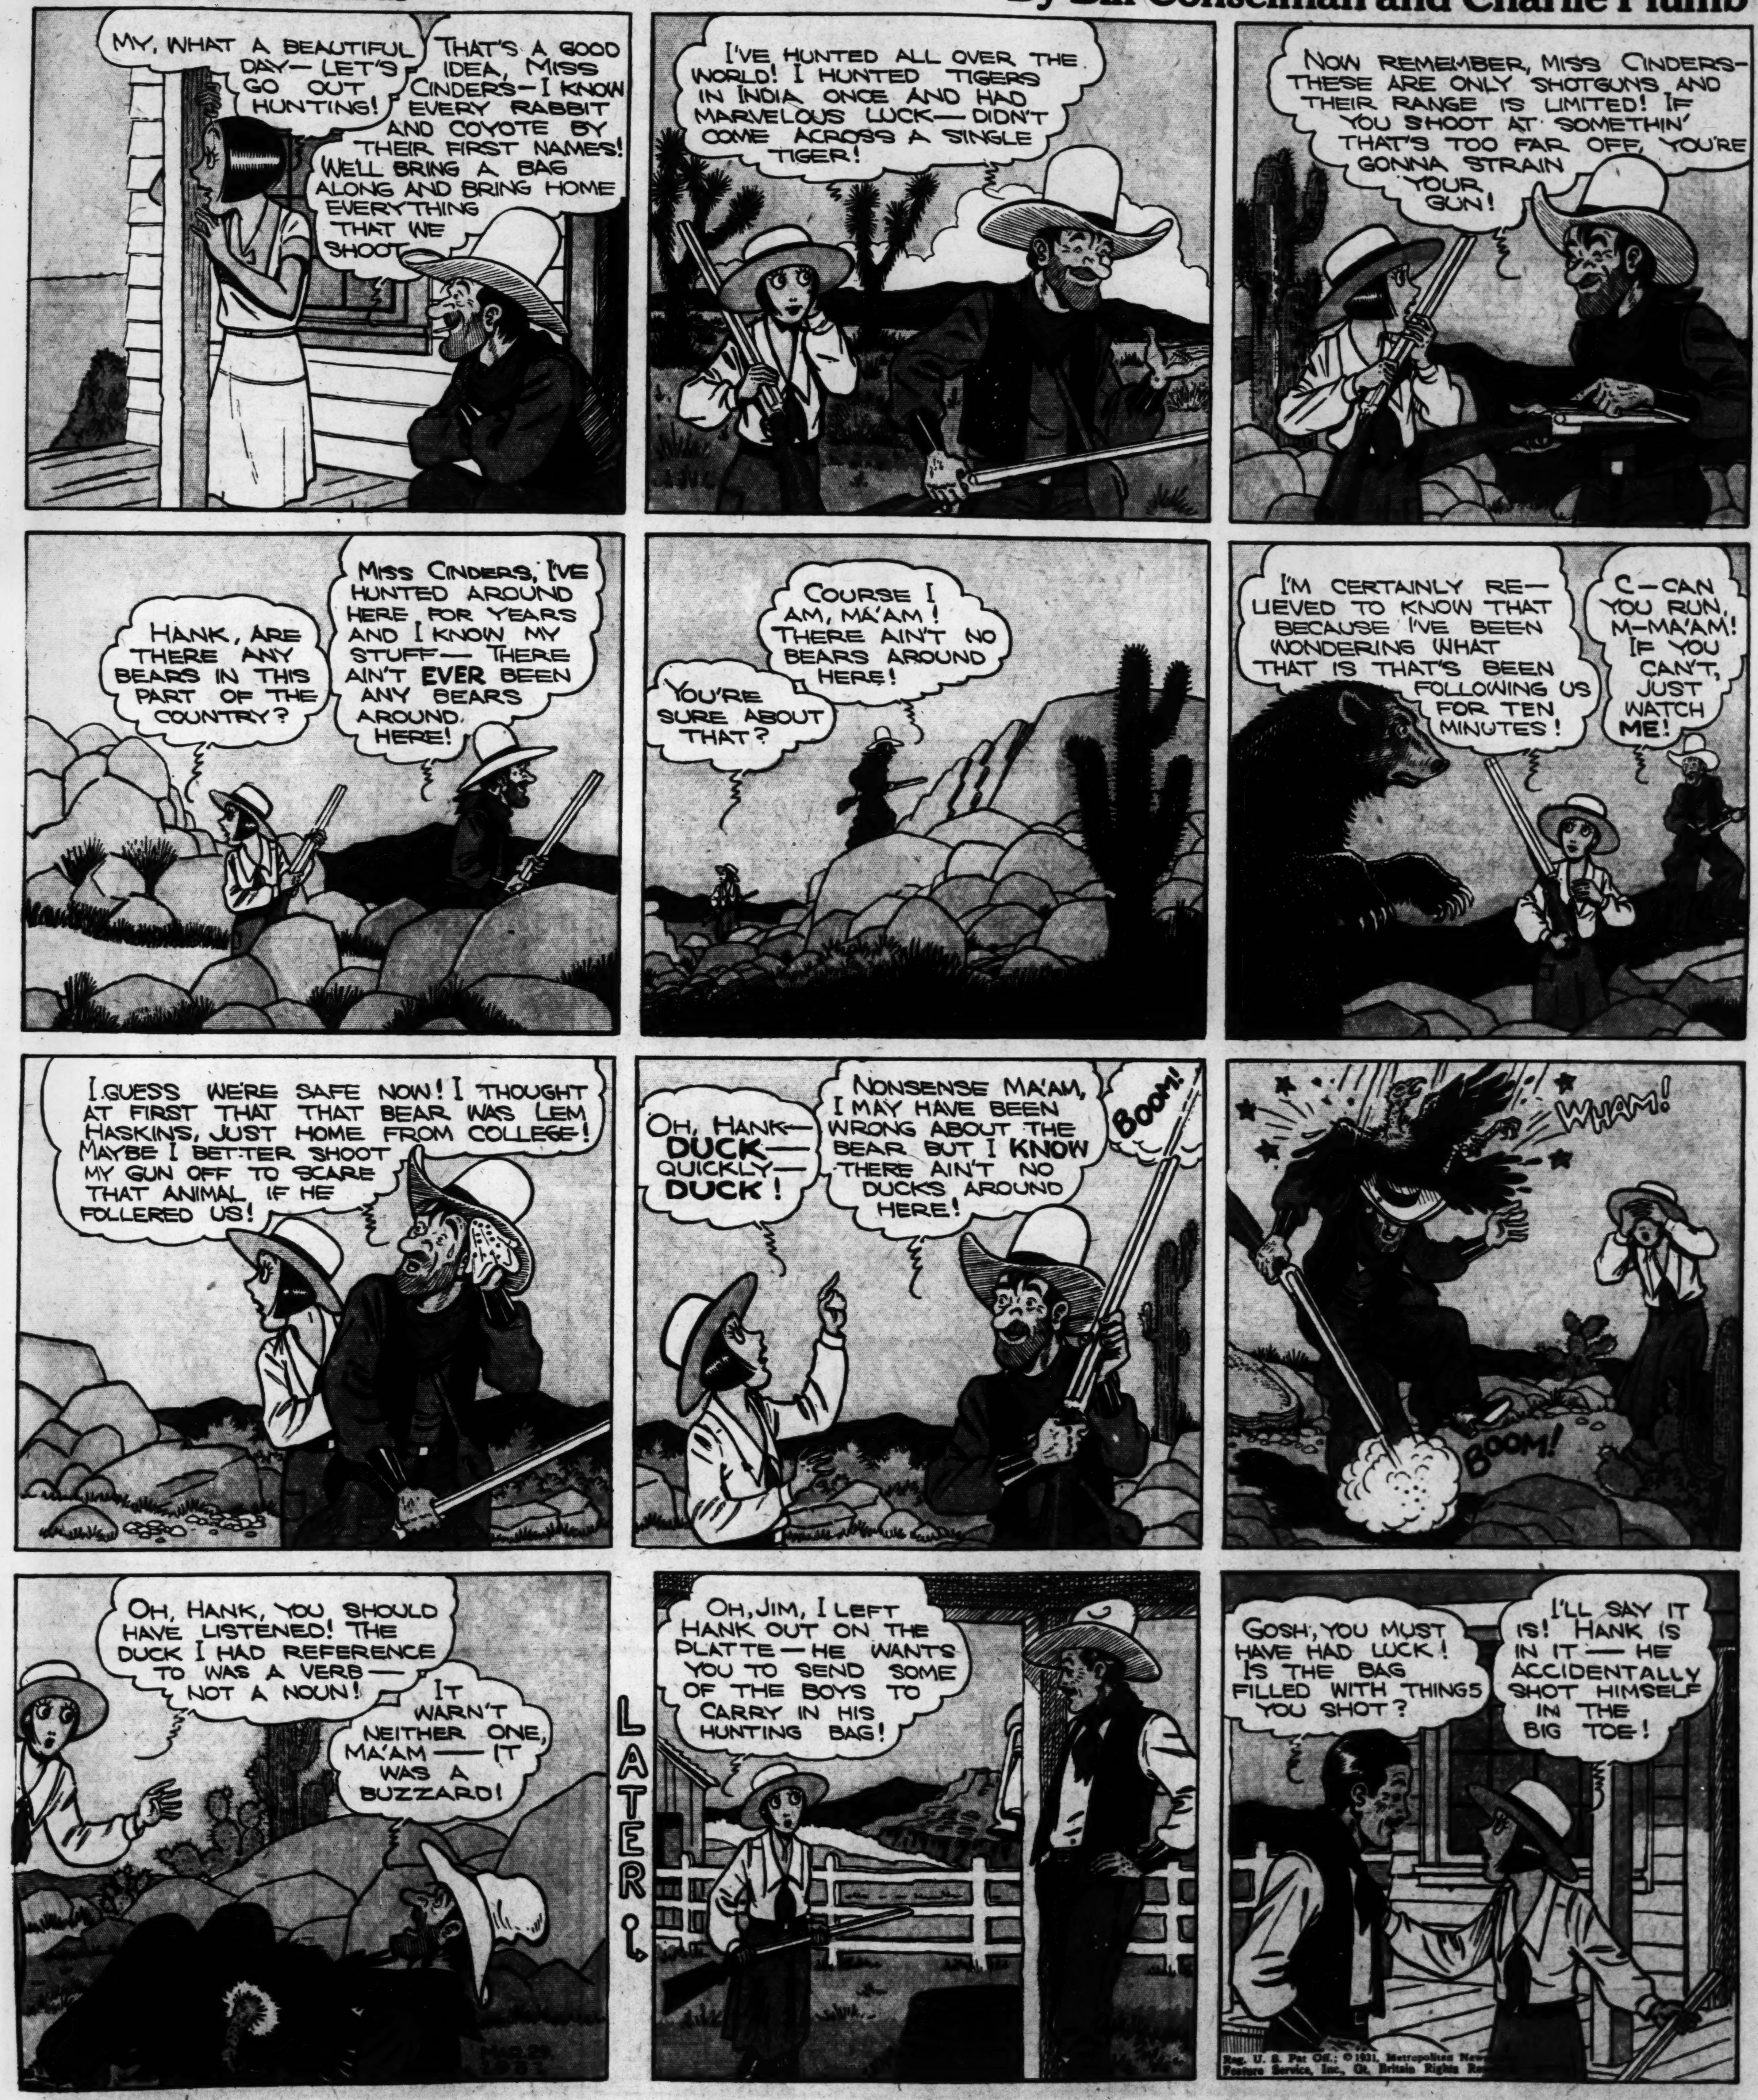
This comic appears every day in the daily Post-Dispatch

By Bill Conselman and Charlie Plumb



MY, WHAT A BEAUTIFUL DAY— LET'S GO OUT HUNTING!
THAT'S A GOOD IDEA, MISS CINDERS—I KNOW EVERY RABBIT AND COYOTE BY THEIR FIRST NAMES! WE'LL BRING A BAG ALONG AND BRING HOME EVERYTHING THAT WE SHOOT.
I'VE HUNTED ALL OVER THE WORLD! I HUNTED TIGERS IN INDIA ONCE AND HAD MARVELOUS LUCK— DIDN'T COME ACROSS A SINGLE TIGER!
NOW REMEMBER, MISS CINDERS— THESE ARE ONLY SHOTGUNS AND THEIR RANGE IS LIMITED! IF YOU SHOOT AT SOMETHIN' THAT'S TOO FAR OFF, YOU'RE GONNA STRAIN YOUR GUN!
HANK, ARE THERE ANY BEARS IN THIS PART OF THE COUNTRY?
MISS CINDERS, I'VE HUNTED AROUND HERE FOR YEARS AND I KNOW MY STUFF— THERE AIN'T EVER BEEN ANY BEARS AROUND HERE!
YOU'RE SURE ABOUT THAT?
COURSE I AM, MA'AM! THERE AIN'T NO BEARS AROUND HERE!
I'M CERTAINLY RELIEVED TO KNOW THAT BECAUSE I'VE BEEN WONDERING WHAT THAT IS THAT'S BEEN FOLLOWING US FOR TEN MINUTES!
C—CAN YOU RUN, M—MA'AM! IF YOU CAN'T, JUST WATCH ME!
I GUESS WE'RE SAFE NOW! I THOUGHT AT FIRST THAT THAT BEAR WAS LEM HASKINS, JUST HOME FROM COLLEGE! MAYBE I BETTER SHOOT MY GUN OFF TO SCARE THAT ANIMAL IF HE FOLLERED US!
OH, HANK— DUCK— QUICKLY— DUCK!
NONSENSE MA'AM, I MAY HAVE BEEN WRONG ABOUT THE BEAR BUT I KNOW THERE AIN'T NO DUCKS AROUND HERE!
WHAM!
OH, HANK, YOU SHOULD HAVE LISTENED! THE DUCK I HAD REFERENCE TO WAS A VERB— NOT A NOUN!
IT WARN'T NEITHER ONE, MA'AM— IT WAS A BUZZARD!
Mar. 29. 1931
LATER
OH, JIM, I LEFT HANK OUT ON THE PLATTE— HE WANTS YOU TO SEND SOME OF THE BOYS TO CARRY IN HIS HUNTING BAG!
GOSH, YOU MUST HAVE HAD LUCK! IS THE BAG FILLED WITH THINGS YOU SHOT?
I'LL SAY IT IS! HANK IS IN IT— HE ACCIDENTALLY SHOT HIMSELF IN THE BIG TOE!

Registered U. S. Patent Office.
I BANE WERRY STRONG = I CAN DO EVERYTHING!
I'M SORRY = GOOD DAY = $3.00 IS THE BEST I CAN DO.
WHAT'S THE MATTER NOW? DIDN'T YOU HIRE THAT MAID?
I NEVER HEARD OF SUCH A THING! I WOULDN'T MIND IF THERE HAD BEEN A LOT OF WORK--- BUT---
JUST TO DO THE COOKING, BAKING, WASHING, CLEANING AND A FEW OTHER THINGS LIKE CHOPPING THE WOOD SHE HAD THE AUDACITY TO ASK FOR $5.00 A WEEK!
TSK! TSK! PREPOSTEROUS!
BUT DAUGHTER OH!
HARRY, I'M NEARLY FRANTIC! THE MAID THREATENS TO QUIT IF WE DON'T GIVE HER $20.00 AND FOUR NIGHTS OFF EACH WEEK.
WELL, WE'LL HAVE TO GIVE IT TO HER ---- THAT'S ALL
.... AND NOT ONLY THAT, BUT SHE INSISTS ON ANOTHER MAID TO DO THE DUSTING! SHE SAYS THE DUST IS INJURIOUS TO HER SKIN!
